NOTICE.

WHEN, in 1871, the Third Volume of this work was published, a hope was entertained that the Second, which had been delayed by the illness of the Editor, might soon follow it. The death of Mr. Haddan, by which the whole Church of England suffers a severe loss, has summarily disappointed that expectation. The present portion of the work, comprising the documentary history of three out of the four Churches whose records were to form the second volume, was completed by Mr. Haddan some time before his death; and a small part of the eighth, the Irish, division, had likewise passed through the Press. As some considerable delay must occur before this can be finished, it has seemed good to publish at once the first half of the volume. It has a completeness of its own, and although illustrating and illustrated by the portion that is to follow, may very well be given to the world by itself. This is now done in accordance with the expressed wishes of some of the most eminent Scottish antiquaries. The remainder of the volume will be proceeded with as soon as possible.

VICTRICIUS ROTOMAGENSIS, Lib. de Laude Sanctorum, c. 1. [c. A.D. 396.]—Mea quidem, sancti venerandique martyres, quantum reor, apud vos venabilis excusatio tarditatis est. Nam quod ad Britannias profectus sum, quod ibi moratus sum, vestrorum fecit excusatio [? executio] præceptorum. Pacis me faciendæ [adjudoren] consacerdotes mei salutares Antistites evocarunt. Hoc negare non poteram, qui vobis militabam. Non est deesse obsequiis, obedire præceptis. Merito virtutis ubique vos esse novi: nullo enim terrarum spatio cælestis claritudo fraudatur. Ignoscere ergo debetis, quod in quadragesimo tantum: lapide poene tardus occurri. Vobis intra Britannias obsequabar; et Oceani circumfluo separatus, vestro tamen detinebar officio. Dilatio ista desiderium meum hæsit, non prætermisit obsequium. Ego tamen totum vestræ tribuo majestati, quia vos estis corpus Christi, et Spiritus Divinus est Qui habitat in vobis: vestrum est, quod abfui, vestrum est quod redi. Superest ergo ut excusationis mee ratio digeratur. Pacis Domini estis auctores, cuius me sententiæ velut interpretem delegistis. Hoc ego Domini Jesu et vestrini salutare præceptum intra Britannias exercui, si non ut debui, tamen ut potui. Sapientibus amorem pacis infudi, docilibus legi, nescientibus inculcavi, ingressi nolentibus; secundum Apostolum, “instans opportune, importune;” atque in eorum animas doctrina et palpatione perveni. Ubi me tamen locus et fragilitas humana tentavit, vestri spiritus præsidium flagitavi. Feci quod in maxima vi tempestatis faciunt illi qui navigant: non gubernatoris peritiam, sed misericordiam supernæ Majestatis implorant. Fluctus enim consternere, et ventis modum adhibere, Jesus Qui in vobis est valet; ars terrena non novit. (Galland., VIII. 228.)

p. 39. Add to "2. SEPULCHRAL MONUMENTS," as follows:—

v. In A.D. 1869 a sarcophagus was found in excavating the Green on the north side of Westminster Abbey, with a cross cut upon the entire length of its upper lid, and on the side, in letters of the 3rd or beginning of 4th century,

MEMORIAE · VALER · AMAN
DINI · VALERI · SVPERVEN TOR · ET · MARCELLVS PATRI FECER.

But the nature of the skeleton found within, and the form of the cross, &c., make it most probable, that about the 11th or 12th century the old Roman sarcophagus had been made use of for the burial of some one else, and that the cross belongs to this later date. See Arch. Journ., June 1870, pp. 103–128; and later numbers.

p. 44. Add,—

p. 44, line 1. For "A.D. 450–547," read "A.D. 453–547."

pp. 127 sq. These Canones Wallici are also in (the burned and restored MS.) Otho E. XIII. fol. 156a–157b, in part, and in a different order, and with a text agreeing (so far as it goes) with that of MS. Bigot., but mixed up with canons from other sources, as e. g. Adamnan, and entitled (if the title belongs to the whole series) SINODUS ROMANA, INCIPINT PAUCA COLUMELLI: which seems to connect them with Ireland. But the MS. is not only injured by burning to a very great extent, but has been completely misarranged in the process of restoration. The bulk of it consists of the Cod. Can. Ilib, so often referred to, but put together in utter disorder, and with Adamnan's canons and others (besides a tract of a totally different kind) mixed up haphazard with it.

p. 153. 2. BAPTISM.—Dr. Rock (Arch. Journ. for 1869) argues from the Stowe Missal, that the real difference between the Roman and the British Baptismal rites was, that the latter added at the end of the Baptism a washing of the feet of the newly baptized; and perhaps also, that they administered the Unction in a slightly different way.

p. 167. Add at end of page,—"For the Turpilian stone near Crickhowel, and its Oghams, see Arch. Camb., 4th Ser., April 1871, pp. 158 sq.: where they are deciphered into NOCAT IMAQ IMAQ IRET (=son of Nocat, son of iret), and TVRPILLI."

p. 169. Add after no. 4,—

5. Near Llanboidy in Caernarthenshire, on a pillar, but without any cross—

FILII BARCVNI.

Arch. Camb., 4th Ser., April 1871, pp. 140 sq.

p. 204, note <sup>c</sup>. Add,—Possibly Bishop "Ethelwin," at Winchenhale A.D. 787 to meet the Roman Legates, was Elbod of Gwynedd. Those Legates went north to Mercia and "Britannia." See vol. III. pp. 461, 462.

p. 286. Add, from Guentian Brut y Tywysog, A.D. 961 (Arch. Camb. 3rd Ser., X. p. 28).—Monastery of the Fords (y Rhydan) founded in this year.

Rescript of Pope Alexander III. to the Bishop of Hereford.*—Non valet consuetudo quod extra statuta tempora sacri ordines conferantur.—Condemns the custom prevalent in certain Scottish and Welsh dioceses, of ordaining clerks on the occasion of consecrating churches or altars, at other times than in the Ember weeks.

p. 384, note <sup>a</sup>. Kerry, but not the remainder of the deanery of Elvael, was made over to S. Asaph in A.D. 1861.

p. 388. Add,—

<sup>a</sup> This is the sole mention of Culdees in connection with Wales. It seems doubtful whether there were any in Bardsey A.D. 1120 (vol. I. p. 315). And in A.D. 1252, possibly in A.D. 1202, Bardsey was Benedictine (vol. I. pp. 419, 480).

CHURCH OF CUMBRIA OR STRATHCLYDE.

A. D. 600-1188.

PERIOD THE FIRST.

UNTIL THE KINGDOM OF STRATHCLYDE<sup>a</sup> WAS UNITED TO THAT OF SCOTLAND, A.D. 600-908.

[A.D. 600-685. English Cumbria gradually severed from British dominion by Northumbrian conquest<sup>b</sup>; and Scottish Cumbria shut in west of the water-shed from Peel Fell to the Pentlands, and for some years prior to A.D. 685 subject altogether to Northumbria<sup>c</sup>.

A.D. 685-779. Scottish Cumbria again for a time independent, but further dismembered by Northumbrian conquest on the side of Galloway and Ayr, limited to the valley of the Clyde, and at length subdued again by Angles and Picts<sup>d</sup>.

A.D. 704. Cumbrians probably adopt the Roman Easter.

A.D. 803-870. Anglian rule ceases over Galloway, and perhaps, for a while, as far south as Carlisle. The Strathclyde princes possibly reclaim the district; but it was probably in a state of anarchy, and gradually occupied by colonists from north Ireland<sup>e</sup>.

[M. H. B. 831.]

<sup>a</sup> For the 12th century Lives of S. Kentigern, see vol. I. p. 157. His date is fixed by his connection with Rydderch King of Strathclyde ("Rodericus filius Tothail, qui in Petra Clauitae regnavit," Adamn. in V. S. Columbae), who is fixed by the genealogies to A.D. 573-601 (Skene, Chron. Pref. xxv.). And this agrees with the legendary connection between him and S. David, and again between him and S. Columba (with whom he exchanged staves, according to Jocelyn); and with the date above given for his death. His diocese must have been coextensive with Rydderch's kingdom, i. e. from Clyde to Mersey, and from the sea to the hills that form the watershed; and was therefore in the south conterminous with the diocese of S. Asaph (which during his temporary expulsion from Strathclyde he is said to have founded), and in the north included all that was afterwards the diocese of Glasgow, and very possibly indeed extended from sea to sea (Jocel. V. S. Kenteg.). Accordingly he fixed his see at one time for eight years at Hoddam in Dumfriesshire; and churches are dedicated in his name in Cumberland, as at Crosthwaite; and at Borthwick, Penicuik, Crichton, and Currie, in Mid-Lothian (at the first of which last list of places he is also said to have set up a cross of sea sand, Jocel. ib.); as well as at Glasgow (where was a stone cross). Borthwick however (then called Locherworth or Locherwart) was one of the earliest gifts to the revived see in the time of David (Reg. Glasg. no. 11), but Midlothian was not included within its then boundaries. Such a diocese would not be larger than the Saxon one which was as it were its counterpart a century after, and for which Wilfrid fought so tenaciously.

[ENCROACHMENTS UPON IT BY WILFRID AND THE NORTHUMBRIANS.]

Of course it was speedily encroached upon by Northumbrian conquest, beginning almost within a year or two of S. Kentegern's death. The cathedral was, as usual, near, but not at, the civil capital, Alclwyd or Dunbarton, viz. at "Glasghu" or "Deschu," formerly called "Cathures" (Jocelyn). If S. Monenna (ob. A.D. 517, according to Reeves, Adamn. 177) really built a church, among other places in Scotland, at "Chil-ne-case, in Galuiec" (Life in Ussher, Antiq. Brit. Ecc., Works, VI. 249); whether this was (as is probable) Whithern itself, or Kilcaiss (now Kincaise) in the parish of Prestwick in Kyle, co. Ayr (Chalm. Caled., III. 496, see also above in vol. I. pp. 120, 121); S. Kentegern may well have sought to restore S. Ninian's decayed but scarcely extinct church

(so Jocelyn), only transferring the centre of his preaching to the neighbourhood of the new capital. Later boundaries (as those implied in the "Inquisitio Davidis," about A.D. 1120, or in the claims of the Bishops of Glasgow at that period, or assumed in Jocelyn's Life belonging to the same period, or alleged in the tracts on the English claims upon the Scotch side in Skene, one of which confounds Glasgow with Galwidia, Skene 255, as does also Fordun, XI. 52) belong really to the revived 10th century principality of Strathclyde or Cumbria. Kentegern's staff, as said to have been given to him by Columba, was exhibited in Ripon Minister in the end of the 14th century (Fordun, III. 30; Reeves's Adamnan, 324).

EDDIUS, V. W., XVII.—Erat quippe Deo placabile donum, quod religiosi Reges tam multas terras Deo ad serviendum pontifici nostro conscripserunt. Et hæc sunt nomina regionum, juxta Rippel<sup>a</sup>, et in Gaedyne, et in regione Dunitinga, et in Caetlevum, in cæterisque locis. [ed. Gale, p. 60.]

Cocker. See also above in vol. I. pp. 124, 125.

A.D. 680. Council of Rome. Wilfrid claims to answer for the Catholic faith of the Britons, Scots, and Picts, as well as Angles, dwelling in "the northern part of Britain and of Hibernia and in the Islands<sup>a</sup>." [See below, vol. III. p. 140, under the Anglo-Saxon Church.]

<sup>a</sup> The words of Wilfrid's subscription to the Council scarcely mean that he claimed to be Bishop of those for whose faith he pledged himself. Yet for some years after A.D. 670, and up to A.D. 685, the Britons of Strathclyde and some of the Picts beyond the Forth certainly, and on one interpretation of an ambiguous sentence in Bede (IV. 26) the Dalriad Scots also, were subject to the Northumbrian King (see above, p. 3, note <sup>c</sup>). And Wilfrid would be certain to claim a diocese coextensive with the Northumbrian kingdom, even to its most recent or temporary conquests; as he did, e. g., on the south of the Humber in the case of Lindsey. The statement therefore of Richard of Hexham (see below under A.D. 685, note <sup>a</sup>) may have a foundation of truth in it. That he really as Bishop exercised actual authority over Britons or Scots or Picts, is improbable; especially considering that none of the three, nor yet the northern Irish, had adopted the Roman customs in A.D. 680. Trumwine, however, at Abercorn, for the few years he was there, probably had something more than the mere name of Bishop over the Picts within his jurisdiction. The conquest of Cuningham by the Northumbrians in A.D. 696 implies also that Anglian conquest had been creeping round Galloway for some time before; having certainly included Carlisle before A.D. 685, although no doubt checked in that year for the moment by Ecgfrith's defeat and death. And both northern and southern Cumbria were still probably Briton in the bulk of their population. So that here again Wilfrid certainly had Britons within his diocese.

[ENGLISH CUMBRIA SEVERED FROM GLASGOW.]

SIM. DUN. Hist. S. Cuthb.—Rex Ecgfridus et Theodorus Archiepiscopus dederunt S. Cuthberto ..... villam quæ vocatur Creca; ..... et quia videbatur parva terra, adjecit civitatem quæ vocatur Luel [i. e. Carlisle], quæ habet in circuitu quindecim milliaria, et in eadem civitate posuit congregationem sanctimonialium, et abbatissem ordinavit, et scholas constituit. Postquam vero S. Cuthbertus suscitavit puerum a mortuis in villa quæ vocatur Exanforda, dedit ei Rex Ecgfridus terram quæ vocatur Cartmel et omnes Britanni cum ea, et villam illam quæ vocatur Suth-Gedluyt<sup>b</sup>, etc. [Twysd. 69: see also ib. 5.]

see of Hexham (Ricb. Hagust. c. V.)]; or again, from the Alne to the Tees, to Hexham, which last diocese reached west into modern Cumberland as far as to Wetherall on the Eden (Ricb. Hagust., ib.), but (as appears from Sim. Dun., above) no further. Hexham see came to an end in A.D. 821. The (possible) see of Ripon with its one (possible) Bishop, Eadhæd, from A.D. 681, would apparently have claimed, if it ever existed, some part of the more southern British spoils. Ricb. Hagust., c. VI. (as is said above), includes the "Britones," i. e. some at least of those of Strathclyde, in Wilfrid's original and undivided diocese of York; and also the "Scots of Lindisfarne" and the "Picts" (whom he of course supposed to have lived in Galloway at that time) of Candida Casa. But in the first, as certainly in the last case, he probably wrote after the belief, and the disputes, of his own time. See above, under A.D. 680.

Hibernia, et nonnulla etiam de Brittonibus in Brittania, rationabile et ecclesiasticum Paschalis observantiae tempus Domino donante suscepit. [M. H. B. 265.]

<sup>a</sup> The death of Adamnan, with whose efforts to bring Iona to adopt the Roman Easter the above statement is connected, brings the date to A.D. 704 (see Lappenberg, Anglo-Sax., I. Pref. xxxvi. n.). And this excludes all other Britons except those of Strath-clyde, who are also naturally connected with their neighbour Adamnan. The Britons of Damnonia are mentioned separately by Bede (V. 18). And Aldhelm's letter, by which these were (partially) converted, appears to be dated in A.D. 705. See also below, under A.D. 721.

A.D. 721. A Bishop of Strathclyde (?) at a Roman Council<sup>a</sup>.

CONC. ROM. SUB GREGORIO II. (subscriptt.).—Sedulius, Episcopus Britanniæ de genere Scottorum, huic constituto a nobis promulgato subscripti. [Labb., VI. 1458.]

<sup>a</sup> An Irishman by name and nation might well be Bishop of Glasgow or Strathclyde in A.D. 721. And the nationality and the locality of Sedulius' companion, and therefore probably neighbour—"Fergusius Episcopus Scotiæ Pictus"—certainly suggest Strathclyde as the "Britannia" which was his see. His presence at Rome also proves the schism ended, as regards the "Britannia" which he represented. And he was therefore neither Cornish nor Welsh, i. e. he was Cumbrian or of Strathclyde. There is no reliable evidence of diocesless Bishops among the Britons: see above, in vol. I. p. 143: although in A.D. 721, Fergusius, a Pictish Bishop among the Scots, probably was in that condition.

A.D. 730-803. Anglian See of Whitherne or Candida Casa<sup>a</sup>.

BÆD. H. E., V. 23.—Pecthelm in ea [Ecclesia], quæ Candida Casa vocatur, [præsulatum tenet]; quæ nuper, multiplicatis fidelium plebis, in sedem pontificatus addita, ipsum primum habet antistitem. [M. H. B. 284.]

<sup>a</sup> Bede writes this in A.D. 731; but the conquest of Cunningham in A.D. 696, and the probabilities of the case, show that Northumbrians had penetrated along the western side of Strathclyde some forty years before. They had now become numerous enough to require a separate Bishop; having no doubt belonged to Lindisfarne previously, and perhaps to Wilfrid when at York (see above, p. 5, note <sup>a</sup>). But Wilfrid's Picts were of course those of whom Trunwine had charge, not any imaginary Picts of Galloway at this period. That Trunwine's see was Abercorn and not Candida Casa, and that he ruled over Picts north of the Forth, and not over Galloway, is plain by Bede, in spite of the list at the end of some MSS. of Flor. Wig. There is a tradition in Ricb. Hagust., c. XV., that Acca Bishop of Hexham, upon quitting that see in

A.D. 732-733, "Episcopalem sedem in Candida Casa incepit et preparaverit." Pecthelm (see S. Bonif. Epist. 39, Würdtw., below in vol. III. p. 310) died A.D. 735, and was succeeded in the same year by Frithwald (Flor. Wig.); and Acca's successor at Hexham was consecrated in A.D. 734, although he himself survived until A.D. 740: so that the story must remain unexplained, if it is to be accepted at all. The Anglian succession at Candida Casa lasted until Badulf or Baldwulf or Bealdwlf, the last Bishop (W. Malm. G. P. A., III.), who certainly lived until A.D. 803 (Sim. Dun.). Heathored, who follows him in the so-called Florence's list, is obviously a confusion with a Bishop of Lindisfarne in A.D. 821, of the same name, who is omitted by that list in his right place. How far attempts were made to perpetuate the succession after Badulf does not appear. Very possibly Heathored of Lindisfarne may have tried to join or rejoin the see to his own. Eardulf of Lindisfarne took refuge at Candida Casa when wandering with S. Cuthbert's relics in A.D. 875-883. But Northmen ravages and Pictish immigration, and possibly British reconquest, must have ended any Anglican Episcopate there, and probably any Episcopate at all. That recourse was had between Badulf and Gilla-Aldan to Norwegian Bishops or Bishops of Man or of the Isles, is only conjecture, although not improbable. There is nothing to identify certain suffragans of York, named without their sees in A.D. 929-934, and belonging to no known succession, e. g. Earnulf, Columban, Ælfric, Æscbert, Eadwald, Sexhelm (K., C. D.), with any then still existing Anglian see of Candida Casa. That see of course was enlarged or diminished according to the progress of Northumbrian conquest; and at its largest must have included far more than the revived see of the 12th century. The latter was coextensive probably with the lordship of Galloway, and certainly with Kirkcudbright (=Church of S. Cuthbert) west of the river Urr, and Wigtonshire. The former included also Ayrshire (see above, p. 4, note<sup>a</sup>) and most probably Dumfriesshire (so it would seem by the crosses mentioned in the same note, and by the probabilities of the case).

M. H. B. 750): Eogan of Strathclyde, "Rex [Clutinensium," on the Scottish side at Carham, A.D. 1018 (Sim. Dun., M. H. B. 594 n.); Donchad or Duncan, "Rex Cumbrorum," probably by election (Flor. Wig. a. 1054, W. Malm. G. R. A., II. 196), becomes King also of Scotland, A.D. 1034.

<sup>b</sup> About A.D. 945, to the Rerecross on Stanemoor (Cron. in Skene 204): and about same time, "usque Loidam civitatem" (the province or district of Leeds) "quæ est confinium Normannorum" (Northumbrian Danes) "et Cumbrorum" (V. S. Cadriœs, in Colg. 497): in A.D. 971, "ad Stannoim et ad Cluiam et ad Stangna Dera'm" (Cron. in Skene 10): in A.D. 1091, to the "provincia Loidis" (Sim. Dun. 216) or "Lothene on Engla-land" (A. S. C.). This would take the district only as far south as about Workington and the Derwent on the coast side, and would include about two-thirds only of Westmoreland on the east; although probably including also the district east of Wetherall in Cumberland up to the present county boundaries of Northumberland and Durham. Further north, the revived earldom of Cumbria A.D. 1107, and see of Glasgow, beginning with the Lennox in Stirlingshire, included eastwards the counties of Lanark, Peebles, Selkirk, and Roxburgh or Teviotdale south of the Tweed, although the last was only taken from Durham diocese ecclesiastically about A.D. 1100. Stirling is described even by Fordun (VIII. 79) as a "locus marchialis, Scotiam et Britanniam intermedians sive connectens," and again (XII. 20) as "ad fines Britanniae constitutus," and the bridge over the Forth at Stirling as "inter Britanniam et Scotiam, utriusque marginem apprehendens" (quoted by Joseph Robertson, Stat. Eccl. Scot.). And even the Lothians (Loida in Scotland, as e.g. in Sim. Dun.) are called "Britannia Septentrionalis" in the V. S. Kentegern in the Glasgow Chartulary (written A.D. 1147 x 1164). "Westmoringaland" (A. S. C.) or "Westmereland" (G. Gaimar) seems first mentioned in A.D. 966, when Northmen plundered it. Rog. Wend., has a "Jukil Westmeria Rex" in A.D. 973.

<sup>e</sup> Malcom Ceannmore holds Cumberland and Westmoreland by force, A.D. 1070 (Sim. Dun. 200): and goes out of Scotland into "Loidis" or "Lothene," A.D. 1091 (A. S. C., Flor. Wig.): but did homage to William the Conqueror, A.D. 1072 (Cron. de Mailros, A. S. C.); William Rufus rebuilds and fortifies Carlisle, A.D. 1092 (Sim. Dun. 217, A. S. C.): and Henry I., A.D. 1122 (Sim. Dun. 246).

subject, both of them adverse, are 1. Ralph of Canterbury, in his letter to Pope Calixtus in

[COMPACT ABOUT SCOTLAND AT THE COUNCIL OF WINDSOR.]

A.D. 1119 (see below under Scottish Church), who affirms that prior to the Archiepiscopate of Thomas II. of York (A.D. 1109 x 1114) Glasgow had had no Bishop "pene prater memoriam," and that York had never had Glasgow as a suffragan see "excepto hoc Normannorum tempore," while all older Glasgow Bishops, when there were any, down to Norman times, were Britons, who sought consecration either in Wales or Ireland: 2. the Inquisitio Davidis, which asserts that Kentigern had had "plures successores," but implies that this line of Bishops had died out with the Church itself of the land, and that Earl David (A.D. 1107-1124) was the first to restore it. Yet neither of these is absolutely inconsistent with the supposition of one or more suffragans of York, fifty years earlier, living mainly in York diocese, and probably not recognized in Glasgow. Compare also the like recourse at the same period by the Welsh Church of Llandaff to Archbishop Kinski: see above, vol. I. pp. 292, 293. The claim of York over Glasgow, as distinct from the general claim of the English Church over the Scottish, rested upon no other grounds than the insufficient ones of the actual and long-continued subjection to York, 1. of all English Cumbria (either as part of Lindisfarne or Durham until about A.D. 1100 or 1101, or, after that date, as part of York itself), 2. of the Anglian see of Galloway. For the general claim, either of the English Church, or of Canterbury as against York or vice versa, over all Scotland, see below, under the Scottish Church. The history of Bishop Michael, A.D. 1109 x 1114 (see below), which seems to rest on stronger evidence, carries with it a presumption in favour of the earlier suffragans also. And Archbishop Ralph is a witness who has to make out a case of his own.

a "Anno 1113 Henricus Rex. Ranulpho Dunelmensi Episcopo infensus, villam et Ecclesiam Hagustaldensem ab Ecclesia Dunelmensi abripuit, et Thomae Archiepiscopo Eboracensi contulit, una cum jurisdictione integri Cumbria comitatus, qui ad sedem Hagustaldensem olim pertinuit. Pars tamen diœcesis Hagustaldensis, h.e. quæ intra Northumbria comitatum sita erat, penes Dunelmensem remansit et adhuc remanet. Reliqua partim Archiepiscopo Ebor. partim Episcopo Glasculensi ab anno 1113 ad 1135 subdita, Episcopatu Carleolensi anno 1135 fundato assignata est" (Hist. Episc. Dun. in Wharton, A. S., I. 699). This statement requires a few slight corrections. All Cumbria was never within the see of Hexham, only that part of what is now Cumberland which lies east from Wetherall, on the Eden above Carlisle, up to the boundaries of Northumberland. And the Hexhamshire which was within the present county of Northumberland was given over to York, but certainly not all Hexham diocese.

A.D. 1135 should be 1132 or 1133. Lastly, what really happened, plainly was, that Hexhamshire (and indeed the whole northern district) being absolutely devastated by William the Conqueror, Thomas I. of York (A.D. 1070-1100) took possession of it, and no doubt of Cumbria also, as a sort of waif and stray; and that Henry I. confirmed that possession to Thomas II. (A.D. 1109-1113). See Raine, Mem. of Hexham, vol. I. p. 220, App. p. viii., and Pref. pp. xlvi. lvi. Glasgow is found in possession of Teviotdale, and indeed of all Roxburghshire south of the Tweed, at the revival of that see by David A.D. 1107-1124, thus bringing down Durham to nearly its later northern boundary. And Glasgow of course also claimed Cumbria. Jedburgh was still subject to Durham A.D. 1093 (Sin. Dun., Hist. Eccl. Dun., IV. 8, and De Gest. Reg. Angl., Twysd. 204). Flambard was in exile A.D. 1100-1107. Wharton must have taken his date of A.D. 1113 from that of the end of Thomas's Episcopate.

A.D. 1109 x 1114; possibly genuine British Bishops, who had nothing at all to do with York. The Inquisitio Davidis can hardly be relied upon as conclusively negativing such a supposition.

Ebor.] jussu Archiepiscopi ecclesias dedicavit et in ecclesia de Morlond ordines fecit. In qua felici fine ad Deum migrans sepultus requiescit. [Twysd. 1713.]

REG. MAGN. ALB. Ebor.—T[homas] iste Michael hominem sanctum Glesguensi ecclesiæ ordinavit Episcopum, qui Eboracensi Ecclesiæ et T. Archiepiscopo et successoribus suis canonicam obedientiam profitendo scriptam tradidit. Hic aliquamdiu cum Archiepiscopo conversatus jussu illius in diocesi nostra ecclesias dedicavit, et ordines fecit in ecclesia de Morlund, in qua felici fine ad Deum migrans sepultus requiescit. Hujus antecessores Magsuem et Johannem Kinsinus Ebor. Archiepiscopus Episcopos consecravit, sicut a viris veracibus accepimus, qui se hoc vidisse testabantur; sed propter hostilem impugnationem et desolationem et barbariem terræ diu Ecclesia sine pastore fuit, donec David Comes, postea Rex Scotiæ, prædictum Michaelem Episcopum constituit, [et] T. Archiepiscopo consecrandum transmisit.

<sup>a</sup> In A.D. 1109 Alexander of Scotland consented to the consecration of Turgot of S. Andrew's by the same Archbishop Thomas, rights of both Churches being reserved. There is nothing improbable, therefore, in David (Earl of Cumbria A.D. 1107-1124) seeking consecration for a Glasgow Bishop from Thomas at that same time; although probably neither he nor Alexander would have allowed such a step after Turgot's death in A.D. 1115. And the Inquisitio Davidis, which speaks of no earlier nomination by David than that of John (see below), is not conclusive evidence against a York Bishop whom in all likelihood the change of circumstances, and possibly or probably an early death, precluded from coming to Glasgow as Bishop at all. That John and Michael were not the same person, seems proved by the facts, 1. that John was consecrated by Pope Paschal with the consent of Thurstin of York, Michael by Archbishop Thomas of York: 2. that John lived in Glasgow diocese when he was not running away (he was at York however in A.D. 1128), Michael always in diocese of York: 3. that John died in A.D. 1147 and was buried at Jedburgh, while Michael died and was buried in some year unknown at Mor-

[GLASGOW STILL CLAIMED BY YORK, AND TEVIOTDALE BY DURHAM.]

land in Westmoreland (Stubbs, etc. as above). Ralph of Canterbury also testifies, that Thomas "quendam Britonem Glasguensi Ecclesiae ordinavit Episcopum" (Ad Calixt. Papam: see below in its place). The parallel efforts of York to keep up York lines of Bishops in the Orkneys and at Whitherne, lend probability both to each other and to the like efforts in the case of Glasgow. No doubt Michael merely acted as suffragan to York in English Cumbria, after the parallel fashion of York Orkney Bishops. English Cumbria was in Norman hands more or less from A.D. 1092 to 1136, and belonged to York (instead of Durham) from at least A.D. 1107.

<sup>a</sup> Henry Murdac was Archbishop of York from Dec. 7, A.D. 1147, to Oct. 14, A.D. 1153; but the above is from a 15th century copy, and the initial T. in the rubric is almost certainly correct; and stands probably for Thomas II., A.D. 1109 x 1114: inasmuch as 1. Glasgow certainly did not submit to York A.D. 1148-1153; and 2. Teviotdale had been lost by Durham and occupied by Glasgow since A.D. 1101 x 1107, the Durham claim being no doubt maintained for a few years later, but not more.

A.D. 1113. Benedictine Abbey (order of Tyron) founded at Selkirk by Prince David<sup>a</sup> (Cart. de Kalchou, pp. 3, 4; *Sim. Andrew's diocese, the Tweed being then and there the boundary between the two (Sim. Dun. ib.; Chron. de Mailros).

diocese, to seek ordination and chrism from any Bishop the monks pleased, whether in Scotland or in "Cumbria" (ib.) See Morton, Monastic Ann. of Teviotdale, pp. 77, 78.

[CONSECRATION OF THE BISHOP OF GLASGOW BY THE POPE.]

A.D. 1117 (probably). Consecration of John to the See of Glasgow by Pope Paschal II.<sup>a</sup>

<sup>a</sup> See the Inquisitio Davidis, below; by which it appears that John was consecrated by Paschal, and therefore before January A.D. 1118. John died in A.D. 1147, and (if Fordun can be trusted) in the 28th year of his Episcopate: which (if it were exact) would bring his consecration down to A.D. 1119. He was also consecrated with Archbishop Thurstan's consent (see below, under A.D. 1125), who was elected to York August 25, A.D. 1114 (Hoveden, I. 169), although not consecrated to that see until October, A.D. 1119. And Stubbs, who is the authority for the statement about Thurstan, here quotes from the contemporary authority of Hugh the Chanter. Further, Turgot of S. Andrew's died in August, A.D. 1115. And it seems probable, that this see also was vacant when John was sent to the Pope for consecration. All this would seem to place John's consecration in (probably) A.D. 1117, which is the latest possible year for it. The Inquisitio Davidis (Earl of Cumbria A.D. 1107-1124) must have been taken sufficiently long after John's election to allow of his journey to Rome, his attempted journey to Jerusalem, his return to Glasgow, and his being fairly at work in that diocese. And inasmuch as it evidently speaks of him as still at work there, it must have preceded by some little time John's first flight, and Calixtus' first efforts to force him to return to Glasgow. This limits the date of the Inquisitio to A.D. 1118 x 1122; and makes the most likely date for it to be A.D. 1120 or 1121. The record of that Inquisitio appears from its terms to have been drawn up some time later than the enquiry itself; possibly when Glasgow cathedral was consecrated, and its Register formally commenced. These dates leave room for Michael (see above, p. 13); and allow John to have been at work two or three years in Glasgow as Bishop prior to the Inquisitio being made. Whether Michael died before David nominated John, or whether he was simply put on one side, there is no evidence to show. But the former was probably the case, inasmuch as the York Archbishops never alleged as an objection to John, that the see was full already. There are proofs of a double line of Bishops, a native line and a York line simultaneously, in the other similar cases, viz. in the Orkneys and at Candida Casa, at a later period. But those who recognized the one of these, did not also recognize the other.

<sup>a</sup> The date is from Wyntoun's Chron., lib. VII. c. 5. Daniel, the first recorded prior, signs a charter of King David to Coldingham August 16, A.D. 1130. And the priory must have grown into importance and become an abbey by A.D. 1147, in which year Fordun (I. 301) dates its foundation (Morton, Monastic Hist. of Teviotdale, p. 4; Orig. Paroch. Scot., I. 368).

Kirkepatric, ecclesiam de Drivesdale, capellam de Hotun, ecclesiam de Castelnile, ecclesiam de Hodelma, ecclesiam de Kerkcoleñ. [etc. etc. as in Bull of 1179, down to] Galweia [except that Urban omits Cunningham].

The places here named include:—1. In the valley of the Clyde, Wandal or Hartside (Quendale), Carnwith, Castle Tarres or Carsairs, and Carmichael (Planmichel?) near Lanark, Asseby, Hamilton (Cadihou), with the Chapel of Machan or Dalserf (Mecheyn); Glasgow itself; north and south of Glasgow, Munkland (Badermanoch) and Cadder, Kilbride and Meorns; and round it, Shettleston (Villa Filie Sedin, Mineschadin, etc.), Kincleith (Conclud), Barlunnarc and Buttlornoc (Pathelanre, near Provan), Ballayn, Gorgvals; and below it, north of the river, Newton, Partick, Kilpatrick; south of it, Govan, Renfrew, Strathgryfe, and Largs. 2. In the valley of the Tweed, Kirkurd (Órda), Stobo, Eddleston (= Penteiacob = Gillemorestun), Peebles, Traquair. 3. In the valley of the Teviot, Wilton next to Hawick, Ashkirk, Hassendean, Lillesclif, Ancrum, Hirdmanston, Roxburgh with Fairnington, Morebattle with Whitton and Clifton. 4. In the valley of the Annan, Moffat, Kirkpatrick, Hutton, S. Mungo (Abermec or Castlemile), Drysdale, Hoddam (Hodelme). 5. In the valley of the Nith, Glencairn. 6. In Ayr, Colmonell (Kirkcoleman). 7. In Midlothian and not in the diocese of Glasgow, Borthwick (Lochwhoreuerd). And 8. also the several dales and districts themselves that are enumerated. This would cover the extent of the later diocese of Glasgow, viz. the rural deaneries of Lennox (Leuenaches), Rutherford, Kyle and Cuningham, Carrick, Lanark, Peebles, Nithsdale, Annandale, and Teviotdale, i. e. nearly the shires of Dumbarton, Renfrew, Lanark, Peebles, Selkirk, Roxburgh south of Tweed, Dumfries, Kirkcudbright east of the Urr, Ayr, and part of Stirling: but in Galloway, i. e. Wigton and part of the Stewartry of Kirkcudbright, divided into the rural deaneries of Desnes, Farnes, and Rhynnis, it includes by name only Desnes; which certainly was, finally, in Galloway diocese. Several of the names in the Inquisitio cannot be identified.

STUBBS, Act. Pontif. Ebor.<sup>a</sup>—Quia vero Johannes Glesguensis Episcopus ibi in curia præsens erat, Thurstinus Archiepiscopus clamavit se de eo coram Apostolico, eo quod ipse Johannes in Eboracensi Ecclesia sicut suffraganeus ejus electus, et per literas suas a Papa Paschali consecratus, postea nec propter literas ejusdem Papæ Paschalis, neque Kalixti, quas ibi recitari fecit, quicquid obedientiæ vel reverentiæ ei voluit exhibere: similiter et de Episcopis Scotiæ conquestus est. Persuasum fuerat Papæ Scotiam non esse de regno Angliæ, quia volebant pallium requirere Episcopo Sancti Andreæ et ita Archiepiscopum ibi creari. Sed Archiepiscopus Turstinus et secreto et palam in curia ostendit Scotiam de regno Angliæ esse, et Regem Scotorum ligium hominem Regis Angliæ esse. Glesguensis autem Episcopus querelæ Archiepiscopi ita respondit, se non venisse vocatum, et in legatione domini sui Regis Scotiæ ibi esse. Decretumque est diem illi statuere, et Episcopos Scotiæ et absentes per literas domini Papæ summonere. Statuitque Papa Turstino Archiepiscopo et Johanni diem a proxima Quadragesima in alteram, sic dicens Johanni Episcopo: Frater, in quibus bonæ memoriae Papa Gelasius te ligavit, nos<sup>b</sup> te absolvimus. Episcopos Scotiæ ad diem designatum per literas vocare dispositus. [Twysd. 1719.]

tells us, in harmony with this, that "shortly after Michaelmas," in A.D. 1125, "J. the Bishop of Lothenc" (i. e. evidently John of Glasgow), with "G. Abbat of S. Alban's," accompanied the above-named three prelates to Rome. The same year, 1125, is given also by the Cont. Flor. Wig., by the Ann. Waverl., and by Stubbs. They returned to England the next year, 1126, William being now legate; but this is put one year later (1127) by Sim.

[SEE OF CANDIDA CASA.]

Dun. in consequence of his original error. And the date of William of Canterbury's legatine appointment must be Jan. A.D. 1126, not Jan. A.D. 1127. The Cron. de Mailros, however, makes the date of their journey to Rome to be A.D. 1126, in accordance with what certainly seems to be Simeon's error in the matter. If the letter of Honorius about Gilla-Aldan, given below, is rightly dated on Dec. 9, it marks the probable month of the parallel Glasgow dispute in the text. But in any case the Archbishops were in Rome all the winter.

Go to Thurstin HONORIUS EPISCOPUS SERVUS SERVORUM DEI, directo filio for consecration. electo de Candida Casa, salutem et Apostolicam benedictionem. Cui aiii a Domino preesse conceditur, nulla suis digne subesse prelatis superbia convincatur. Ideoque per presentia scripta tibi mandamus, ut ad karissimum fratrem nostrum T[urstinum]<sup>c</sup> Ebor. Archiepiscopum tanquam ad proprium metropolitanum tuum consecrandus accedas; et ab ipsius manu presente Sancti Spiritus gratia cum humilitatis devotione consecrationem accipias. Data Laterani quinto idus Decembris. [Cott. MSS. Claud. B. III., fol. 131 b; Reg. Alb. Ebor., P. I. fol. 52, and P. III. fol. 57 b: and in Dugd., VI. 1187, no. 49.]

Kenneth II., until this appointment of Bishop Gilla-Aldan; except Boethius' assertion (IX.) that Malcolm III. re-established it, c. A.D. 1070. It possibly merged in that of Glasgow when Anglian prelates of Lindisfarne or Chester-le-Street became excluded from it. Possibly British Bishops still existed in the district (see above, p. 13). Gilla-Aldan was obviously a native, and his case so far differed from that of Carlisle. But whether David or Fergus of Galloway, revived the see in his person, does not appear.

<sup>a</sup> See Pref. to Chartul. of Dryburgh, pp. vi. vii.; Spottiswood's Relig. Houses, c. V., etc. Fergus became a monk of Holyrood in A.D. 1160. Soulseat, which was the mother of the Premonstratensian abbeys here mentioned, must therefore have been founded earlier than the new Whitherne; which itself again must have been refounded not later than the refoundation of the see of Whitherne, i. e. probably not later than A.D. 1125.

A.D. 1126 × 1140<sup>a</sup>. Revival of the See of Candida Casa as a Suffragan See to York.

Profession of Gilla-Aldan, Bishop of Candida Casa elect, to Thurstan Archbishop of York [“subiectio Episcopi Candidæ Casæ.”]

Domino et patri suo reverendo Thurstino Dei gratia Eboracensis provincie metropolitano, GILLA-ALDAN HUMILIS ELECTUS CANDIDE CASE, salutem et obedientiam. Cognovi, tam scriptis patrum autenticis quam veredicis antiquorum virorum testimoniis, quod Episcopus Candidæ Case ab antiquo debeat ad matrem suam Eboracensem metropolim respicere, et ei in hiis que ad Deum pertinent obtemperare. Quapropter ego Gilla-Aldan Candidæ Case electus sancte Eborac. Ecclesie, et tibi, Turstine, et successoribus tuis canonice instituendis, debitam subiectionem a sanctis patribus institutam et canonicam obedientiam me amodo servaturum promitto. [Cott. MSS. Claud. B. III. fol. 22 a; Reg. Alb. Ebor., P. III. fol. 17: and in Dugd., VI. iii. 1188, 1189, no. 64.]

<sup>a</sup> This is usually dated A.D. 1133. But the only chronicler who mentions it, specifies the three consecrations of which he speaks to have happened “diversis temporibus;” and the other two certainly did take place in A.D. 1133. Possibly Stubbs may only mean in different months. Of course it must have followed Honorius's letter, and have preceded Thurstin's death. Its most probable date would be A.D. 1126 or 1127, according to the date to be assigned to that letter, which probably it followed at no long interval.

[SEE OF GLASGOW STILL NOT SUBJECT TO YORK.]

A.D. 1126. Christmas. London a. Cause between the Scottish Bishops and Thurstin deferred until yet another Lent.

<sup>a</sup> Thurstin, by agreement with King David and the Scottish Bishops, obtained this concession from the Pope by messengers, instead of going to Rome in person, as he was preparing to do, in conformity with the Pope's order given to himself and Bishop John of Glasgow in the previous winter (Twysd. 1719, 1720, and see below, under the Scottish Church). The cause was evidently put off again, but no further record remains. John acted with Thurstin subsequently. He was at Roxburgh July 17, A.D. 1127, with Thurstin and King David and others (Lib. Vitæ Eccl. Dun. p. 67); and again at York in A.D. 1128, assisting Thurstin to consecrate Robert Bishop of S. Andrews.

[Gale, II. 151.]

FORDUN, Scotickron. VIII. 3.—Hic Henricus ..... videns Johannem Episcopum Glasguensem per Cumberlandiam ecclesias dedicare, et cetera officia pontificalia secundum morem juris antiqui perficere, cum nec sibi nec Archiepiscopo Eboracensi vellet inde ut domino et prælato obsecundare; incitante Turstino Eboracensi Archiepiscopo, constituit per vim et violentiam Eadwaldum Episcopum in Cumberlandia, ad titulum Carleolensem, contra eum, quia non erat qui ei resistere audebat. Quod cum vidisset Episcopus Johannes Episcopatum suum Glasguensem taliter diinembrari, et neque per legem neque per Regem defendi, transfretavit, et in monasterio Tironensi sese in monachum obtulit. Quem Rex Malcolmus auctoritate domini Papæ de monacho ad præsulatum Glasguensem, ipso multum renitente, restitui fecit. Et vicesimo octavo anno Episcopatus sui moritur, et in monasterio de Jedwod sanctus sepelitur. [vol. I. p. 449; see XI. 52<sup>c</sup>.]

<sup>b</sup> So also the Cron. de Mailros, in an. 1133 ("Adulfus"), and the later chroniclers, Brompton ("Arnulphus," Twynd. 1010), Stubbs ("Adelwoldus," ib. 1720), Rudborne ("Athelwulfus," Hist. Maj. Winton.), R. de Monte ("Ælulfus"), etc. Richard of Hexham calls him "Adthelwlfus." The earlier chronicles fix the year, 1133; and John of Hexham, among them, the month also, August. The latter likewise so far fixes the day as to imply that it was shortly before Aug. 15, and Geoffrey of Durham is known to have been consecrated upon Aug. 6. Rudborne gives the year as 1132, and adds that it was 33 Hen. I. (Aug. 6, 1132—Aug. 6, 1133), and Hen. Hunt. has also the 33 H. I., but retains the correct year 1133. Aldulph was not put into any real possession of his diocese until A.D. 1138 (see below). And as Cumberland belonged to the Scots from A.D. 1136 until A.D. 1157, he could scarcely have had much to do with it at any time. See also Rog. Wend., II. 212.

[DEDICATION OF GLASGOW CATHEDRAL.]

The Pope will INNOCENTIUS EPISCOPUS SERVUS SERVORUM DEI, ve- help Thurstan. nerabili fratri T[urstino] Ebor. Archiepiscopo, salutem et Apostolicam benedictionem. Probabilem tuæ fidei firmitatem et religionis laudabilem et catholica unitate constantiam sedes Apostolica certis jamdudum indiciis comprobavit. Inde est quod sanctæ matris tuæ Romanæ Ecclesiæ tantam geris sollicitudinem, et tanquam benignus filius ipsius nullatenus es oblitus. Propterea personam tuam sincera in Domino caritate diligimus, et ad ea quæ fraternitati tuæ et Ecclesiæ tuo regimini commissæ profutura esse cognoscimus, libenti animo operam damus. Cæterum super oppressionibus atque molestiis tibi et Ebor. Ecclesiæ, prout accepimus, a Rege Scotiæ et Johanne Glesguensi Episcopo irrogatis affectione paterna compatimur; atque cum facultas nobis a Deo fuerit attributa, Sedes Apostolica tibi et eidem Ecclesiæ suam justitiam conservabit. Porro quia de statu nostro tua sollicitudo certum diem habere desiderat, esse nostrum tibi breviter duximus intimandum. Relicto itaque in Urbe vicario, atque his quæ fidelibus nostris necessaria erant dispositis, ut fratres nostri ad nos veniendi faciliorem haberent aditum, Pisæ sani, Deo gratias, incolumesque pervenimus; ibique cum nostris fratribus commorantes, pro his quæ ad honorem et servitium sanctæ Dei Ecclesiæ pertinent, studiosius laboramus. Tua igitur interest, karissime frater in Domino, aures Divini consilii assiduis precibus propulsare, quatenus Ecclesia Catholica, quæ diutinis est laboribus fatigata, tuis etiam orationibus adjuta, ad quietis portum auxiliante Deo valeat pervenire. Data Pisis VI.
 nonas Maii. [Reg. Alb. Ebor., P. I. fol. 52.]

<sup>a</sup> Innocent was living at Pisa in both these years. But the letter seems to have been written no long time after his arrival there

(in Nov., A.D. 1133). And A.D. 1134 is therefore the more likely date.

Et ut in Johannem Glesguensem pseudo-episcopum anathematis sententiam proferat, venerabili fratri nostro G. Cantuariensi Archiepiscopo Apostolicæ Sedis legato per scripta nostra mandavimus; quousque a suis erroribus resipiscat, et ad tuam subjectionem et jus metropoliticum redeat. Studii quoque tui sit in eundem Johannem, nisi infra tres menses ad matrem suam sanctam Romanam et Eboracensem ecclesiam remeaverit, anathematis sententiam promulgare. Data Parisis<sup>b</sup> X. kalendas Maii. [Reg. Alb. Ebor., P. I., fol. 52 b.]

<sup>a</sup> The date of this letter is fixed by the reference, not only to Rievaulx, founded A.D. 1132, but more definitely by that to Selby, viz. to the vacancy caused there by the resignation of Abbat Durannus in the "last year of Henry I.," viz. A.D. 1135 (Hist. Mon. Seleb. in Labb. Bibl. Nov., I. 610). Innocent was at Pisa in April, A.D. 1136. And the York scribe must have written "Parisis" by mistake, both in this and in the preceding letter, which obviously was written at the same time and place. Archbishop William died Nov. 21, A.D. 1136.

<sup>a</sup> Bishop Aldulph was not in possession at all of his see of Carlisle until A.D. 1138. And Henry the son of King David held Cumberland, although as a fief of England, from A.D. 1136. Innocent's letter would suit best to the earlier period. And as he certainly was at Pisa April 22, A.D. 1136, and apparently not in that month of any later year, A.D. 1136 is almost certainly the date.

A.D. 1138. Sept. 26-29. Provincial Council of Scottish Bishops at Carlisle under the Legate Alberic.

Alberic sent as legate. RICHARD. HAGUST. Gesta Stephani, anno 1138.—Circa idem tempus quidam Albericus Hostiensis Episcopus in illas partes venit, quem Innocentius Romanæ sedis Apostolicus, ut legationis officio in Anglia et Scottia fungeretur, miserat. .... Illi vero, diu a Cisalpina, imo fere ab

Tunc vero, Divina gratia inspirati, mandata Innocentii Papæ et legatum ejus omnes unanimitate cum magna veneratione suscepérunt. Igitur triduo cum eis de sua legationis negotiis diligenter tractavit. Et quoniam cognovit quod

John of Glasgow ordered to quit Tyron and return to his see. Johannes Glesguensis Episcopus curam animarum quam habuerat nulli commiserat, et sine licentia ac clanculo Episcopatum suum reliquerat, et, nulla evidente necessitate cogente, apud Tironam monachus effectus est, de illo definitivit, ut regius nuntius cum ipsius et Regis pariter litteris pro eo mitteretur; et si redire nollet, sententia super illum daretur a.

Et ita factum est.

Efforts of the legate to make peace and to prevent barbarities. Convenit quoque Regem de reformanda pace inter eum et Regem Angliæ, et hujus rei gratia ad ejus pedes cecidit, scilicet ut sanctæ Ecclesiæ et sui ipsius et suocitatis.

Sed vix inducias impetravit, quod nullum exercitum et nullum malum, excepta obsidione quæ circa Carrum erat, ante festum Sancti Martini in terram Regis Angliæ induceret. Hoc etiam apud Pictos impetravit, quod omnes puellas ac mulieres captivas, quas habere possent, ante eundem terminum ad Carlel reducerent, et eas ibi libertati redderent. Ipsi quoque et omnes alii firmissime ei promiserunt, quod nullo modo ecclesiæ amplius violarent, et quod

Rex quoque, cum Priore de Hestaldasham, qui illuc cum legato venerat, antequam illum interpellaret de dampno ipsius et fratrum suorum locutus, illud multum planxit, et promisit quod totum restitui faceret; et insuper de injuria quæ illis et eorum ecclesiæ facta fuerat, et de imperfectione hominum suorum, eis rectum facere suos cogeret. Quod et ex magna parte fecit. Nam et eorum et hominum suorum pecunia fere tota redditæ est.

His ita factis, legatus, ipso die festivitatis Sancti Michaelis inde discedens, per Hestaldasham et Dunelmum in Suth-Angliam rediit, narravitque Stephano Regi Angliæ suisque, quod apud David Regem Scottiæ et suos profecerat. Nam et antequam coronatus fuit idem Henricus, patre consentiente, anno scil. Domini 1164, Ingelramus Archidiaconus Glasguensis, Regis Malcolmi olim Cancellarius, mortuo Heriberto, electus est in Glasguensem antistitem. Quo in tempore vacaverunt Sancti An-dreæ, Glasguensis, et Moraviensis Episcopatus. Ingelramus igitur in die Dominica electus, in Sabbato sequenti sacerdos ordinatus, et in quadragesimo die electionis suæ a Romano Pontifice Alexandro tertio in Episcopum consecratus<sup>b</sup>. Quod Rogerus Eboracensis satis moleste tulit, ut sequentia declarabunt. Henrici junioris Regis Angliae fretus auxilio, inhiabat sibi usurpare ordinationis dignitatem, non solum Glasguensis Ecclesiæ, sed et Sancti Andreæ, atque totius cleri Scotiæ legationem. Habens ad hoc legationis privilegium ab Apostolico clanculo et falsis suggestionibus impetratum<sup>c</sup>, venit pompose ad Castrum de Norham Twedæ fluvio vicinum; inde mox bajulis ad clerum Scotiæ delegatis, quatenus illum cum honore velut suum susciperent legatum a Summo Pontifice destinatum, aut sibi cognoscerent Divinum officium sequestrandum. Quod cum audisset Ingelramus, nondum adhuc electus sed duntaxat Archidiaconus Glasguensis et Regis Cancellarius, indigne valde ferebat; et de consensu cleri ad hoc electus, et procurator effectus, adjunctis sibi notabilibus clericis, cum quodam satellite nobili et manu forti, hunc delphinum Eboracensem Rogerum inconsternate aggreditur: dicens, Unde tibi, pater, præsumptio ista elata, nostri honoris clandestinum te voluisse privilegium usurpare? Disputatum est hinc inde acriter, Salomone Decano Glasguensi et Waltero Priore de Kalco sibi assistentibus ac multum eleganter perorantibus; donec ad curiam Romanam a Scotis appellatum est; ubi, astantibus pomposis clericis et procuratoribus Eboracensibus, consecratus est Ingelramus ab Alexandro Papa, ad confusione maximam Anglicorum et ad Scotorum gloriam spectabilem.

<sup>b</sup> These dates do not harmonize with the day assigned by the Chron. de Mailros for Ingelram's consecration, viz. Oct. 28: which day is confirmed by the date of Pope Alexander's letter on the subject, viz. Nov. 1. In A.D. 1164 Oct. 28 fell on a Wednesday. And the fortieth day prior to it, Sept. 18, was consequently a Friday, not a Sunday. Fordun is no doubt inaccurate.

1. CHRON. DE MAILROS, in an. 1175.—Jocelinus, Ecclesie Glasguensis electus, ex mandato domini Papæ Alexandri III. in Episcopum consecratus est a domino Eskilo Lundensi Archiepiscopo, sedis Apostolice legato, et totius Dacie primate, in Claraualle.

<sup>a</sup> Jocelyn's immediate successor, Hugh de Roxburgh, in A.D. 1199, died before consecration. William, who succeeded, was consecrated in France by the Archbishop of Lyons in A.D. 1200 (Cron. de Mailr., and see Letter of John ex-Archbishop of Lyons to the Bishop of Glasgow in Mabillon's Analecta, pp. 478, 479, second edition). Florence, the next, was Bishop elect five years (A.D. 1202-1207), but then gave up the see unconsecrated. And Walter, who followed, was thus the first Bishop of the see consecrated by Scottish Bishops at Glasgow itself, but by Papal licence, Nov. 2, A.D. 1208 (Innes, Pref. to Reg. Glasg., etc.). Jocelyn however acted as a Scottish Bishop throughout, and was commissioned as such by the Pope in the disputes about the see of S. Andrew's A.D. 1183-1188. He was also sent to Rome in a like capacity in A.D. 1181. See below, under the Scottish Church.

<sup>b</sup> This privilege adds to those of A.D. 1170 and 1172 the peculiar phrase of "speciale filiam nostram nullo mediante." It was repeated with like formality by Alexander III. himself once more, April 19, A.D. 1179 (Reg. Glasg. no. 51): by Lucius III., March 17, A.D. 1182 (ib. no. 57): by Urban III., June 12, A.D. 1186 (ib. no. 62): by Innocent III., probably in A.D. 1208, and by Innocent IV., Sept. 6, A.D. 1245 (ib. nos. 89, 190): by Gregory IX. in a different form, April 2, A.D. 1231, and yet again varied, April 3 of the same year (ib. nos. 158, 161). The Indiction in the date of the Bull here given is wrong, and belongs to A.D. 1173; while April 30, in the 16th year of Alexander, would fall in A.D. 1175. The material phrase in the Bull was quoted, according to Hoveden, by Bishop Jocelyn at the Council of Northampton in A.D. 1176; the exact words in Hoveden, however, coming from the later Bull just mentioned of April 19, A.D. 1179: see Stubbs' Pref. to Hoveden, vol. I. pp. lvi. lvii. Alexander however was at Ferentinum April 30, A.D. 1175, but at Anagnia in April A.D. 1174 and 1173. And the date plainly should be A.D. 1175.

expressly accepts and maintains the York claims (W., I. 481, 482): and A.D. 1175. July 30. Anagnia. Bull of Alexander III. expressly releasing the Scottish Bishops from subjection to the Archbishop of York as their metropolitan (Reg. Glasg. no. 38): will be found below under the Scottish Church. The former can only be genuine on the supposition that the Pope merely enclosed William's letter. It certainly does not express any opinion of his own, except so far as that very letter itself implies one. Both Bulls were after the treaty of Falaise, and before the Council of Northampton.

a “G. Ep̄us Carleol. A.D. 1174,” in the Index to Rymer (old edit. I. 37), is a mistake of the Index-maker, there being nothing in the text to answer to the reference.

After Paulinus’ refusal, there was no Bishop of Carlisle properly so called until A.D. 1219. The temporalities of the see were given by King John to Alexander de Lucy June 8, A.D. 1203, and the Archdeaconry of Carlisle by the same to the same Nov. 18, A.D. 1203 (Rot. Pat. Job. pp. 30, 35). And in consequence of a letter of Pope Innocent III. May 1st, A.D. 1203, the same temporalities were again granted by John to Bernard Archbishop of Ragusa (for whom see Farleti's Illyricum) January 10, A.D. 1204 (ib. p. 37; and Rymer, I. 90). “Rex concessit Archiep. Sclovianie Episc. Carl. ad se sustentandum donec dominus Rex ei in ampliori beneficio providerit” (Rot. Cart. p. 96). And Aimeric Thelbertus has the Archdeaconry of Carlisle A.D. 1196 (Hoveden, IV. 14), and again Feb. 10, A.D. 1204 (Rot. Cart. p. 119). There is a grant to “B. Episc. Carleol.” by King John March 23, A.D. 1206 (Rot. Claus. p. 68 b), and another Oct. 15, A.D. 1207 (Rot.

Pat. p. 76). Bernard was certainly in England, but there is no proof that he visited the diocese of Carlisle. He was certainly not at Lanercost in A.D. 1169 (Dugd. Mon., VI. 237). May 26, A.D. 1214, and again May 31, A.D. 1215, the custody of the see is given to the Prior of Carlisle (Rot. Pat. 138, 142). And on April 26, A.D. 1216, Henry III. informs Pope Honorius III., that Carlisle has revolted to the Scotch, and that the Canons of Carlisle, “in praejudicium juris nostri et Ecclesiae Eboracensis, ad instanciam Regis Scottie inimici nostri, quendam clericum suum interdictum et excommunicatum elegerunt sibi in Episcopum et pastorem;” and requests the Pope to provide to the see (Pat. 1 Hen. III. m. 3 dorso, in Prynne III. 39). Accordingly, in A.D. 1218 occurs a grant to “the elect of Carlisle” (Rot. Claus. vol. I. p. 369); and Feb. 24, A.D. 1219, Hugh, appointed by the legate Gualo, is consecrated by the Archbishop of York, the Bishop of Waterford coming “ad partes boreales” to assist therein (Rot. Claus. 3 Hen. III. A.D. 1219, vol. I. p. 392). Thenceforth the succession is fairly regular.

A.D. 1186 or 1187. June 2. Verona. Privilege of Urban III. to the Bishops of Glasgow.

Bulla Urbani P. III. qua dat facultatem Episcopo Glasguensi excommunicandi invadentes ecclesias suas non obstante appellatione. REG. GLASG. no. 54.—URBANUS EPISCOPUS SERVUS SER-

APPENDIX A,

IN SCOTTISH AND ENGLISH CUMBRIA, A.D. 450-900.

I. BRITISH PERIOD, A.D. 450-700.

i. (5th century.) At Kirkmadrine, west side of the Bay of Luce, co. Wigton: three stones in the old churchyard:—

a. On one, beneath the monogram ( $\text{P}$  enclosed in a circle (which is also on the other face of the stone),

VIVENTIUS ET MAVORIUS.

And above the monogram, A ET  $\Omega$ .

$\beta$ . On the second (which has a like monogram within a circle), partly obliterated,

* * * S ET FLORENTIUS.

$\gamma$ . The third has tracery, but no inscription.

The character of the letters and ornaments carries these inscriptions back to a still Romanized time, and also bears a resemblance to Gaulish monuments of the kind. They are probably of the 5th century, and belong to priests connected with S. Ninian himself, and through him with north-west Gaul. The Roman character of the names also tallies with this. See Stuart, Sculpt. Stones of Scotland, II. pp. 35, 36.

ii. (? 6th century; probably, however, later.) At Kirkinner, east side of the Bay of Luce, co. Wigton: two broken crosses, with tracery, in the churchyard; of the same peculiar character with that of the monuments of Whitherne, Kirkmaiden, and the neighbourhood. (Stuart, ib., p. 67.)

iii. iv. (? 6th century.) At Monreith House, near Kirkmaiden, east side of Bay of Luce, co. Wigton; and in the burying-ground surrounding the ruined church of Kirkmaiden: two broken crosses with interlaced work, and crosses formed by circular holes, of like character with the foregoing. (Stuart, ib., pp. 50, 51, 67.)

v. vi. (? 6th century.) At Whitherne, two similar fragments. (Stuart, ib., pp. 51, 68.)

vii. (? 6th century.) At Wigton, in the churchyard, a like fragment. (Stuart, ib., I. plate cxxii.)

viii. (? 6th century.) At Kirkmaiden, among the rocks of the sea-coast of the Bay of Luce, an oratory or stone chapel of S. Medan (an Irish virgin and disciple of S. Ninian) in a cave, like those in Cornwall and like one in Brittany. (Stuart, ib., II. p. 50, n.)

ix. At Kirkcلاugh, near Anwoth, co. Kirkcudbright, a sculptured cross. (Stuart, ib., I. plate cxxiii.)

x. (? 7th century.) At Inchinnan, on the Clyde, seven miles below Glasgow, co. Renfrew: slabs, in the churchyard, with crosses, animals, and interlaced work; of Hiberno-Briton character. (Stuart, ib., II. p. 38.)

xi.-xxi. (? 7th century.) At Govan, on the Clyde, immediately below Glasgow: a stone with tracery, a sarcophagus, and nine sepulchral slabs, found in the old churchyard, where are also many others: covered with either interlaced work, or crosses, or representations of animals: of a like character with the foregoing. (Stuart, ib., I. plates ci, cxxxiv-cxxxvii.)

xxii. (? 7th century.) At Hamilton, on the Clyde, a cross near Hamilton Palace, much defaced. (Stuart, ib., plate cxviii.)

xxiii. At Barrochan, parish of Kilallan (now in Houston), co. Renfrew, a cross. (Stuart, ib., plates cxv, cxvi.)

xxiv. xxv. At Stanlie Green, near Paisley, co. Renfrew, and at Mountblow House, Kilpatrick, co. Dunbarton, slabs with like work. (Stuart, ib., plates cxvii, cxx.)

It will be observed, that these remains cluster round two centres, Whitherne (and westwards of Whitherne), Glasgow (and on the Clyde above and below Glasgow).

II. SAXON PERIOD, A.D. 700-800.

i. At Ruthwell, on the Solway Firth, near Dumfries and the mouth of the Nith: an elaborate cross, in two parts, the lower 12 feet 6 inches, the whole 17 feet 6 inches, in height. On its two faces, tapering from 2 feet to 15 inches in breadth, are carved panels containing figures or groups of figures, some of them nimbed, with inscriptions in Roman letters surrounding them : viz., on one side at the top, 1. a human figure with a bird, with VERBUM IN PRIN<sup>a</sup> (supposed to mean Verbum in principio), now however effaced, and some nearly effaced Runes round it ; 2. an archer with bow and arrow ; 3. two figures embracing, with a nearly illegible inscription, of which . . TOPSEN . . is all that can be read on one side, and on the other . . INCOB<sup>D</sup> . . ; 4. the woman that was a sinner, washing our Lord's feet, with ATTVLIT ALABASTRVM VNGVENTI ET STANS RETROSECUS PEDES EIVS LACRIMIS COEPIT RIGARE PEDES EIVS ET CAPILLIS CAPITI SVI TERGEBAT (partly, however, defaced) ; 5. two figures, supposed to be our Lord healing the blind man, with ET PRAETERIENS VIDIT * * * A NATIBITATE ET S * * B INFIRMITA * ; 6. the Annunciation (probably), with INSRESSVS ANGELVS * * * TE * IRN * * (remainder effaced). On the opposite side, 1. at the top, a bird perched upon a branch, with undecipherable Runes surrounding it ; 2. two human figures ; 3. a figure standing on two globes and holding a lamb in its arms, the inscription undecipherable, except the word [A]DORAMVS ; 4. a nimbed figure, probably of our Lord, with one hand raised as if to bless, and round the panel, IHS XPS IVDEX AEQVITATIS SERTO SALVATOREM MVNDI BESTIAE ET DRACONES COGNOVERVNT IN DE * * ; 5. two figures, supposed to be SS. Peter and Paul breaking a loaf of bread between them, from an anecdote in S. Jerome's Life of S. Antony, and round them, SCS PAVLVS ET A * * * FREGERVNT PANEM IN DESERTO ; 6. the Blessed Virgin holding the Child Jesus in her arms and riding on an ass, with what is supposed to have been the head of Joseph in the corner—inscription defaced, except MARIA ET IO * *. But the most remarkable part of the cross are its edges—tapering from about 15 inches in width to 11½—upon which are interlaced patterns and figures between borders, and upon these a series of Runes, deciphered by Mr. Kemble, so far as they were not defaced, into passages from an Anglo-Saxon poem, which poem (filling up all the lacunæ and tallying with the deciphered passages) was subsequently discovered in a Vercelli MS., and is conjecturally dated in the 7th century, about the time of Cædmon ; its subject being the “Dream of the Holy Rood.” No name is on the monument ; unless that Professor Stephens now reads some of the Runes into “Cadmon me fawed” = “Cædmon made me.” (Stuart, Sculpt. Stones, II. pp. 12–16. See also G. Stephens, Old Northern Runic Monuments of Scandinavia and England, II. 419–422.)

ii. At Thornhill, in Nithsdale, co. Dumfries : a cross with interlaced work and animals, which possibly may belong to the earlier period. (Stuart, ib., I. plate cxxi.)

iii. At Durisdeer, in Nithsdale, co. Dumfries: a fragment of a cross, of the like character in its ornament with the Bewcastle and other English crosses. (Stuart, ib., II. p. 73.)

iv. At Hoddam, in Annandale, co. Dumfries, one also of S. Kentigern's temporary sees: fragments and crosses with interlaced ornaments and nimbed figures under canopies, but no inscriptions. (Stuart, ib., pp. 33, 34.)

v. At Whitherne<sup>b</sup>, two fragments of crosses supposed to be of Saxon date; on one of them, LOCI T I PETRI APVSTOLI, and above it the monogram added to the upper limb on the right hand of the (inscribed) cross. (Stuart, ib., p. 53, and plate lxxvii.)

vi. At Bewcastle, co. Cumberland: an elaborate cross, with ornamentation of running foliage with birds and animals, like that at Ruthwell, also with figures, and several inscriptions in Runic letters; the meaning of which is much disputed, but one of them is supposed to mention the death of King Alcfrid of Northumbria, A.D. 664. See a short account of the principal pamphlets and interpretations in Stuart, ib., pp. 16–18.

vii. At Jedburgh, co. Roxburgh: a slab with ornamentation of Saxon date. Other fragments of crosses of like date exist there also. (Stuart, ib., pp. 66, 67<sup>c</sup>.)

These monuments belong to the localities that were most entirely Saxonized, and connect themselves with like monuments in Lindisfarne or Hexham dioceses, as at Jarrow, at Hexham itself, etc. etc.

III. NORTHMAN AND IRISH PERIOD, A.D. 800–900.

i. At Dearham, co. Cumberland: a cross with figures and interlaced work, resembling that on Manx crosses. (Stuart, ib., p. 18.)

ii. At Gosforth, near Wastdale, co. Cumberland: an elaborate cross, of the same character with that at Dearham; also some fragments of crosses, like the Northumbrian examples. (Stuart, ib., plates 24, 25, 28.)

iii. At Kirkcolm, co. Wigton, on the west coast of Loch Ryan, in the midst of churches with Irish dedications: a stone having the Crucifixion and several symbols of the Passion on one side, and on the other a short cross filled with scroll ornaments; all very inferior in execution. (Stuart, ib., p. 34.)

iv. There are some fragments of crosses also, of uncertain date, at Friars Carse, parish of Dunscore, and at Glencairn, both co. Dumfries; and at Mansfield, co. Ayr. (Stuart, ib., p. 67.)

Crosses with interlaced work are also mentioned, as—

- v. At Muncaster, close to Ravenglass, vi. At Beckermet St. Brigit's, . . . . .
vii. At Rockcliffe, . . . . .
viii. At Lanercost, . . . . .
- } co. Cumberland. (Lysons, Cumberl. p. cii.)

Other monumental stones are recorded also as having been destroyed at comparatively recent dates: as e. g. at Rutherglen, on the Clyde, a cross ornamented with various figures, on the top of Crieshill, destroyed in the time of Charles I. And throughout (English) Cumberland, generally, there is scarcely a church, in or near which some portions of ancient crosses may not be seen, not mentioned by Stuart or Lysons; the former of whom only professes to give specimens of Saxon work in Northumbria, &c., by way of contrast with the Scottish and Pictish stones.

APPENDIX B.

BISHOPRIC OF CANDIDA CASA OR WHITHERNE, AS SUBJECT ECCLESIASTICALLY TO YORK.

A.D. 1188-1472.

A.D. 1188. March 13, Lateran, Bull of Pope Clement III., declaring the freedom from York of the Scottish sees by name, but omitting Galloway (see above, p. 50).

JOHN, A.D. 1189-1209.

A.D. 1189. Sept. 17, Pipewell, John Bishop of Candida Casa, consecrated by John Archbishop of Dublin, Fulmar Archbishop of Treves, and Concord Bishop of Enachdune (Hoveden, Brompton), makes his profession to Geoffrey Archbishop Elect of York (Reg. Ebor.<sup>a</sup>); and immediately after at the same place, as “suffraganeus Eboracensis Ecclesiae,” ordains Geoffrey to the priesthood, Fulmar of Treves assisting (Diceto): A.D. 1194, March 30, was at a council under Richard I. at Nottingham (Hoveden, III. 240): A.D. 1195, March, consecrates chrism etc. in York diocese, as “suffraganeus et officialis” of York, at York and at Southwell (Hoveden, III. 286): A.D. 1189 x 1206, is one of the judges appointed to decide a right of patronage claimed by the see of Glasgow (Reg. Glasg. p. 72): A.D. 1206, becomes a monk of Holyrood (Fordun): and A.D. 1209, dies (Chron. de Mailros).

A.D. 1209. Walter, chamberlain to Alan Lord of Galloway, consecrated Bishop of Candida Casa (Chron. de Mailros): A.D. 1214, Nov. 2, and Dec. 11, the Bishop of Candida Casa receives pay from the “custodes” of the see of York for taking charge of the spiritualties of York diocese during the vacancy (Rot. Claus. pp. 173, 181)<sup>a</sup>; gave the church of Sembry to Dryburgh Abbey (Keith); witnesses a grant to Melrose in the reign of Alexander II., A.D. 1214-1235 (Lib. de Mldr., I. 181); and A.D. 1235, dies (Chron. de Mailros).

<sup>a</sup> Pope Innocent III., A.D. 1216, names only Durham and Carlisle as suffragans of York (Reg. Ebor., MS. Lansd. 402, and in Dugd. Mon. VI. P. iii. p. 1185, n. 38). The same Pope, A.D. 1203, writes to the Archbishop of York, that in releasing Bernard Archbishop of Ragusa from that see, he permits him to act as Bishop in Carlisle, but “absque usu pallii” (Decret. Greg. IX. lib. 1. tit. ix. c. 9).

GILBERT, A.D. 1235-1253.

A.D. 1235. Feb. 25 (1st Sunday in Lent), Gilbert monk of Melrose and master of the novices, once Abbat of Glenluce (dioc. Cand. Cas.), elected Bishop of Candida Casa by the clergy and people of the diocese, convent of Whitherne excepted; and March 11 ("Oculi mei," 3rd Sunday in Lent), Odo canon of Whitherne, once Abbat of Deretonsal [Dercongal], elected by the prior and canons of Whitherne (Chron. de Mailros): letters of the said prior and canons, declaring the election of Odo "on the 3rd Sunday in Lent;"—of Alexander King of Scotland to the archdeacon and clergy of Galway, at Newbottle, April 23, assenting to Gilbert's election; and to Walter Archbishop of York, at Cadyow (Hamilton), May 20, requiring him not to consecrate Odo;—commission of Walter Archbishop of York, to certain judges, to determine the case upon June 4 at York;—letters of prior and canons of Whitherne excusing their absence from York July 5 on account of the war, and sending a proctor (Lansd. MS. 402, from York Registers)<sup>a</sup>: Gilbert consecrated at York by Archbishop Walter Sept. 2<sup>b</sup> (Chron. de Mailros). A.D. 1239, May 31, indulgence granted by Gilbert Bishop of Candida Casa of 20 years, to altars of S. John Baptist, S. Mary, and S. Cuthbert; and A.D. 1245, Oct. 1, at "Wermue" [Wearmouth], to all giving alms to Finchale; and A.D. 1246, March 7, at Durham, for sustentation of lights at Finchale; and A.D. 1248, Oct. 28, also for lights (Finchale Priory, Surtees Soc. pp. 169, 172, 175, 177)<sup>c</sup>. A.D. 1253, dies (Chron. de Mailros, and Lanercost).

See vacant, A.D. 1253, 1254.

A.D. 1253, 1254. Henry elected (it does not appear by whom), but his election objected to by Henry Baliol of Barnard Castle, who claimed to nominate to the see in right of his wife Devorguilla, daughter and heiress of the Lord of Galloway, as against Alexander III. King of Scotland, who claimed the patronage as King (Chron. de Mailros, and Lanercost). A.D. 1257. April 3, Lateran, Pope Alexander IV. to the Prior of Kelso, Glasg. dioc., and to the Archdeacon of Tweeddale, S. Andr. dioc., appointing them to decide an appeal to the Pope by the dean of the church "de Wikecono [Kirkcowan?]," against the rector of the church "de Insula [Inch]." both

"in dioc. Candidæ Casæ," against a decision of the subdean of York; and speaking of "Archiepiscopi Ebor. loci metropolitani, ad quem de antiqua et approbata et hactenus pacifice observata consuetudine hujusmodi causarum cognitio pertinet in supradicta diocesi;"—the cause having begun three years before, scil. in 1254, "vacante sede Candidæ Casæ quæ tunc pastore carebat" (Theiner, pp. 75, 76).

A.D. 1255. Feb. 7 ("7 Idus Feb.", Chron. Lanercost), at S. Agatha, Richmond, co. York, Henry Bishop of Candida Casa consecrated with Thomas Bishop of Carlisle, by Walter Archbishop of York<sup>a</sup> and Walter Bishop of Durham (Chron. de Mailros, and Lanercost, and Wikes); Feb. 11 ("the Morrow of S. Scholastica"), Henry, "Abbas S. Crucis," elected Bishop of Candida Casa "in majori ecclesia Ebor. 1254" (A.D. 1255 N.S.), "in presentia Steph. de . . . . , magistri R. Pepyn subdecani," etc., and Feb. 24, "anno 40" (sc. of Abp. Gray's archiepiscopate, sc. 1255), confirmed (Reg. Gray, Rot. Minor. no. 252<sup>b</sup>). A.D. 1255, he is mentioned in the Lib. de Dunfermline. And he also granted a confirmation of various churches to Dryburgh (Cart. de Dryb.). A.D. 1260. April 18 ("die S. Oswyni"), Tynemouth, Henry Bishop of Candida Casa grants an indulgence for the church of Finchale (Finch. Priory, p. 179). Same year, Nov. 16, Westminster, he is one of those appointed to escort to Scotland the child of Alexander King of Scotland, about to be born in England, in case anything should happen to Alexander himself (Rym., I. 402). A.D. 1263 x 1266. Feb. 24, Fynchale, he grants an indulgence for the church of Fynchale; and A.D. 1277, "Wardle," another "pro luminari" (Finch. Priory, pp. 182, 186). A.D. 1277. Aug. 24, Cawood, Walter Archbishop of York grants a church to Henry Bishop of Candida Casa on account of the poverty of his see, confirmed by Dean and Chapter of York A.D. 1277, Sept. 8; letter also of Dungal Prior of Whitherne and his convent on the subject, A.D. 1279, June 25; and memorandum respecting the confirmation of the grant by the Pope, mentioning the privilege granted to the King of Scotland, that "Scots should not go out of the kingdom for judgment" (Reg. Giffard). A.D. 1281. May, Henry Bishop of Candida Casa has a licence from the Archbishop of York to consecrate a chapel at Loweswater in the parish of S. Bees (Wickwaine's Reg., b. 21 a; and in Hutton MSS. Harl. 6970). A.D. 1282 Nov. 8, Cawood, "Instrumentum Publicum super professione domini H. Episcopi Candidæ Casæ facta domino W[illmo Wickwaine]," drawn up by a notary and solemnly witnessed; in which Bishop Henry states, among other things, that "suffraganeum et subditum vestrum et Ecclesiæ Eborac. in omnibus iuribus metropoliticis me et Ecclesiam meam esse, et prædecessores meos fuisse ab antiquissimis temporibus, publice profiteor et recognosco e<sup>n</sup> (Reg. Wickw. in Lansd. 402, fol. 75, 76). A.D. 1283. Feb. 5, Scone, at the Scottish Parliament held to swear allegiance to the young Queen Margaret, the Bishop of Galway ("Galwathiensis") was appointed among the other Scottish Bishops to enforce obedience by spiritual penalties (Acts of Parl. of Scott., I. 82). A.D. 1284. Jan. 9, York, H. Whitherne joins in consecrating Anthony Bek to the see of Durham (Reg. Wickw., &c.). A.D. 1286. Sept. 9, "Extildesham" (Hexham), Henry Bishop of Candida Casa professes obedience to John (Romanus) Archbishop of York, in identical terms with his profession in 1282 to William Wickwaine<sup>e</sup> (Reg. Joh. Rom., 99; and in Lansd. 402, fol. 76 b, &c.): and same year, Sept. 10, an indulgence of forty days is granted by the Archbishop for contributing to the rebuilding of the church of Candida Casa, burnt with fire (Reg. Joh. Rom. in Hutton, Harl. 6970). A.D. 1287 (2nd year of Joh. Rom.), a letter of the Archbishop to Bishop Henry excuses him from the annual visit to York promised in his profession, on account of his old age, but promises that if he does come "versus partes nostras," he shall have some churches to consecrate, "quod in emolumentum aliquid vobis cedet" (Reg. Joh. Rom., ib.): and accordingly, same year, Aug. 17, Henry Bishop of Candida Casa has a commission to consecrate the churches of Oswaldskirk and Edstone (ib.). And A.D. 1287, Archbishop Romanus writes to Mr. G. de Vezano, desiring him to grant more time to Henry Bishop of Whitherne, to pay a debt of 80 marks, in consequence of his poverty (Historical Papers, &c., from Northern Registers, 88). A.D. 1290. March 14, "Henry Evesque de Gauway" is present at a Scotch Parliament of Queen Margaret held at "Briggeham," which assents to the intended marriage of young Prince Edward with Margaret (Acts of Parl. of Scott., I. 85, and Hist. Doc. Scott., I. 129). A.D. 1291. Aug. 4, Letters of Protection from Edward I. for "H. Candidæ Casæ Episcopus, in Hibernia," the Bishop having sent ships to Ireland for provisions (Hist. Doc. Scott., I. 218:—a like document for the Abbat and Convent of Dundraynan for five years, A.D. 1292, July 11, ib. 327). And same year, Oct. 16 ("sixth year" of Joh. Romanus' archiepiscopate), the Bishop has a commission from the Archbishop to perform all duties which require the imposition of episcopal hands in the province of York, "ipso Archiepiscopo in remotis agente" (Reg. Joh. Rom.); Romanus having gone to Rome about his dispute with Bishop Bek of Durham. A.D. 1292. June 5, Norham, he is chosen as one of Baliol's friends in the dispute between him and Bruce respecting the succession (Rym., I. 767). A.D. 1293. Nov. 1, being at the time "cruce signatus," he dies (Chron. de Lanercost). And in Archbishop Romanus' Register are various acts of his officials during the vacancy ensuing upon Bishop Henry's death.

[BISHOPRIC OF CANDIDA CASA OR WHITHERNE.]

<sup>a</sup> The Chron. de Lanercost names Walter of York as consecrator. But inasmuch as Gray was in London at the Parliament in the beginning of A.D. 1255, was an old man and ill, and died at Fulham May 1 of the same year, it is probable that he did not consecrate at Richmond in Feb. in person, but only gave his commission for the purpose.

<sup>b</sup> This election and confirmation after the consecration,—and the dates seem established beyond reasonable doubt,—could only have been performed with the purpose of having all forms technically complete according to the York view of the case. Henry was manifestly elected in some form or other in 1253 (Chron. de Lanercost), inasmuch as Baliol demurred at that time to the election as (upon his view of the matter) invalid.

<sup>c</sup> The Bishop of Durham had refused obedience, as being made to the individual Bishop, not to him and his successors. Consequently these renewed professions do not imply any special rebelliousness at this period in the Bishops of Whitherne.

THOMAS, A.D. 1294-1319 (?).

A.D. 1294. Jan. 13, John (Baliol) King of Scotland, to John Archbishop of York, desiring him not to consecrate Thomas de Kircudbright, chaplain to Robert Bruce, elected Bishop of Candida Casa by John Prior of Whitherne and the canons, because he had been elected, "non per inspiracionem vel viam caritativam, sed per quandam compromissionem, quae symoniaca conversacio per aliquas certas personas excogitata est;" and from "Robert de Brus," on the other hand, urging his consecration (Reg. Joh. Rom., Hutton MS. Harl. 6970; and Hist. Papers, &c., 104, 105). Feb., York, "Contentio super jurisdictionem, vacante sede Candide Case, inter Capitulum eiusdem et Archidiacionum eiusdem; Archidiaconus vendicat eum sibi pertinere ex consuetudine sed Archiepiscopus probavit esse suam ex registro Walteri Gray Archiepiscopi:" whereupon the Archdeacon's proctor admitted the claim, and offered amends, "quam dictus Archiepiscopus benigne admisit, volens super emenda plenius deliberare, processu temporis, cum sibi et suo consilio videbitur expedire" (ib.). May 30, Cawood, Thomas makes his formal and detailed profession to Archbishop John Romanus, "qui me de premissis per librum corporaliter investivit" (ib.). June 30, invitations to Bishops of S. Asaph and Carlisle to join in the consecration of the Bishop of Whitherne at Ripon (ib.; the Chron. de Lanercost, calling him Thomas de Daltown, supposes him to have been actually consecrated at Ripon, Aug. 15). Oct. 10, "crastino S. Dionysii," in the parish church of Gedeling, Thomas is consecrated by the Archbishop and the two Bishops above-named (Reg. Joh. Rom., ib.). A.D. 1296. Aug. 28, "vint utime," Berwick-upon-Tweed, Thomas Bishop of Candida Casa (with Robert of Glasgow and Henry of Aberdeen) swears allegiance to Edward I. (Rym., I. 844, and Hist. Doc. Scott., II. 65); and so also, same day and place, Maurice Prior of Whitherne with his convent (Hist. Doc. Scott., II. 69); and accordingly, Sept. 2, same place, among other Scotch ecclesiastics, the Bishop has a writ to restore his lands, addressed in his case "Vice-Comiti de Cumb." (Rym., I. 845); and Sept. 1, same year and place, a writ occurs respecting a debt due by him (Hist. Doc. Scott., II. 87). A.D. 1297. Jan. 13, and 1298. June 12, Letters of Presentation for livings in the diocese, addressed by the English

[BISHOPRIC OF CANDIDA CASA OR WHITHERNE.]

King, but merely "Episcopo Candidæ Casæ" (ib. 161, 287). A.D. 1303. April 16, Burton near Beverley, Thomas de Kircudbright, Bishop of Candida Casa, professes obedience to Archbishop Corbridge (Reg. Corbridge). A.D. 1305. April 13, Westminster, writ of Edward I., "De Exequiis Johannæ Reginæ Franciae Exequendis," addressed to the Bishops of all his dominions, reckons the Bishop of Candida Casa among those of Scotland (Rym., I. 971): same year, Oct. 21, "Commissio facta" (in the diocese of York) "Thomæ Episcopo Candidæ Casæ, altaria dedicare, ecclesias et cimeteria reconciliare, et Christianis pueris ordinem affectantibus in clericulis primam tonsuram conferre" (Reg. Dec. et Capit. Ebor., sede vacante post m. Corbridge, who died Sept. 22, A.D. 1304). A.D. 1306, Sept. 20, the church of Carnemole appropriated to the see of Candida Casa by Archbishop Grenefield, on account of the poverty of the see (Reg. Grenefeld; and Hist. Papers, &c., 175-177). A.D. 1307. Dec. 13, letters to Scottish Bishops, etc. from Edward II., and among others to the Bishop of Candida Casa, to assist in keeping the peace against the King's enemies in Scotland (Rym., II. 22). A.D. 1309. Feb. 24, Dundee, "Discussio Juris Succedendi in Regnum, declarata per clerum" (in a Council of Scottish clergy), where Thomas Bishop of Candida Casa among others declares for Robert Bruce (Acts of Parl. of Scotl., I. 100): same year, Oct. 12 (Clement V's. Bull of excommunication against Bruce, for the murder of Comyn, being dated May 21, A.D. 1309), the Bishops of Durham and Candida Casa are directed to publish the excommunication of Bruce (Reg. Grenefeld). A.D. 1310. April 11, "100s. and an honest hospice at York against the time of our Council," granted to Thomas Bishop of Candida Casa by the Archbishop of York (Reg. Grenefeld). May 20, he is present as a suffragan of York at the provincial Council held there against the Templars (ib., and W., II. 394): and likewise A.D. 1311, May 24, and onwards, at a second Council held there on the same subject (ib.). A.D. 1311. May 30, Thomas Bishop of Whitherne joins at York in consecrating Richard Kellaw to the see of Durham (Reg. Grenefeld, etc.): and July 1, at Thorp, the Archbishop of York commissions Thomas Bishop of Candida Casa to remove Walter Bishop of Coventry and Lichfield from the King's prison at York to the Archbishop's, as a matter of Church liberties (Rym., II. 138): and July 29, York, Thomas Bishop of Candida Casa solemnly absolves the Templars who had submitted (Reg. Grenefeld, and W., II. 400): and same year has a grant of £20 for his services as suffragan (Reg. Grenefeld). A.D. 1313. Sept. 27, parish of Snaith to pay 40s. "pro reconciliatione cimiterii sanguinis effusione polluti," to Thomas Bishop of Candida Casa, appointed for the purpose by the Archbishop of York, or else the church to be interdicted (ib.): and A.D. 1314, Sept. 18, Blith church interdicted for non-payment of like dues to the same Bishop Thomas (ib.). A.D. 1314. Sept. 20, royal licence to the same Thomas to visit his diocese, stay there, and return to England, "pro voluntate sua" (Rot. Scot. p. 131 b): same year, Dec. 5, "Penitentia Walteri de Hamerton pro non solvendo pecuniam Domino Candidæ Casæ Episcopo pro dedicatione capellæ de Conseyb" (Reg. Grenefeld). A.D. 1319. July 12, York, presentations to various churches by Edward II. include some addressed, "Episcopo Candidæ Casæ" (Rym., II. 481), but with a blank for the name, leaving it uncertain whether Thomas was still living: probably however Thomas was the Bishop intended, inasmuch as his successor Simon, although apparently elected (in some fashion or other, not recognized by the see of York) before A.D. 1321, was not consecrated until A.D. 1327, and the presentations seem to imply that the see was still filled in A.D. 1319.

See vacant, A.D. 1319(?)–1326.

A.D. 1321. July 6, "Oct. of SS. Peter and Paul," Wedale, Simon "Divina miseratione Candidæ Casæ humilis minister," permits Melrose Abbey to rebuild S. Cuthbert's chapel (old Melrose), which had been destroyed by the English (Lib. de Melros, II. 390). But the authenticity of the date is doubtful. A.D. 1322. Nov. 24, 17th Robert Bruce, a charter of that King implies the see of Whitherne to be then vacant (Harl. MSS. 4628). A.D. 1323. April 19, Cawood, Archbishop Melton to the Cardinal Deacon of S. Heliodorus, complaining that the Bishop elect of Candida Casa was seeking confirmation and consecration from the Pope instead of from himself his proper metropolitan (Reg. Melton, in Cott. MSS. Vesp. C. xvi. 108).

SIMON, A.D. 1326–1354.

A.D. 1326. Sept. 25, ("die Martis prox. post fest. S. Matt."), Simon, Abbot of Holyrood, elected Bishop of Whitherne "per viam compromissi," announces his election to the Archbishop of York (see a full account of his consecration, submission, &c., in Hist. Papers, &c. 335, sq.). A.D. 1327. Jan. 28, licence from Abbat of Westminster for the consecration of the Bishop of Candida Casa in a chapel of Westminster Abbey (Reg. Melton). Feb. 1, Simon de Wedehale is consecrated accordingly by commission from the Archbishop of York by the Bishops of Carlisle, Lichfield, and Llandaff (ib.). A.D. 1334. Feb. 10, the Bishop of Candida Casa is present in a Scottish Parliament at Edinburgh (Rym., II. 877), being called in Rymer "Henricus," but by an evident mistake; inasmuch as, A.D. 1335, Nov. 1, Dodynton, Edward III. grants protection to "Simon" Bishop of Candida Casa for one year (Rot. Scot. p. 385 b): and A.D. 1344, Aug. 27, Cawood, the same "Simon" professes obedience to Archbishop

[BISHOPRIC OF CANDIDA CASA OR WHITHERNE.]

Zouche (Reg. Zouche): and A.D. 1345, Nov. 11, Kyrchrist (in Kirkcudbright), Simon Bishop of Candida Casa confirms to the canons of Holyrood all their privileges in his diocese, together with the presentation "ad vicariam ecclesiæ de Kircudbright" (Charters of Holyrood, pp. 95, 96). A.D. 1349. April 28, commission from the Archbishop of York to the Bishops of Durham, Carlisle, and Candida Casa, to publish an indulgence on behalf of the mortality (Reg. Zouche): and A.D. 1354, March 11, "Simon de Wedehale Episcopus Candidæ Casæ obiit" (Reg. Dec. et Capit. Ebor., Hutton MSS. Harl. 1671, p. 164).

MICHAEL, A.D. 1354-1359.

A.D. 1355. June 26, Michael de Malconhalgh, Prior of Candida Casa, elected Bishop of the see, is confirmed (Reg. Dec. et Capit. Ebor., ib. a.): according to Hutton, from York Reg., he was Bishop in A.D. 1354, in which year he was probably elected. A.D. 1355. July 12, "Reverendissimus pater dominus Willelmus [Edendon] Wintoniensis Episcopus, ascitis et assistentibus sibi venerabilibus patribus domino Cesario Ecclesiæ Beatæ Mariæ de Rosis et—[blank in MS.] Episcopis, reverendis dominis Michaeli electo Londoniensi, virtute litterarum Apostolicarum etc., et Michaeli Mackenlagh Ecclesiæ cathedralis Candidæ Casæ provinciæ Eboracensis electo, virtute commissionis Johannis Archiepiscopi Eboracensis cuius tenor inferius describitur, in ecclesia Beatæ Marie de Suthwerke munus consecrationis impedit" (Reg. Edendon Winton.). A.D. 1357. Oct. 5, Berwick, Michael, Bishop of Candida Casa, is one among the Scottish Bishops appointed to enforce by spiritual penalties the treaty for the redemption of King David Bruce (Rym., III. 375, 378): and A.D. 1358, Jan 17, Mortlake, Edward III. grants the same Michael, "suffragan of York," a safe-conduct to come to England to the Archbishop of York on business relating to his diocese (ib. 387).

<sup>a</sup> Thoresby Archbishop of York was translated to that see Oct. 22, A.D. 1352, and enthroned there Sept. 8, A.D. 1353. But it appears that he did not begin to hold his own ordinations until he ceased to be chancellor, viz. in A.D. 1356 (Raine). This may possibly account for this entry and that of Bishop Simon's death occurring in the Decanal Register.

THOMAS, A.D. 1359-1362.

A.D. 1359. Dec. 31, Avignon, Pope Innocent to Thomas Bishop of Candida Casa, provides the said Thomas ("rector de Kyrteum" [Kirkcolm] "ejusd. dioc.") to the see, vacant by the death of Michael, and states that he has caused him to be consecrated (at Avignon) by Peter Bishop of Ostia; similar letters to the chapter of Candida Casa, to the clergy and people of Candida Casa, to the Archbishop of York, and to King David II. (Theiner, pp. 314, 315). A.D. 1362. Sept. 2, Perth, Thomas Bishop of Candida

[BISHOPRIC OF CANDIDA CASA OR WHITHERNE.]

Casa (with John of Dunkeld and Patrick of Brechin) arbiter between the Bishop and Chapter of Glasgow (Reg. Glasg. p. 271).

ADAM, A.D. 1363—(after) 1369.

A.D. 1363. Feb. 20, Westminster, Edward III. grants a safe-conduct to "Adam de Lanark, Episcopus de Galway in Scotia," now "in partibus transmarinis," to pass through England to Scotland, to last one year (Rot. Scot., I. 881 a): which looks as if Adam also had been consecrated abroad by the Pope. A.D. 1365. Jan. 13, and July 14, "Adam Episcopus Candidæ Casæ" present in Scottish Parliaments (Acts of Parl. of Scott., I. 137, 138): and A.D. 1369, Sept. 30, Scone, witnesses a charter of 38th David II. (Reg. M. Sig. p. 57), which is witnessed also by another "Adam de Lanark, clericus." The Bishop of Candida Casa was also present at a Scottish Parliament A.D. 1369, March 8 (Acts of Parl. of Scott., I. 148), but no name is given<sup>a</sup>.

<sup>a</sup> Keith calls him "Andrew," from a deed up to Sept. 30, A.D. 1369; and Andrew is probably a mistake for Adam. 39th Edward II., i.e. Nov. 1369–Nov. 1370, but "Adam" was certainly still Bishop DAVID DOUGLAS, A.D. (after) 1369–1373.

JAMES CARRON, A.D. 1373.

A.D. 1373. James Carron was Bishop for a few months, but resigned, his resignation being "confirmed" by Pope Gregory XI. "in the 3rd year of his pontificate" (Jan. 5, 1373–Jan. 5, 1374)—(Hay, ib.).

FRANCIS RAMSAY, A.D. 1373–1402.

A.D. 1373, Francis Ramsay, a Mathurine of Brechin from A.D. 1362, elected Bishop of Candida Casa in succession to James Carron in A.D. 1373, but whether consecrated by the Pope (who certainly was applied to for the confirmation of his predecessor's resignation) is doubtful: died Oct. 1, A.D. 1402, having administered the diocese 29 years (Hay, ib.: see at the end of this Appendix).

But OSWALD, a York Bishop, A.D. 1379—(after) 1406.

Contemporaneously however with Ramsay's episcopate [and upon occasion possibly of the schism between Pope Urban VI. (elected April 9, A.D. 1378) and the Antipope Clement VII. (elected Sept. 21, 1378)], the latter of whom was acknowledged by Scotland, the former by England], A.D. 1379, March 26, one Oswald, "Episcopus Candidæ Casæ in Scotia, ut asserit," has a safe-conduct from Richard II. King of England to pass into Scotland in connection with Church business entrusted to him by Urban VI. (Rot. Scot.,

[BISHOPRIC OF CANDIDA CASA OR WHITHERNE.]

II. 14). And the same Oswald, A.D. 1388, May 5, has a protection as "Bishop of Galway" from King Richard, he having fled into England "pro salvatione vitæ suæ" (ib. 98). And thenceforth we find him in York only: viz. A.D. 1389, Dec. 13, Oswald Bishop of Candida Casa ordains for the Archbishop of York "in capella B. Mariae et SS. Angelorum" (Reg. Arundel, Hutton MSS. Harl. 6969): A.D. 1392. Nov. 11 (Fest. S. Martini), he grants indulgence of 40 days to all who pray at S. Andrew's church, Newcastle, but as "anno nostræ consecrationis 12" (Brand, Hist. of Newcastle, I. 179), which does not tally with his being consecrated (as he almost certainly was) by the Pope abroad before March, A.D. 1379: A.D. 1397, April 6 (Reg. Waldby, Hutton, ib.), and again A.D. 1398, Jan. 9 (York Reg. Galba E. 10), he has a commission to act as suffragan in York diocese; in the former case, "in absentia Archiepiscopi, ad dedicand," etc.: and A.D. 1398, March 2, he ordains in S. Martin's church, York; April 6, in the Carmelites' church, York; June 1, in S. Michael's le Belfry, York (Galba E. 10): and A.D. 1406, April 3, "deputatur suffraganeus Dunelmensi sede vacante" (Reg. Scrope, in Hutton MSS., Bishop Skirlaw of Durham being just dead).

Meanwhile the Scottish succession was obviously kept up without regard to Oswald, whom the Scottish Church must have regarded as an intruder thrust into the see by the Pope whom they did not recognise. For we find a Bishop—

ELISÆUS, A.D. 1405-1414 or 1415.

A.D. 1405. Elisæus was consecrated to the see of Candida Casa, inasmuch as he calls A.D. 1412 "the seventh year" of his consecration (in a charter quoted by Keith from Reg. Chart., A.D. 1413); and probably therefore he was succeeded immediately by—

THOMAS, A.D. 1414 or 1415-1420 × 1426.

Who, A.D. 1416, March 17, Perth, 22nd year of (the Antipope) Benedict XIII., testifies among the other Scottish Bishops, etc., to an inspeximus of Edward II.'s resignation, anno 2 of his reign, of his claim to the Scottish crown (Acts of Parl. of Scott., I. 226; Reg. Glasg. p. 310): and A.D. 1420, July 16, Perth, assists at a general Council of the Scottish Church (Reg. Brechin., I. 39, etc., in Keith): and who would appear therefore to have been succeeded immediately by—

ALEXANDER VAUS, A.D. 1420 × 1426-1444 × 1451.

Who A.D. 1426 is Bishop of Candida Casa (Reg. Chart. in an., ap. Keith), and A.D. 1429, May 25, is appointed by James I. of Scotland

[BISHOPRIC OF CANDIDA CASA OR WHITHERNE.]

one of the Conservators of Peace on the Borders; and June 15 is sent as ambassador into England (Rym., X. 417), and July 12 acts as Conservator aforesaid (ib. 428); and A.D. 1444 is still Bishop (Reg. Chart. in Keith): but resigns before A.D. 1451: in which year we find—

THOMAS SPENS, A.D. 1444 × 1451–1459.

For A.D. 1451, July 5, Thomas Spens, Bishop of “Candida Casa” (or again “of Whithern,” and “vulgariter de Galway nuncupatus”), has letters of safe-conduct from Henry VI. of England to go to Newcastle and Durham (Rym., XI. 286), and July 27 is appointed ambassador to England by James II. of Scotland (ib. 287), and Aug. 13 and 14 acts in that capacity (ib. 288, 293), and Oct. 9 has a safe-conduct to come to England (ib. 303); and also in A.D. 1451 grants a charter (Reg. Chart. and Reg. Episc. Morav. in Keith): and A.D. 1453, “anno regn. Jac. II. 18,” is still Bishop (Invent. Aberdon. in Keith); and A.D. 1454, April 14, Edinburgh, attests a grant of James II. to Melrose (Lib. de Mailros, I. 589—an indulgence granted to S. Cuthbert’s Melrose by a Bishop of C. C. unnamed, in some unnamed year of James II. [ib. 570], may also be his); and is also still Bishop A.D. 1454, Oct. 22, and in 1458 (Reg. Chart. in Keith); but between Aug. 24, A.D. 1458 (when the see of Aberdeen became vacant), and April, A.D. 1459, is postulated to Aberdeen.

NINIAN, A.D. 1459–1479 × 1483.

A.D. 1459, April 27, 23rd Jac. II., letters patent appoint Ninian to the see of Candida Casa (Keith); and July 13, “Ninianus Episcopus de Galloway” has safe-conduct from Henry VI. to come to England (Rym., XI. 423): and in A.D. 1476 he is still Bishop (Acts of Parl. of Scott., II. 113, not however naming him; Chart. de Sanct. Crucis, pp. 147, 148). But—

A.D. 1472, Aug. 17<sup>a</sup>, a Bull of Pope Sixtus IV. erects St. Andrew’s into a metropolitan see, and archiepiscopate, having all the Scottish Bishoprics, including Galloway, as its suffragans: the Archbishop of York of the time renewing his claim to the subjection of all the Scottish Bishops, but fruitlessly (Buchanan, lib. XII., Opp., I. 226).

From the above it is evident, that Michael (ob. A.D. 1359) was the last Bishop of Whitherne whose profession to the see of York is on record: that Thomas his successor (ob. A.D. 1362) was consecrated by the Pope, who however thought it fitting to write to the Archbishop of York on the occasion : that Adam, who came next (ob. A.D. 1369 x 1373), was also probably consecrated by the Pope, but that both he and all his successors (with one exception) were obviously Scottish altogether and had nothing at all to do with York ; although in A.D. 1379, there being a Pope and an Antipope, the former intruded Bishop Oswald into the see, already filled by a Bishop in communion with the latter ; and Oswald, so intruded, being obliged in A.D. 1388 to fly for his life to England, acted thenceforth as a suffragan of York, the Scottish line being kept up in entire disregard of his existence : lastly, that a final protest or complaint was made in vain in A.D. 1472 by the see of York, but with reference to all the Scottish Bishoprics, and not to Galloway in particular.

APPENDIX C.

BISHOP OF GLASGOW IN SUBJECTION TO YORK, A.D. 1318-1323.

A.D. 13<sup>19</sup><sub>20</sub>, Feb. 1, Archbishop Melton of York writes to B. Cardinal deacon of S. Mary in Aquiro, on behalf of John Bishop of Glasgow, who on account of the war dares not visit his diocese, and is for that reason in great poverty; and the same John of Glasgow, called once John de Ecclesclif, and once Friar John de Ecclesfeld, is on four occasions employed by Archbishop Melton as a suffragan (Histor. Papers, &c. from Northern Registers, 299, 300). John Bishop of Glasgow, who must have been the York Bishop, assisted also at the consecration of Roger of Lichfield at Hales Abbey, June 27, A.D. 1322. And a grant, which must be his, to Holyrood Abbey, March 1, 1322, is among the Holyrood Charters, pp. 186-188. "Frater Johannes de Eglesclif de ordine Predicatorum, consecratus in curia Romana, venit ad dyocesim suam Landav. octavis Sancte Trinitatis [May 29] anno Domini 1323, et obiit apud Lancadwaladwr, viz. ii<sup>o</sup> die mensis Januarii anno Domini [1344, miswritten 1306], et sepultus est in ecclesia Fratrum Predicatorum de Kerdyf" (MS. additions to the Owston MS. of the Lib. Landavensis). John of Egglescliffe is stated to have been Bishop of Bethlehem in partibus, in the first instance (Gallia Christ., XII. 690; Hibern. Dominicana, c. 13): but he was really consecrated to Glasgow in the place of Robert Wiseheart deceased, by Nicolas Bishop of Ostia, at Avignon; see the Bull dated XVI. kal. Aug. A.D. 1318 (Theiner, 202). As Bishop of Glasgow he has letters from Edward II. dated July 19, A.D. 1319 (Rymer, III. 401). Robert Bruce objected to him as an Englishman, and was answered by the Pope, Aug. 18, A.D. 1320 (Rymer, III. 432); and in A.D. 1323, Mar. 15, he was translated to Connor (Theiner, 226), and June 20, to Llandaff (Reg. Reynolds). The Llandaff scribe, apparently, knew nothing of John of Egglescliffe's previous Glasgow and Irish Episcopates.

John Lindsey was appointed Bishop of Glasgow in his place, Mar. 15, A.D. 1323 (Theiner, 226).

I. BRITISH CHURCHES IN ARMORICA<sup>a</sup> UNTIL THE SUPPRESSION OF BRITISH CUSTOMS.

A.D. 387-818.

[A.D. 387. Colony of Maximus' soldiers from Britain (Nenn. Gild.).

A.D. 409-502. Independent Armorican state, under a "King of the Britons"<sup>b</sup>.

c. A.D. 450. Immigration of (Christian) Britons fleeing from Saxon invasion (V. Gild. in Bibl. Floriac. and V. S. Winwaloei).

A.D. 461. First mention of a Bréton Bishop.

A.D. 502. Brittany henceforth claimed as subject to the suzerainty of the Franks<sup>c</sup>, although practically independent; and its rulers called "Comites" instead of "Reges" (Greg. Tur., IV. 3).

A.D. 512. Further immigration of Britons<sup>d</sup>: Bishoprics founded for them by Childebert at Léon, and perhaps at Dol, irrespectively of the Archbishopric of Tours.

A.D. 541-590. Differences about Easter.

A.D. 561, 566, etc. Further immigration of Britons, in connection with SS. Maclovius, Maglorius, etc.

A.D. 561. Vannes occupied by the Franks until A.D. 753.

A.D. 567. Metropolitanship of Tours over Armorica asserted in a council of Tours.

A.D. 600-700. Frank supremacy powerful over nearly all Brittany (so that in Eastern Brittany the people ceased to use the British language, Courson, p. 256).

A.D. 612 x 632. Cadwallon of Wales takes refuge with Duke Salomon; and, A.D. 664 x 689, Cadwallader with Alan<sup>e</sup>.

A.D. 635. Judicael, "Rex Britannorum," submits himself and his kingdom to Dagobert at Creil (Fredegar, 78; V. S. Elig. Noviom.).

A.D. 753. Bréttons recover Vannes, but are driven out again by Pipin (Ann. Metens.), who appoints "Counts of the British March" (among others, Roland).

A.D. 786, 799, 811. Brittany overrun by Andulfus, "Senescallus" of Charlemagne, by Wido Count of the British March, and yet again by a third army of Charlemagne (Eginhard; Regin. Abb.; Conc. Wurm. A.D. 786; Ann. S. Nazar., Franc., Xantens.).

A.D. 818. Brittany again overrun by Ludov. Pius (Eginhard, Ermold., Nigell.), who also puts down there the British monastic rule and tonsure<sup>f</sup>.]

[FIRST BRETON BISHOP.]

<sup>a</sup> Armorica (Lez-ar-mor, Littus Maris) = at first the whole northern and north-western seaboard of Gaul up to the confines of (modern) Belgium (Cæs. De B. G., VII. 75, and see Rot. Scac. Normann., ed. Stapleton, I. xxxviii.); in the 5th century, North-western Gaul from Loire to Seine, then independent: subsequently restricted to the territory of the British immigrations, i. e. at first to the triangle marked by Cruc-Ucblidant = Urbant to the west, the bay to the north of Mons Jovis or Mont-S. Michel (Gall. Christ., XII. 472) to the north-east, and Cantuic or Condivicium = (precisely) Corbilo, two leagues below Nantes, on the Loire (Courson, 199), to the south-east (Nenn., and especially the Irish Nennius, with Herbert's Append. X.): its eastern boundary being the Vilaine, the Rance, and the Forêt Brékilien (Courson, 200):—thus excluding, from probably the time of Clovis, Nantes and Rennes (Venant. Fortun., Carm. III. iii. 7, and vi. 41; Greg. Tur., V. 27, IX. 18, 24, X. 9; and De Mirac., I. 61; Columban., Epist. IV.; and Jon. in V. S. Columban., from A.D. 578 to A.D. 610); although these towns had probably been subject to the Armorican or British King during the 5th century (“Britannos ad Ligerim sitos,” Sidon. Apoll., Epist. I. 7, A.D. 472 x 484); also charters from Landevenec in Morice: and see the history of King Riothamus). So, also, Nantes is only “in vicinia Brittonum,” A.D. 610 (Columban., Epist. IV.; Galland., XII. 351 b, c). This eastern boundary remained until the 9th century (so the “Limes Namneticus” of Greg. Tur., IX. 18, the “Limes Britonum” of A.D. 600 [and onwards] in Fredegar., XX., the “Marchia Britonum” of the first Carlovingians, A.D. 753 and onwards; Sixons also at Bayeux and in the Bessin during this period, and the “Otlingua Saxonica,” due south of Bayeux, in A.D. 843 [Capit. Car. Calv. in Baluz., II. 69]; Saxons even for a short time on the Loire [Greg. Tur., II. 18, 19] viz. ab ut A.D. 470): but was pushed east by the Britons after their victory at Ballon in A.D. 845, as far as Bayeux; and not only Rennes and Nantes, but as far as Angers and the Cotentin and Avranchin, ceded to Brittany in A.D. 865: but the two last named again lost (and seized by Normandy) in A.D. 933, and finally in A.D. 941. British Armorica was also called Letavia, Llydaw (Welsh), Leuba or Letha (Irish), either from Lez-ar-Mor or from the Leati of Maximus (Herbert, App. XI.), Cornugallia, Domnonia (but these two names limited at first to Finisterre and Morbihan), Britannia, Britannia Minor; and its inhabitants Lydwicas (A. S. C.), Armoricani, ‘Αρβόρυχοι (in Procopius), Brittones, Britanni, Britanni Ultra-marini.

<sup>b</sup> A.D. 409, Roman officers expelled, and an “οἰκέτεον κατ' ἐγονίσαν πολίτευμα” established, by “δὲ Ἀρμόριχος ἄπας,” in imitation of the Britons proper (Zosim., VI. 5, in fin.). A.D. 416, Exuperantius endeavours to conquer them (Rutil. Itin., I. 213–216): and A.D. 437 or 439, Litorius (Sidon. Apoll., Carm. VII. 251, 252); and A.D. 445, Majorian raises the Breton siege of Tours (Id., Carm. V., and Erric, in V. S. Germani): A.D. 447 or 448, S. Germanus intercedes with the Emperor against a projected Alan invasion of Armorica (Constant. in V. S. Germ., II. 5; Bæd. H. E., I. 21): A.D. 451, Armoricans join in the victory of Châlons (Jornand. De Reb. Get., LVI.): A.D. 463, Egidius defeats the Visigoths “in provincia Armoricana” (Idat. Chron.): A.D. 470, “Riothamus Rex Britonum” helps the Romans against the Goths, —‘Αρβόρυχοι Ρωμαῖον στρατιώται γεγενημένοι,—and A.D. 477 x 481, the Britons are driven by the Goths from Bourges (Jornand. ib., XLV.; Sidon. Apoll., Epist. III. 9; Greg. Tur., II. 18; Sigebert; Procop., as below): A.D. 493–497, ‘Αρβόρυχοι independent allies of the Γερμανοὶ or Franks, who had vainly endeavoured to conquer them (Procop. De Bell. Gotb., I. 12).

<sup>d</sup> King Riwallus (or Howell), “cum multitudine navium a transmarinis veniens” (Act. S. Winob.):—“Venerunt transmarini Britanni in minorem Britanniam” (Chron. in Morice, I. 3, in an. 513). So also Chron. Namnet., Chron. S. Michel, Act. S. Paul, Leon., etc.

[COUNCIL OF VANNES.]

<sup>a</sup> Mansuetus was probably a reginary Bishop, and obviously in union with Tours, Perpetius of Tours presiding over this council. The legendary accounts of S. Corentin, the first Bishop of Quimper (Corisopitanus), connect him also with Tours, and with S. Martin; and if (as has been conjectured) his name is disguised under that of "Cariaton," who was at the council of Angers A.D. 453, he was likewise almost contemporary with Mansuetus. As was also the first S. Padarn of Vannes, if he was really there A.D. 448. Venrandus, however, who signs this council at Tours by proxy in A.D. 461, is conjectured to have been Bishop of Quimper. If these two sees really existed at that time, it is possible that Mansuetus may have been Bishop of Aleth, as Trévaux (l'Eglise de Bretagne, Paris, 1839) conjectures. The Bishops of Nantes and Rennes were also present at the Tours Council, and were plainly not Bishops "Britannorum." The Acta of S. Winwaloe of Landevenec, and those of S. Brioc, also point to the earlier half of this century. And while no doubt there were Christians in Armorica during Roman times, all the British immigrations—beginning A.D. 387 (and continuing until c. A.D. 570)—were of Christian Britons. Yet the Acta S. Melanii (said to have died after A.D. 530) describe the Veneti as "tunc temporis pene omnes gentiles" (Act. SS. Jan. 6, I. c. IV. § 23). And those of S. Paul of Léon (Bishop there from A.D. 512) testify to the continuance of heathenism in that district also down to that date.

A.D. 465. Council of Vannes, to ordain S. Padarn (II.) of Vannes <sup>a</sup>.

CONC. VENET.—[The synodical letter prefixed to the council states, in the name of the subscribing Bishops, that] Nos in ecclesia Venetica causa ordinandi Episcopi congregavit: [and among the signatures is] Paternus Episcopus subscrpsi. [Labb., IV. 1054, 1057.]

<sup>a</sup> Perpetius of Tours presided, and five Bishops besides Paternus, not Britons, were present, or assented, together with two Bishops whose sees are not known, sc. Albinus and Liberalis, conjectured by Stapleton (Rot. Scacc. Norman., I. xl.) to have been respectively Bishops of Quimper and Aleth, as being the only sees unaccounted for. Obviously Brittany was still reckoned without dispute as within the province of Tours. Can. 15 of the council enacts an uniform "ordo sacrorum," and "consuetudo psallendi," and "unam officiorum regulam," within "provincia nostra;" a canon possibly suggested by Briton immigration.

(Probably) A.D. 475 × 480. Faustus the Breton, Abbat of Lerins, and then Bishop of Riez <sup>a</sup>.

SIDON. APOLLIN., Epist. IX. 9.—SIDONIUS APOLLINARIS Domino Pap.e Fausto. Legi volumina tua, quæ Riochatus, Antistes ac monachus atque istius mundi bis peregrinus, Britannis tuis pro te reportat. .... Hic igitur ipse venerabilis, apud oppidum nostrum dum moraretur donec gentium concitatarum procella defremeret, etc. .... Sed post duos aut iis amplius menses sic quoque a nobis cito profectum, etc. etc. [Galland., X. 546.]

Gratia, from Riez, Faustus' see (A.D. 472–494), to Aleth (if that were indeed Riochat's see—nothing is recorded of him elsewhere), or at any rate to Brittany; and in his journey passed through Clermont in Auvergne, Sidonius' see in A.D. 472-484; and stopped there two months and more on account of the wars, no doubt those of the Britons, Romans, and Visigoths, A.D. 477 x 481. Faustus wrote his work about A.D. 475, and was driven into exile about A.D. 481. Sidonius also writes to King Riothamus, the Bréton King, respecting certain slaves, stolen "Britannis clam solicitantibus" (Epist. III. 9; Galland., X. 488). Respecting Faustus' semipelagianism, and the councils of Arles, Lyons, Orange, and Valence, on the subject, see Voss. Hist. Pelag., etc.

[SEE OF LEON.]

CONC. AURELIAN. I.—[Among the signatures,] Modestus Episcopus Ecclesiæ Veneticæ<sup>a</sup>. [Labb., IV. 1410.]

a "Litharedus Oxomensis," named next before Modestus, can hardly have been (as has been guessed) Bishop of Seez, or of the Osismii at (at this date) Quimper. The editor of the Gallia Christiana (XIV. 873, 971) supposes him to have been a bishop of uncertain or even unsettled see in the district of the Léonois.

A.D. 512. See of Léon, or of the Osismii, taken out of that of Quimper, and erected by Childebert, irrespectively of the See of Tours.<sup>a</sup>

ACTA S. PAULI LEON.—Childebertus vero Rex eum (Paulum) a terra elevans, et cuiusdam præsulis baculum accipiens, Suscipe, inquit, pastorealem gradum, quo officio queas prodesse saluti plurimorum. Et evocatis tribus Episcopis, qui eum benedicerent, vir Dei, perfusus lacrymis, volens nolens suscepit quod multo tempore distulit. Cui benedicto statim Rex gloriosus Agnensem Leonensemque pagos, cum sibi debito redditu, Regiae auctoritatis præcepto tradidit. [Fo. a Bosco, Bibl. Floriac., I. 423.]

a The account of the details of the act here recorded dates probably after the time of Charlemagn. The establishment of the see by the King, and the consecration of Paul by Bishops at court and not at Tours, are no doubt facts. The Chronicles assign various dates for the transaction—one as late as A.D. 580. But the Childebert intended was probably the first of the name, King of Paris A.D. 511-558. And Paul is said to have been aided, when an old man, by Judwal of Brittany, who was Count about A.D. 550, and 4th in descent from the Riwallus who came to Brittany in A.D. 513. The existence and authority of a Frank Count at Léon, at whose request Childebert is said to have acted, agrees also with the beginning more than with the end of Childebert's reign, the Franks at the former period being more masters of Brittany than they were at the latter. If Samson came to Dol at this same date, then that see also was possibly founded, and for the influx of British immigrants. But this would seem to belong to the somewhat later immigration of the middle of the century: if indeed Dol was ever a Bishop's see at all until Nomenoë made it so in A.D. 845. The legend of S. Samson (in Lib. Landav.) calls it a "monastery" throughout, without any hint of a bishopric there at that time.

a So the Cron. Brit. in Morice. But according to the dates given above in vol. I. pp.

CONC. AURELIAN. IV. can. 1.—Placuit itaque, Deo propitio, ut sanctum Pascha secundum laterculum Victorii ab omnibus sacerdotibus uno tempore celebretur. Quæ festivitas annis singulis ab Episcopo Epiphaniorum die in ecclesia populis denuntietur. De qua solennitate quoties aliquid dubitatur, inquisita vel agnita per metropolitanos a Sede Apostolica sacra constitutio teneatur. [Labb., V. 381<sup>b</sup>.]

<sup>a</sup> Injuriosus of Tours, and Eumerius of Nantes, are among the signatures to this council, but no name of any Bréton Bishop. Nor does any Bréton Bishop occur in Frank councils, except Samson in A.D. 555 or 557, who was a Bishop but almost certainly not a Bréton Bishop, and the questionable Cadoenus, supposed to be of Aleth, at Rouen in A.D. 682. Brittany was evidently becoming severed from Tours, since the establishment of the Frank kingdom, and the great British immigrations into Brittany, had brought about a difference of race between the two, and continual Frank and Bréton wars besides.

A.D. 553 x 561. Synod of Bréton Bishops excommunicates Macliaus Bishop of Vannes<sup>a</sup>.

GREG. TURON., Hist. Franc., IV. 4.—Macliaurus, de sub terra consurgens, Veneticam urbem expetiit, ibique tonsuratus et Episcopus ordinatus est. Mortuo autem Chanaone, hic apostatavit, et demissis capillis, uxorem, quam post clericatum reliquerat, cum regno fratris simul accepit; sed ab Episcopis excommunicatus est.

<sup>a</sup> Chanao, Count of Brittany in A.D. 553, murdered three of his brothers, but failed in his attempt to murder the fourth, Macliaus, who was first hidden in the way above hinted by Count Conober, and then protected by his Episcopate. Upon Chanao's death he seized the Countship, which he held with his Bishopric, in spite of excommunication, until he was himself assassinated (Greg. Tur., ib.), which must have been before A.D. 577, as in that year one Ennius appears as Bishop of Vannes (Id., V. 25).

A.D. 555 or 557. Welsh or Bréton Bishops at Paris<sup>a</sup>.

CONC. PARISIENS. III.—[Among the signatures,] Paternus peccator Episcopus consensi et subscripsi. ..... Samson peccator Episcopus consensi et subscripsi. [Labb., V. 818.]

<sup>a</sup> No sees are mentioned. The South Welsh Samson, according to his legend (see vol. I. p. 149), went to Dol, being a Bishop already; and living there until his death, took an active part in procuring the restoration of Judwal to the Countship of Brittany c. A.D. 550 by the help of King Childebert, and in opposing a usurper called Commorus, mentioned also in the

[SS. MACLOVIUS AND MAGLORIUS.]

Lives of Gildas and of Paternus (=probably Conober, slain by the Franks A.D. 560, Greg. Tur., IV. 20). He was also contemporary with King Childebert I., A.D. 511–558. (See also next article.) His Archbishopric at Dol (which probably was not even a Bishopric until A.D. 845) is a fiction of the same kind with that of the like Archbishopric at S. David's: as are also, it need hardly be said, the story of the York Archbishopric and pall, and the locating S. Samson himself at S. David's. And his connection with Childebert sufficiently accounts for his presence at Paris, without making him a Bréton Bishop. The legend of S. Teilo, which brings him also to S. Samson at Dol for a time, and that of Oudoceus, making him son of one Budic who comes from Cornwall to Armorica to be prince of the latter country, shew at all events a close intercourse in this century between South Wales, Cornwall, and Brittany. As does also the legend of Padarn of Llanbadarn (see above, vol. I. p. 159); to be mentioned here in order to distinguish him, not only from the Bishops of Vannes of the previous century, but from the “Paternus” (of Avranches) above in the text, who was probably a Bréton from his name, but lived and died at S. Pair d'Avranches, not at that time in Brittany (see the V. S. Paterni by Venant. Fort., his contemporary). The Welsh legend of the Padarn of Llanbadarn (Cambro-Brit. SS.), composed after the 9th century (for it speaks of seven sees in Brittany), makes him also Bishop of Vannes, and connects him with S. Samson of Dol. It was obviously written to exempt Vannes from subjection to Dol. See also the History of Gildas for another instance of British and Bréton intercourse. The legends of S. Cadoc and S. Iltyd also take those saints to Armorica (Cambro-Brit. SS.). And although S. David himself is not taken thither, yet his legend and memory were familiar there (see below, Append. D.).

SIGEBERT, Chron. ad an. 561.—Machutes, qui et Maglorius<sup>b</sup>, regulariter educatus et ipsius [sc. Brendani] navigationis socius, in Britannia [i. e. Armorica] sanctitate et miraculis claruit: qui a Britannis exacerbatus, eis maledictis, transivit ad Gallias, et sub Leontio Santonum Episcopo multo tempore virtutibus claruit; Britannis vero propter suam maledictionem variis cladibus affectis, data rursus benedictione, absolvit et sanavit.—ID., in an. 566.—Samson Dolensis Archiepiscopus consanguineus Sancti Maclovii, et successor Samsonis Maglorius, qui de transmarina Britannia ad cismarinam transierunt Britanniam, clarent sanctitate et doctrina.—VIT. S. MAGLORII.—(Maglorius) ad prædicandum populo ejusdem linguae, in occidente consistenti, mare transfretavit, properans finibus territorii Dolensis. [Morice, I.]

<sup>a</sup> Maglovius became Bishop of Aleth, afterwards (viz. about A.D. 1062) transferred to S. Malo; Maglorius succeeded Samson at Dol: according to their legends, referred to below in Append. B. They were both from Glamorgan or Gwent, and connected with Samson. For the many legendary lives of Britons who came to Brittany, from A.D. 450 to A.D. 600, mainly, but a few also in the following century, see below in Append. B. It really looks possible, that if Dol was at first only a monastery in the see of Aleth, with probably enough (occasionally) episcopal ab-bats (and this is rendered almost certain by Nomenoë's reckoning in A.D. 845, that he found four sees and left seven, viz. by adding S. Brieuc, Treguier, and Dol as a separate see, to Vannes, Quimper, Léon, and Aleth,—and see Stapleton as before quoted, I. xlvi. note), then that Maglovius and Maglorius were one and the same person. At any rate Maglorius was probably no more than abbat (perhaps episcopal) of the monastery of Dol.

CONC. TURON. II. can. 9.—Adjicimus etiam, ne quis Britannum aut Romanum in Armorico sine metropolitani aut comprovincialium voluntate vel literis Episcopum ordinare præsumat. Quod si quis contraire tentaverit, sententiam in anterioribus canonibus prolatam observet, et a nostra caritate usque ad majorem synodus se cognoscat remotum et excommunicatum; quia merito a caritate nostra vel nostris ecclesiis segregantur, qui patrum statuta contemnunt<sup>a</sup>. [Labb., V. 854.]

valent quod tua lingua facit,” etc. (Carm. III. vi. 40, 41): which doubtless means, that Bishop Felix had protected Nantes, not (as has been imagined) from the Pelagianism, but from the incursions, of the neighbouring Britons.

GREG. TUR., V. 17 [A.D. 577].—Eo anno dubietas Paschæ fuit. In Galliis vero nos cum multis civitatibus quarto decimo kalendas Maias [April 18] sanctum Pascha celebravimus. Alii vero cum Hispanis duodecimo kalendas Aprilis [March 21] solennitatem hanc tenuerunt. Tamen, ut ferunt, fontes illi qui in Hispaniis nutu Dei complentur, in nostro Pascha repleti sunt.—ID., X. 23 [A.D. 590].—Dubietas Paschæ fuit ob hoc, quod in cyclo Victor lunæ decima quinta Pascha scripsit fieri; sed ne Christiani, ut Judæi, sub hac luna hæc solemnia celebrarent, addidit. Latini autem lunæ vigesima secunda. Ob hoc multi in Galliis decima quinta luna celebaverunt. Nos autem vigesima secunda. Inquisivimus tamen studiose. Sed fontes Hispaniæ, qui Divinitus impletur, in nostrum Pascha repleti sunt.

<sup>a</sup> These seem to be the last (probable) allusions to the Easter dispute in connection with Brittany. The council of Orleans in A.D. 541 had adopted the cycle of Victorinus. As respects A.D. 577, the Spaniards in that year, as is plain by the day named, still kept to the old uncorrected cycle, to which the Britons also adhered. And the “alii,” in the neighbourhood probably of Tours, who agreed with the Spaniards, were most probably Brétons. According to our present mode of reckoning, and setting aside new style, April 25 would have been Easter Day in A.D. 577. All three days were Sundays in that year. Columbus had not yet come into Gaul. As regards A.D. 590, Sunday March 13 was new moon in that year; so that the British rule would have determined Easter Day to March 26,

[LATEST BRITISH MONASTERY IN BRITTANY.]

whereas Gregory kept it on April 2. The history of both differences shews that all these Easter disputes arose merely out of a confusion respecting cycles, springing from nothing more than the difficulty in those times of obtaining information.

century earlier, A.D. 472-484, Epist. VIII. 9, describes the Saxons as adopting the British custom in the arrangement of the hair. Count Waroch planted Saxon landholders round Vannes as early as A.D. 560 (so Courson, 253, 254, from signatures to Redon charters).

in Hoveden, II. 136, shews a kind of connection still between this monastery and that of Bodmin so late as A.D. 1177. The next monastery founded in, or in connection with, Brittany, that of Aindre, had a German for its founder, about A.D. 695.

devennoch nostram adiisset præsentiam et illum sive de conversatione monachorum illarum partium consistentium sive de tonsione interrogassemus, et ad liquidum nobis qualiter hæc forent patfecisset, cognoscentes quomodo ab Scotis sive de conversatione sive de tonsione capitum accepissent, dum ordo totius sanctæ Apostolicæ atque Romanæ Ecclesiæ aliter se habere dignoscitur, placuit nobis ut sive de vita seu etiam de tonsura cum universalis Ecclesia Deo dispensante nobis commissa concordarent. Et ideo jussimus ut et juxta Regulam Sancti Benedicti patris viverent, quæ possibilis et laude digna est; et de tonsura capitis juxta taxatum modum cum sanctæ Romanæ Ecclesiæ, quæ per orbem terrarum dilatata est, concordent unitate; et eundem vivendi morem, juxta quod in sancti atque eximii patris Benedicti Regula scriptum est, in hoc monasterio prædicto teneant, et in subjectis ejus cæteris, quæ nostrum plenissimum jussum exequi valuerint. Hæc piissimi Ludovici Imperatoris præcepta de manu ejus roborata<sup>a</sup>.

Hæc eodem anno prædicto cœpta est in eodem monasterio supra-scripto Regula Patris Benedicti. [Morice, Mém. etc. à l'Hist. de Bretagne, I. 228 b.]

<sup>a</sup> In the Vita S. Guingaloëi (extr. in Morice, I. 227, 228), this document is prefaced by an account of the rule observed at Landevenech, describing the exceeding austerity of its regulations about food and dress. The exception in the former point is—" nisi tantum modice de caseo per aquam decocto utebatur

Sabbato et Dominico die," a little fish (" paucos pisciculos") being also allowed on the Sunday: thus proving that Saturday was not a fast with them. Further, "Talis ars unicuique eorum dabatur, ut ex opere manuum quotidiano, sicut Ægyptii monaci, se posset in victu necessario continere: nam non solum monachorum sed etiam heremitarum currebant per semitam." Lastly, "hæc lex sive Regula per tempora longa refusit in isto monasterio, id est, ab illo tempore quo Gradlonus, quem appellant magnum, Britanniæ tenebat sceptrum, usque ad annum Ludovici Augusti imperii V., Dominicæ autem Incarnationis 818."<sup>a</sup> And it was abrogated by Louis as being too ascetic, in dress especially, for the "infirmiores." The Cartul. Redon (founded at the very beginning of the 9th century) speaks always of "monachi regulam Sancti Benedicti tenentes," from A.D. 834 (Documents in Append. to Courson, I. 394 sq.). And a council of Tours, A.D. 813, enforced the Benedictine rule in monasteries where that rule "olim conservabatur" (Can. XXV.; Labb., VII. 1265).

<sup>b</sup> Louis had just conquered Brittany (Mémoires de la Chambre des Comptes, IV. 27), and was encamped at the time on the river Elé, which runs into the Bay of Biscay between Quimper and Blavet. The date is from the Chron. Britann. in Mémoires de la Chambre des Comptes, I. 3.

Magnificis mirificisque orationibus atque meritis recensitorum Patriarcharum, Prophetarum, atque Apostolorum, plurimorumque Martyrum, vel electorum, atque Confessorum omnium, petimus et oramus, ut quemadmodum eorum nomina vel memoriam in hoc saeculo memorari et recitare frequentamus, ita atque ipsi pro nobis in regnis coelestibus affectuales ac privatas preces fundere dignentur, ut a Deo veniam et indulgentiam impetrare atque obtinere, et eorum desiderandam et aspiciendam speciem et gloriam in regno Dei videre et congaudere mereamur, praestante Domino nostro Jesu Christo, Cui est honor et potestas et imperium una cum Patre atque Spiritu Sancto in secula seculorum. Amen. [Mabillon, Anal. 168, 169, ed. 1723, from a Rheims MS.]

<sup>a</sup> It is a difficult task to locate a Litany, which prays for the "Plebs et Clerus Anglorum," as well as for "Rex et Episcopus," who must be supposed to be "of the Angles" also, and which yet in its list of local saints contains principally Bréton, but wholly Celtic, saints, S. Samson, S. Brioc, etc., S. Patrick and the chief Irish names, and S. Columba, and the Cornish S. Melorus, but no one name connected with Saxon England except that of S. Augustin, an exception proving nothing. And the Bréton names moreover are not only the chief names, but also those of less note. The name of S. Judicael brings down its date to at least the end of the 7th century. The special mention of S. Benedict, as in connection with Brittany, points to (at earliest) the 9th. And the names of Gudwal and Melorus seem to postpone it to the end of the 10th, inasmuch as the legends of those (fictitious) saints date at that period, although they themselves are alleged to have lived earlier. The omission of Columbanus (O'Conor, Biblioth. Stow., II. 2) proves nothing, since the document plainly has no relation to foreign Irish missions or Churches, and belongs to a time and place where S. Benedict was the monastic founder and was held in special reverence. On the whole, taking into account also the place where it was found, and the character of the documents accompanying it or found in like localities, it seems most probable that (invocations excepted) it is an English Litany, possibly from York, transcribed for Bréton use, at the latter part of the time when the influence of the York school was great in Northern France, and when the Bréton Church and State looked for protection to Anglo-Saxon Kings; i. e. somewhere in the 10th century.

APPENDIX B.

LEGENDARY LIVES EXIST OF THE FOLLOWING BRETON SAINTS A.D. 450-800, OF WHOM ALL, EXCEPT THE FEW MARKED ‡, CAME FROM GREAT BRITAIN OR IRELAND.

A.D. 450-500.

1. Vita S. Brioci, Episcopi (a Briton “ex gente Coriticiana,” alleged to have gone to Gaul with S. Germanus, and thence to Armorica, where he founded a monastery, first at Tréguier<sup>a</sup>, and then at S. Brieuc, and to have died about A.D. 500: not called a Bishop in his legend, and the see of S. Brieuc was one of those founded by Nomenoë about A.D. 844): in Actt. SS., May 1, I. 92-94, “ex Officio Proprio Eccl. S. Brioci;” and the Hist. Translationis (i. e. of his relics, to Angers, during the Northman ravages in the end of the 9th century), ib., 94; and see ib., VII. 539, and Hardy's Descr. Catal., I. 103, 104.

2. Vita S. Winwaloëi, Abbatis (son of a British Prince, Fracanus, who fled to Armorica<sup>b</sup>, and born according to one story in Armorica, according to another in Britain, c. A.D. 418; alleged to have been connected with S. Patrick and S. Budoc, and with S. Martin of Tours<sup>c</sup>, and with Gradlon Count of [part of] Brittany, and to have died about A.D. 504; founded the abbey of Landevenech): one, auct. anonymo, in Actt. SS., March 3, I. 250-254; a second, ib., 254, 255; a third in two Books, auct. Gurdestino monacho (abbot of Landevenech some time during the 9th century), ib., 256-261; another in Surius, March 3, p. 38, abbreviated in Capgrave, N. L. A. 312. See also Arch. Cambr. 3rd Series, III. 129, X. 41; and in Dom Morice, Lobineau, etc., and Hardy as above, 104.

[Notices also exist of—i. S. Ninnoca, Virgin (from Great Britain, “in Combronsenia regione,” daughter of King Brechan, migrated to “Letavia,” and founded the nunnery of Lan Ninnok; said to have been contemporary with S. Germanus, yet baptized by S. Columba, and more probably of 6th than 5th century), collected in Actt. SS., June 4, I. 407-411; and in Le Grand, from Reg. of Quimperle.—ii. S. Corenini<sup>d</sup>, Bishop (a Briton, who founded the see of Quimper [Cornugallia or Cornubia at first, after 8th century Corisopitensis, which properly meant Corseul near Aleth according to M. Bizeul in Bull. Arch. de l'A. Brétonne], under Count Gradlon, and was consecrated by S. Martin, i.e. at Tours, S. Martin's see), collected in Actt. SS., July 12, III. 307, 308.—iii. S. Jacutus, of Landouart, and iv. S. Winwaloc or Buennoc, of Landevenech, brothers or cousins of Winwaloë, of whom the latter is said to have gone to Ireland in the time of S. Patrick; and v. S. Guenbael or Guenant (a Briton, second abbat of Landevenech); and vi. † S. Rioc (a Bréton at Landevenech); all in Le Grand, Feb. 8, March 3, Nov. 3, and Nov. 12, and the last also in Actt. SS., Feb. 12, II. 602-604.—vii. S. Sezni, Archbishop, and viii. S. Ronan, Anchorite (Irishmen who emigrated to Léon), in Le Grand, Sept. 19 and June 1.—ix. † S. Guenegan or Cognogan (Corentin's alleged successor at Quimper), ib., Oct. 15; and in Actt. SS., Oct. 15, VII. i. 43, 44.—x. S. Kénan or Ké, an Irishman, in Le Grand.]

<sup>a</sup> The Gallo-Roman missionaries from Tours evidently could not penetrate the forest of Brékilién, and their Christianizing efforts were practically confined to the dioceses of Rennes and Nantes, and probably the south of Vannes. The British immigrants came by sea, planted the whole coast—Ruys, Landevenech, S. Matthew's abbey, Léon, Treguier, S. Brieuc, Aleth, Dol,—and penetrated also into the heart of the forest above-named at

S. Méné. See M. de la Borderie in the Bulletin Archéol. de l'Assoc. Brétonne.

A.D. 500-600.

1. Vita † S. Melanii, Episcopi (a Bréton from Vannes—if Vannes was then Bréton, which is questionable—who became Bishop of Rennes, was at the council of Orleans A.D. 511, and died after A.D. 530, an abbey being dedicated to him at Rennes by King Salomon A.D. 630): auct. coctaneo in Actt. SS., Jan. 6, I. 328-333; and see also Greg. Tur., De Glor. Confess., IV., and the Epist. Gervas., Archiep. Remens. (ob. A.D. 1067), De Mirac. S. Melan. in *Actt. Samson, made Bishop of a new see in Cornugallia, viz. at Léon or of the Osiismii, by King Childebert A.D. 512, and consecrated at Childebert's court without reference to Tours; died A.D. 573): one, auct. Monach. Floriac. in Jo. a Bosco, Bibl. Floriac. 418-428, and Actt. SS., March 12, II. 111-120; another, according to Potthast, still in MS. (Paris, S. German. 593), entitled V. S. Pauli Aureliani Domnonensis, auct. Hinworetetio, 4 Id. Mart. See also Hardy, I. 157, 158.

6. Vita S. Maclovii, Episcopi (from Llancarvan and Gwent, connected with SS. Samson and Brendanus; migrated to Brittany, and founded the see of Aleth, afterwards [9th century] translated to S. Malo; noted for a curse, denounced by him against the Brétols for expelling him, which he revoked on their repentance; contemporary with Leontius Bishop of Bourges or of Saintes; died about A.D. 565; called also Machutus or Machutius):

APPENDIX C.

SUPREMACY OF THE SEE OF TOURS OVER BRITTANY, AND ESPECIALLY AS AGAINST THE ARCHBISHOPRIC OF DOL.

As Welsh nationality led to the assertion of an imaginary Archbishopric of S. David's, in order to escape submission to the Norman Canterbury, so Bréton nationality led to the attempted, and for several centuries actual, establishment by the Bréton Princes of (not a Bishopric only but) an Archbishopric of Dol, in order to escape the domination of the Frank Archbishopric of Tours<sup>a</sup>; both attempts being finally crushed at the same period, viz. at S. David's A.D. 1203, at Dol A.D. 1199.

1. The very earliest British Bréton Bishops and abbats, viz. Paternus of Vannes, and Corentin of Quimper, and Winwaloë and Brioc respectively at Landevenech and S. Brieuc, etc. etc., evidently resorted (as it was most natural they should) to S. Martin's still Gallo-Roman successors at Tours. But—

2. The conquests of the Franks, c. A.D. 500, pushed up to the Vilaine and the Rance, and the entire occupation of Brittany proper, west of that boundary, by British immigrants, and the constant border wars that followed, naturally produced a national severance between the proper Bréton Church and the now Frankish see of Tours. Bréton Bishops proper do not appear thenceforth at Frank councils<sup>b</sup>. And a council of Tours in A.D. 567 condemns consecrations in Brittany independent of Tours. At the same time<sup>c</sup>, there was no Archbishopric in Brittany either at Dol or anywhere else, and indeed at Dol not even a Bishopric (as is manifest from the MS. of Mont S. Michel quoted below). The Bréton Bishops must have consecrated one another, as the contemporary Welsh Bishops did; and probably one Bishop was held enough for a consecration, after the Celtic practice.

3. With Nomenoë's grand (and until the Northmen came, successful and enduring) effort at Bréton independence and kingship came a new ecclesiastical era also. Appointed Duke of Brittany by Louis le Débonnaire, A.D. 826, Nomenoë declared himself King A.D. 841-3; and the victory over the Franks at Ballon A.D. 845, and the treaty made by Charles the Bald with Nomenoë's son in A.D. 867, gave the Brétons possession of not only Rennes and Nantes and some way into Angers, but also of the Avranchin and Cotentin as far as Bayeux. In order to secure this independence on the ecclesiastical side, Nomenoë, under the advice of Convoion abbat of Redon (which abbey he had himself founded A.D. 832), contrived, after a council at Redon A.D. 846, and an unsuccessful mission of Convoion to Pope Leo IV., to extort, at a council of Coetlou near Vannes A.D. 848, the resignation on a charge of simony of the four Bréton Bishops, of Vannes, Quimper, Léon, and Aleth ("Quomodo Nomenoë tyrannus Britonum de Quatuor Episcopatibus fecit septem, tempore Caroli Calvi Regis Francorum," in Labb., Conc. VIII. 1957, 1958, from a MS. Cod. Mont. S. Michel. in Sirmond). And further, at a council of Dol A.D. 850, he both had himself crowned King, and established three new sees in addition to the above four, viz. Dol, S. Brieuc, Tréguier, the first two certainly, and probably all, taken out of the see of Aleth, and the first of the three made also into an Archbishopric (ib.). He also set up a Bishop of his own, Gislard, in opposition to one Actard, at Nantes, the latter however holding the see nevertheless, A.D. 846–851, until Nomenoë's death.

i. From this time to A.D. 881, Frank councils and Popes continuously condemned the Brétons, but with no practical result.

A.D. 849, the council of Paris (Morice, I. 291–293; Labb., VIII. 58–61), and A.D. 850, Leo IV. (M., I. 288, 289; L., VIII. 30–32), commanded respectively Nomenoë himself and the Bréton Bishops to submit to Tours; and Leo IV., also in A.D. 850 (L., ib. 32), enjoined Nomenoë to desist from supporting Gislard at Nantes. A.D. 855 × 858, Pope Benedict III. (as referred to by Pope Nicholas A.D. 862), and A.D. 862, Pope Nicholas I., writing to Salomon now King of the Brétons, pronounced that Bishops could not be deposed by laymen, or judged by less than twelve Bishops (Morice, I. 316–318; Martene, Thes., III. 859); and the latter also took up the cause of the now expelled Bishop Actard of Nantes. The council of Savonières near Toul, A.D. 859, writing to the Bishops of Brittany, to King Salomon, and to certain Bréton lords (Morice, I. 309–314; Mart., III. 858),—and Nicholas I., May 26, A.D. 865, writing to Salomon, and May 17, A.D. 866, writing again to Salomon and also to the Bréton Bishops (Morice, I. 318–321; Mart., III. 862–864),—enjoined obedience to Tours; and the council of Soissons, A.D. 866, August, also took up Actard's cause (Morice, I. 321–325). And that cause was again urged by Pope Adrian II., A.D. 868, Feb. 23 and 25, writing to Charles the Bald, to the Bishops of the council of Soissons, and to Actard himself (Morice, I. 325–328; and Mansi, XV. 824). The same Adrian II., A.D. 868, March 8, had assured Herard Archbishop of Tours that he would not favour Dol to Herard's injury

[ARCBISHOPRIC OF DOL.]

(Morice, I. 324; Mart., III. 865). And Pope John VIII., A.D. 878, writing to Maheu "Bishop" of Dol and the other Bréton Bishops, bade them submit to Tours on pain of excommunication (Morice, I. 333, 334).

On the other hand, while it is obvious from these very letters and councils that the Brétons did not submit to Tours, they produced also on their own side, at a later period, a letter of Adrian, A.D. 867 × 872, sending "a leg of S. Leo" to King Salomon, and a pall to Festinian of Dol,—spurious however, and indeed only produced under very suspicious circumstances, and contradictory to Adrian's undoubted letter,—and a letter of John VIII. to Mainus (Maheu) "Archbishop" of Dol, and the Bréton Bishops, A.D. 881, relating only to the ordination of certain monks by their abbat, but incidentally styling Maheu Archbishop (Morice, I. 338; Mart., III. 867; Mabill., Ann. Ord. Bened., III. 683).

ii. From A.D. 881 to 1076, with two exceptions at long intervals, the Bréton question went to sleep, Brittany evidently remaining (ecclesiastically) independent, and the Norman ravages and wars accounting probably in part for its being let alone. The two exceptions were, 1. a letter of Pope John XIII. to all the Bishops and Nobles of Hither Britain, A.D. 965 × 972, enjoining submission to Tours (Morice, I. 347, 348; Mart., III. 868); and 2. the council of Rheims, Oct. 4, A.D. 1049, followed by a letter of Leo IX. and a Roman council, May 12, A.D. 1050, to Eudo Prince of the Brétons and their other chiefs, the former declaring Dol not an Archbishopric and to have no pall, and ordering submission to Tours, the latter excommunicating the Armorican Bishops for alleged simony and for not appearing at Rome to answer the complaint of Tours, but summoning them to a council at Vercelli Sept. 1, at which it does not appear what happened; but A.D. 1059, Cardinal Stephen, writing to "J... called Archbishop of Dol," summons him to Rome against March 26, A.D. 1060, and to Tours meanwhile to meet the Pope's legate (Morice, I. 395, 396, 411, 412; Mart., III. 869–871; Labb., IX. 993, 994; Mansi, XIX. 928).

iii. From A.D. 1076 to A.D. 1143, the Brétons in effect carried their point, by obtaining a distinct Papal recognition of their Dol Archbishopric. Gregory VII. (who had written Aug. 28, A.D. 1074, to "all the Bishops and Abbots of Brittany," summoning them to a council at Rome for February, A.D. 1075, and meanwhile enjoining them to prevent incestuous marriages), interfered in A.D. 1076 with his usual high-handedness in a disputed election at Dol, by himself consecrating one Ivo (abbot of S. Melanius at Nantes) to the Archbishopric of that see and giving him a pall; writing to that effect to the clergy and people of Dol, to the Bishops of Brittany (whom he enjoined to obey the Archbishop of Dol, pending the decision of the Tours claim), and to William of England (to support Ivo against Duke Alan of Brittany's "simoniacial" Bishop); but again in A.D. 1077 to Rodulph Archbishop of Tours, that he had reserved the question of the pall and the Tours supremacy, and to King William (who had interfered on behalf of the other Dol claimant), that he would send legates to decide (Morice, I. 442-447; Mart., III. 871-876). In A.D. 1078, however, the same Pope writes to Geoffrey, Howel, and Geoffrey son of Eudo, Counts of Brittany, to cause the Bishops, abbats, clerks, and laity to come to a synod about Ivo's case; and in A.D. 1080, he writes again to the Bishops, clergy, and people of Brittany "in the province of Tours," to inform them that a council of Rome has referred the cause to Apostolic legates (Morice, I. 447-451; Mart., III. 877). And those legates, in the same year 1080, at a council held at Saintes, decide against the claims of Dol (alleging the letter of Adrian above mentioned to be a forgery), but give the actual incumbent of Dol his pall for life (Labb., X. 398). Pope Urban II. perpetuated the same half-decision, by giving the pall to another Dol Bishop, Roland, while deciding in general against Dol: writing to that effect to the Bishops of Brittany and to the clergy and people of Dol A.D. 1093; and again to the Bishops of Brittany and to Ralph Archbishop of Tours A.D. 1094; and repeating his condemnation of Dol, according to the testimony of William Bishop of Poitiers, at the Council of Clermont, Nov., A.D. 1095 (Morice, I. 467, 469, 482, 483; Mart., III. 878, 879, 881, 882). Nevertheless, A.D. 1109, Pope Paschal grants a pall to Baldric, "Archbishop of Dol," without any restriction at all; writing to that effect to Baldric himself and to the "Suffragans, clergy, and people of Dol" (Morice, I. 497, 498; Mart., III. 882, 883). And "Baldric and his suffragans" are accordingly summoned as such to the council of Rheims, Oct., A.D. 1119, by the same Pope Paschal; and by Pope Calixtus II., June 25, A.D. 1122, to a council at Rome for March 18, A.D. 1123; and Geoffrey "Archbishop of Dol and his suffragans" to the council of Pisa, May 26, A.D. 1135, by Pope Innocent II., Nov. 8, A.D. 1134; and the "Archbishop" of Dol is addressed as one with the Archbishops of Bourges, Tours, Bordeaux, and Auche, by Pope Honorius II., A.D. 1124 x 1130 (Morice, I. 541, 552, 569, 570; Mart., III. 884, 885); and A.D. 1142, Dec. 10, Innocent II. summons Hugh Archbishop of Tours to Rome by Oct. 18, A.D. 1143, to answer the complaint of the "Archbishop of Dol," that he had taken from him the see of Aleth; repeating his summons Dec. 10, A.D. 1143 (Morice, I. 587; Mart., III. 886, 887). Hildebert of Tours however had during this period urged the claims of his see upon Innocent II. (Mart., III. 854).

iv. A.D. 1144-1154, however, the tide turned again against Dol. In the first named year, Lucius II. issued a formal Bull in favour of Tours, yet left his pall to the actual Bishop of Dol; absolved the Bishops of Brieuc and

[ARCHBISHOPRIC OF DOL.]

Tréguier from subjection to Dol; urged Godfrey Count of Brittany to suffer his Bishops to obey Tours (Morice, I. 591-595; Mart., III. 887, 890); and generally undertook to defend Tours (Maan, Eccl. Turon. 252). And Eugenius III., Jan. 3, A.D. 1147, issued a like Bull to that of his predecessor (Morice, I. 598; Mart., III. 892). The council of Rheims, A.D. 1148, March 20, excommunicated Dol and Brieuc for not obeying Tours; the great S. Bernard, at Pope Eugenius' request, effected a compromise between Tours and Dol, of which however the terms are not specified; Eugenius himself, writing to Hugh Archbishop of Tours and his chapter, A.D. 1149, took the Tours side, but withheld the actual sentence of excommunication; and Pope Anastasius IV., A.D. 1154, writing to the clergy, barons, and people of Dol, and (twice) to Engelbaud Archbishop of Tours, again took the Tours side, yet allowed Hugh of Dol to be an Archbishop and to have a pall, and urged S. Bernard's compromise (Morice, I. 599, 620; Mart., III. 812, 894, 896, 897).

v. In A.D. 1155-1160, Dol was again in the ascendant. Adrian IV. in the first-named year, May 21, abrogated S. Bernard's compact and gave a pall to Dol; desiring the Archbishop of Tours, Dec. 20, to be reunited to Dol, and the clergy and people of "the province" of Dol to submit to Dol, and in especial, A.D. 1156 x 1158, the Bishops of Brieuc and Tréguier; and A.D. 1155, Geoffrey son of Oliver, and A.D. 1156 x 1158, "E. Count of Léon," to help Dol, and the clergy and people of a particular parish ("de Murmicellio") to submit to Dol; and A.D. 1155, May 21, the Archbishop, Archdeacons, and Dean of Rouen, to give up his own churches to Hugh of Dol (Morice, I. 625-628; Mart., III. 898-902). And in A.D. 1160, March 3, Alexander III. still commended Dol to the barons and people of that see (Morice, I. 640; Mart., III. 903).

vi. But A.D. 1161-1199, the case turned finally against Dol. Pope Alexander III., July 12, A.D. 1161, desired the Dean and Chapter of Dol to send their newly elected Bishop to Tours to be consecrated. And the question being revived by the Archbishop of Tours at the council of Avranches, A.D. 1172 (Hoveden), appears to have been again pressed at the court of Rome. Alexander III., Dec. 18, A.D. 1179, and again May 12, A.D. 1180, writes to Bartholomew Archbishop of Tours to come to Rome on the subject, and to "the King of the French" (probably in A.D. 1179) to strive to reconcile the two, but to help Dol to have the case tried; and in A.D. 1179 or 1180, issues a commission to the Archbishop of Sens, the Bishop of Bayeux, the abbat of S. Genéviéve, and the Dean of Bayeux, to collect evidence (Morice, I. 645, 673, 674; Mart., III. 903-906). Lucius III., Aug. 18, A.D. 1184 or 1185, renews that commission to the Dean of Mans, the Archdeacon of Rouen, and Master Hugo Januensis (Morice, I.

[ARCHBISHOPRIC OF DOL.]

690; Mart., III. 910). Urban III., A.D. 1186 or 1187, urges a friendly agreement with Dol upon Bartholomew of Tours (Mart., III. 911). But A.D. 1199, Innocent III., after a full statement of the case on both sides (Testimonies on behalf of Tours against Dol, and on behalf of Dol against Tours, Petition of Church of Dol, with the succession of their Bishops, Reply of Tours to that Petition, Morice, I. 735–759), gave final sentence in favour of Tours (ib. 759–767), writing to the Archbishop and Chapter of Tours and to the Duchess and Barons of Brittany to announce and enforce his sentence (ib. 767, 768). And accordingly, c. A.D. 1200, Jean de Lizannet, consecrated to Dol by Bartholomew of Tours, professes obedience to that see. So ended a suit, that had been prolonged in the Papal court just 350 years.

<sup>a</sup> The history of the later Bréton Church and that of the Welsh Church of the same period, present, beside the parallel histories of their (alike ineffectual) struggles for an independent national Church, some other curious resemblances, which however the scope of the present work only allows us to indicate.
 i. Northman invasion threw the Bréton Church, as well as the South Welsh, upon Anglo-Saxon protection, as early as Ethelwulf, A.D. 835–857; and King Alfred, who patronized Armorican monasteries, c. A.D. 888, as he did S. David's (Asser, De Reb. Gestis Ælfredi, M. H. B. 486, 496); and Eadward, A.D. 901–925. And Athelstan, A.D. 925, gave refuge to Duke Alan of Brittany (Chron. Nannet, ap. Bouquet, VII. 276). The Epist. Radbod. Episc. Dol. (in W. Malm., G. P. V.; Gale, III. 364) is quoted by Lindgard, as shewing that even then, in Athelstan's reign, the Brétons regarded themselves as Britons—"In exultate atque in captivitate in Francia commorarum."—ii. The same cause produced also, in A.D. 878, not one, but a whole series, of "Translations," like the wanderings of S. Cuthbert; of which Le Grand (Vies des Saints de la Bret., p. 244, 3rd edit.) gives a list, including every Saint of any note in the country, their relics being transported to Paris, Angers, Poitiers, Chartres, Bourges, Marmoutier, etc., and not in all cases restored when the troubles were over.—iii. Marriage of priests continued in Brittany, as in Wales, owing probably to their comparative isolation, longer than elsewhere (see Courson, II. 163, 164). And benefices became hereditary, also, in the one country as in the other: see Hildebert, Epist. Opp., pp. 135, 136), who affirms that the practice was abolished in a council A.D. 1127 (see also Girald. Camb., Opp., III. 130).—iv. Imputations of incestuous marriages were cast upon the Brétons as upon the Welsh and the Scots: see Gregory VII.'s letter to the Bréton Bishops and Abbots of Aug. 28, A.D. 1074.

<sup>b</sup> Apparent exceptions either belong to the pre-Frank period, or are mere conjectures, or are explicable by peculiar circumstances. Mansuetus A.D. 461, Corentin (if indeed he was the same with "Cariantonus") at Angers in A.D. 453, Modestus of Vannes, and Venrandus, conjecturally of Quimper, by his vicar, at the council of Tours A.D. 461, and Albinus, also conjecturally of Quimper, at the council of Vannes A.D. 465, and S. Paternus, consecrated by the Archbishop of Tours in A.D. 465, come under the first head of the three. And Litharedus "Episcopus Oxo-mensis," at the council of Orleans, A.D. 511, who has been guessed to have been Bishop of Quimper (the one Osismian see prior to the erection of that of Léon), and S. Paul of Léon itself in A.D. 512, who was consecrated irrespectively of Tours but by Frank authority, belong also to a time when the national estrangement could hardly as yet have become intense, and when also Frank power had reached a point in Brittany from which it almost immediately receded. After this, there occurs only the one case of S. Samson, at the council of Paris A.D. 557, but without any see named. But Samson, according to his Legend, was then in refuge at the Frank court with the young fugitive Count Judwal; had been made a Bishop in Wales before he came to Brittany; and almost certainly was not only not Bishop of Dol, but there was no see of Dol at all at that time; and, lastly, the meeting at Paris was not a regular council. Paternus, at the same Council, himself apparently a Bréton, was Bishop of Avranches. It is a mere conjecture, that Cadoenus, at Rheims A.D. 682, was Bishop of Aleth.

<sup>c</sup> The claim made long after, of a pall granted by the Pope, Severinus, to Restoaldus Bishop of Dol, A.D. 638 x 640, is manifestly founded on fiction. And S. Samson's pall is also an obvious fiction of the 12th century.

APPENDIX D.

INSCRIBED AND OTHER CHRISTIAN MONUMENTS OF EARLY BRITTANY.

I. Of inscribed Christian monuments anterior to the 8th century in Brittany, only two are mentioned by Le Blant<sup>a</sup>: scil.,—

1. (Fifth or sixth century) at Lomarec, on the coast near Quimper, on a granite coffin in the chapel there,— translated by Villemarqué into, “ Illius cujus et Jesus Christus in Regem,” and assigned by him to the period above mentioned (Le Blant, II. 559).

2. (Eighth century) at Basse Indre near Nantes, near S. Hermeland's abbey of Aindre (founded A.D. 695), on an unwrought slab,—

S . . RE . . . S hIC RE¶VIS¶VIT

Under the inscription, a cross surmounting a globe, and at the sides two badly sculptured animals (Id., ib. 558).

The Count de Keranflec'h (in Arch. Camb., 3rd Ser., III. 368, IX. 319, 323, 329, 368) adds to these,—

3. That at S. Trefine, still illegible, mentioned below in note <sup>b</sup>, which he refers to the sixth century.

4. At Plouagat Chatelaudren, Departm. Côtes du Nord, of early date, with the inscription,— VORMVINI.

5. At Crac'h, Departm. Morbihan, ninth century, a cross incised on a column, with the inscription,— LAPIDEM HER AN NVEN FIL[II] HER AN ALAM IE..R AN HVBRIT (= The stone of Nuen son of Alam [or Alamic or Alamic] son of Hubrit).

6. At Kervili (Caer Bili), near Landivian, Departm. Morbihan, probably ninth century, a Greek cross incised on a column, with the inscription,—

CRAX HAR EN BILIIB FIL[IVS]

HER AN HAL

[INSCRIBED AND OTHER CHRISTIAN MONUMENTS OF BRITTANY.]

7. At Locoal Meudon, Departm. Morbihan, but probably not earlier than the twelfth century, a cross incised on a pillar, with the inscription,—

CROVX
PROSTLON<sup>b</sup>.

II. Of uninscribed Christian monuments the most noticeable is a tomb of S. Nonne<sup>c</sup>, in a chapel of S. Divy [= Dewi = David] at Divinon near Brest, with the chief events of S. David's legend sculptured on its sides, but of late date (Arch. Camb., 3rd Series, III. 249, 377 sq.). Besides this, crosses were erected on almost all the heathen "menhirs," etc., of which some, mentioned by M. de Freminville, are noted below<sup>d</sup>. And similar crosses abound in Brittany, mostly resembling Greek crosses, and with a slender shaft, like those in Cornwall which Blight calls Transition Crosses (Arch. Camb., 3rd Ser., III. 369 sq.).

<sup>b</sup> M. de Freminville (Antiquités du Finistère, Morbihan, etc. etc., Brest, 1834-7) mentions also the obelisk and tomb of S. Tromeur (A.D. 500 × 550) at S. Trefine near Corlay, with two words unintelligible (IV. 342); another, near Kersaint, Plubennec, with an inscription also unintelligible (II.

250); an inscribed cross once existing at Plouzané, and a chalice at Landevenech with an inscription, which have both now disappeared: and an inscription, certainly of Roman date but questionably Christian, which existed as late as A.D. 1709 at Corseul near Aleth (IV. 272). But all these need sifting and careful examination to ascertain their real dates. The Corseul inscription is said to have run thus:—

D + M + S
MOLDDE [ex] Do
Mo . AFFRIKA .
EXIMIA . PIETATE .
FILIVM SECVTA .
IIIC . SITA . EST
VIXIT A[nnos] LXV
C[ale]N IANVARI
VS FIL . . . POSVIT.

<sup>d</sup> E. g. in Morbihan, near Carnac, a cross on a "dolmen" (III. 40); Côtes du Nord, near Lannion, at Ploemeur, Christian symbols on a "menhir" (IV. 26); same department, near Faimpol, two very ancient crosses (ib. 130, 131). De Freminville also mentions an inscription, at Plougnen in Finisterre, resembling that to Bishop Avanus in Wales, and, like his, much later in date than the Bishop himself,—“D. Jœuva Epus Leonis fuit hic sepultus:”—and also tombs once existing at Landevenech, but of late date, to Count Gradlon and to Winwaloo; and one to S. Ronan at Loc-Ronan, also very late (II. 35, 41, 59). For bells of old date in Brittany, resembling those of Wales, of Ireland, and of Scotland, see Arch. Camb., 3rd. Ser., II. 315 sq.

II. SEE OF BRETOÑA IN GALLICIA, APPARENTLY BRITISH.

A.D. 569-830.

[A.D. 569. “Britones,” and a see of Bretoña, in Galicia, first mentioned.

A.D. 633. Tonsure seemingly British in the same district.

A.D. 830. The place destroyed by the Moors, and the see apparently merged for a time in that of either Oviedo or Mondeñedo.]

A.D. 572. COUNCIL OF BRAGA II.—[Last of twelve signatures, of Martin Archbishop of Braga and his suffragans, of which the last six are headed, “Item ex Synodo Lucensi,”] Mailoc, Britonensis<sup>a</sup> Ecclesiæ Episcopus, his gestis subscrispi. [Catal., ib. 206<sup>b</sup>.]

<sup>b</sup> Can. IX. of this council directs the metropolitan to announce the right Easter Day to each Bishop, annually, in sufficient time to be proclaimed in each church on the preceding Christmas Day after the reading of the Gospel. Greg. Tur. (V. 17, X. 23) records a differing observation of Easter in A.D. 577 between Spain and Gaul, and again a “dubie-tas Paschæ” A.D. 590; see above, p. 77. This canon therefore is not a necessary proof of Briton influence in Galicia, although it agrees with the supposition. Indeed the wonder is, how at that time a unanimous Easter was obtainable at all.

A.D. 633. COUNCIL OF TOLEDO IV., can. xli.<sup>a</sup>—De Ton-suræ a cunctis clericis vel lectoribus communiter habenda.—Omnes clerici vel lectores, sicut Levitæ et sacerdotes, detonso superius toto capite, inferius solam circuli coronam relinquant: non, sicut hucusque in

Galliciæ partibus facere lectores videntur, qui, prolixis ut laici comis, in solo capitis apice modicum circulum tondent. Ritus enim iste in Hispania hucusque hæreticorum fuit. Unde oportet, ut pro amputando Ecclesiæ scandalo hoc signum dedecoris auferatur; et una sit tonsura vel habitus, sicut totius Hispaniæ est usus. Qui autem hoc non custodierit, fidei Catholicæ reus erit. [Catal., ib. 373, 374.]—[And among the signatures to the council, no. 50 out of a total of 69,] Metopius, Britaniensis Ecclesiæ Episcopus, subscrispi. [Id., ib. 386.]

<sup>a</sup> A canon respecting the mode of fixing Easter likewise occurs among those of this council. But the Easter dispute was common all over the Western Churches (see above, pp. 75, 77), and was at its crisis in Gaul only a few years before this council, in the case of Columbanus. The peculiar tonsure, however, here spoken of, appears to have been limited to certain "parts of Gallicia," and points more conclusively to Briton or Celtic influence there. See for the tonsure question, vol. I. pp. 112, 113, 154; and above in this volume, pp. 78, 79.

A.D. 646. COUNCIL OF TOLEDO VII.—[Among the signatures, no. 22 out of 39,] Sona Ecclesiæ Britanensis etsi indignus Episcopus hæc statuta definiens subscrispi. [Catal., ib. 423.]

A.D. 653. COUNCIL OF TOLEDO VIII.—[After the signatures of the Bishops and Abbats, come those of the] "Vicarii Episcoporum." [And out of 10, no. 4 is,] Matericus Presbyter Sosani Episcopi Ecclesiæ Britaniensis<sup>a</sup> subscrispi. [Catal., ib. 449.]

A.D. 683, and 693. COUNCILS OF TOLEDO XIII. and XVI.—[Florez conjectures that the Bishop of Bretoña is disguised in the signatures to the former of these councils under the miswritten name of] Brandila Laniobrensis Episcopus; [and in those to the latter, under that of] Suniaguisidus Laniobrensis Episcopus. [Catal., ib. IV. 288, 334.]

A.D. 830. [A royal decree seemingly merges the see of Bretoña in that of Oviedo;] Ipsam Ovetensem Ecclesiam facimus et confir-

[SEE OF BRETOÑA IN GALICIA.]

mamus pro sede Britoniense, quæ ab Ismaelitis est delecta et inhabilitis facta <sup>a</sup>. [Florez, Espana Sagr., XVIII. 1-20.]

<sup>a</sup> So also, "Ovetum, hoc est, Britonia, exempta a Gallæcia Bracara" (MS. ap. Loaisam ad Conc. Luc., in Catal., III. 198). But "Theodesindus Britonensis" is still distinguished from the Bishop of Oviedo in A.D. 873 (Conc. Ovetense, in Catal., IV. 356; or A.D. 899 according to Florez). And the see still occurs under the province of Braga and the name of "Britona," or "Britonia," or "Britonacensis sedes," in lists dating in A.D. 962 and later (Loaisa ad Conc. Luc. in Catal., III. 189, 191, 192); the last of them assigning to it, "Ecclesias quæ in vicino sunt inter Britones, una cum monasterio Maximi, usque in flumen Ovae." And the place is called "Britonia" as late as A.D. 1156, in a Privilegium of Alphonso VII. (Florez). But the only Bishop with a Celtic name is Mailoc in A.D. 572, and the last mention of the tonsure is in A.D. 633. The see was ultimately and chiefly merged in that of Menededo according to Florez. See for its history, Florez, Espana Sagrada, XVIII. 1-20; Loaisa ad Catal. Concil. as above; and Künemann, Angel-Sachs. Pönit. Bücher, Pref. 5.

Brittenburg at the mouth of the Rhine, once a Roman station, has been assigned to Briton emigrants at the time of Maximus, A.D. 387, by Courson (Hist. des Peuples Bretons, I. 151), and so also Camden (Gibson's edition, p. 54). And see the Dutch chroniclers as quoted by Ussher (Rer. Brit. Antiq., XII., Works, V. 480 sq.). There was also, it appears, a place called "Bretangen," on the coast of Holland near the mouths of the Rhine. And Pliny (Hist. Nat., IV. 31) and apparently Dionysius Periegetes (vv. 284, 285) locate a tribe of "Britanni" from the first century on the shores of Flanders and Picardy, which would fall in with Bede's statement (H. E., I. i.) that the island Britain was colonized by Britons from Armorica, i. e. originally the whole northern as well as western shore of Gaul. And this is corroborated again, although in a confused and blundering narrative, by Procopius (De Bello Gotthico, IV. 20), who places "Britones" in conjunction with Frisians and Angles, either at or near the mouths of the Rhine, or in a "Brittia," of which he conceives as distinct from the island of Britannia and as somewhere off the mouths of the Rhine. Henry Cammègier (Dissert. de Brittenburgo, Hague, 1734) is quoted as imagining a colony of Britons at that place, founded by Adminius, who is mentioned by Suetonius (Calig., c. xliv.) as flying to Caligula from his father Cinobellinus King of the Britons. But none of these, except in the case of Maximus, could be Christian.

A.D. 563. S. Columba comes to Hy<sup>f</sup>.

A.D. 565. S. Columba's mission to the Northern Picts.]

No documents exist for this period.

<sup>a</sup> The "Australes Picti" were those who dwelt "infra montes" (Bæd. H. E., III. 4), i.e. south of the Mounth, and east of the "Dorsum Britanniae" or Drum-Alban, = Kin-cardine, Forfar, Perthshire, &c., southwards to the Forth; the wall from Forth to Clyde being the continuation of their southern boundary, except so far as the petty states of Manann (= Clackmannan and Linlithgow) and Calathros or Calatria (= the Carse of Falkirk) may have pierced that line (Skene, Chron. Pref. lxxx., lxxxi., who, however, antedates Galloway Picts to S. Ninian's time). S. Ninian's Pictish converts undoubtedly lived north of the Forth, since Bede identifies them with the "Australes Picti," and all the Picts according to him were "transmarinæ gentes," i.e. lived north of Forth and Clyde (H. E., I. 12).

<sup>f</sup> "Navigatio Columcilli ad insulam Je etatis sue xlii<sup>o</sup>." (Ann. Tig. in an. 563). So also Adamnan. in V. S. Col., I. 1, III. 4. Bede's date of A.D. 565 (H. E., III. 4) seems correctly explained (by Lanigan and others) of S. Columba's mission to the Picts.

It may well have been the case, as Hussey (ad loc. Bæd.) and others suggest, that both kings laid claim to the island; but in any case the Christian king, i.e. Conaill, must have been the original donor in A.D. 563. See however, Reeves ad Adamn. p. 435, and also Skene, Pref. to Chron. p. cxi.

C. 2.

C. 3.

In aquis extincta morticina sunt, quorum sanguis intrinsecus latet.

C. 4.

A bestiis capta<sup>9</sup> et semiviva bestialibus hominibus sumenda sunt.

C. 5.

C. 6.

C. 7.

C. 8.

Gallinæ carnem hominis vel sanguinem ejus gustantes multum immundæ sunt et ova earum immunda sunt, pulli tamen observandi<sup>16</sup> sunt.

C. 9.

Puteus in quo invenitur morticinum sive hominis sive canis sive animalis cuiuslibet, primo evacuandus est, et humus ejus, quia aqua putei madefecerat, foras proicienda, et mundus est.

C. 10.

C. 11.

in aquis sanguis coagulatus perdurat. Hoc Dominus prohibet, non quod in illis temporibus homines crudam carnem manducarent, quia non esset dulcior, sed quia carnem suffocatam et morticinam manducassent. Et Lex metrica ratione scriptura<sup>27</sup> dicit: Carnem morticinam non manducetis.

C. 15.

C. 16.

De meretrice conjugi sic idem interpretatus est, quia meretrix erit decusso proprii mariti jugo et secundi mariti inito<sup>32</sup> vel tertii, cuius maritus illa vivente alteram non suscipiet, quia nescimus illam auctoritatem, quam legimus in quæstionibus Romanorum, utrum idoneis an falsis testibus &c., ornatam fuisse.

C. 17.

Carnem a bestiis commessam immundam esse idem confirmat, non tamen morticinam, quia sanguis illius carnis illicitæ effusus est per bestias.

C. 18.

Lethali vero morsu tantum<sup>33</sup> captum pecus nec in totum mortificatum a peccatoribus et a bestialibus hominibus comedendum, abscissa tamen parte et canibus data, quam' bestia dentibus intinxerit. Aptum namque sibi videtur, ut carnem bestiis administratam humanæ bestiæ commederent<sup>34</sup>.

C. 20.

Similiter cervos, quorum sanguinem quanvis<sup>37</sup> per venas' cernimus fluxisse per fracta in pedicis crura, vetat manducari, morticinam esse adfirmans<sup>38</sup>, eo quod non fluxerat sanguis superior, qui custos et sedes animæ erat,<sup>39</sup> sed coagulatus est intra carnem'; quia licet extremitas sanguinis per extremum quolibet membrum sit effusa, sanguis tamen

Sciebant enim, ut Christiani, Resurrectionem Dominicam quæ prima sabbati facta est prima sabbati semper esse celebrandam: sed ut barbari et rustici, quando eadem prima sabbati quæ nunc Dominica dies cognominatur veniret, minime didicerant. Verum quia gratia caritatis fervore non omiserunt, et hujus quoque rei notitiam ad perfectum percipere meruerunt, juxta promissum Apostoli dicens: “Et si quid aliter sapitis, et hoc quoque vobis Deus revelabit.”—V. 22. Nec multo post illi quoque qui insulam Hii incolebant monachi Scotticæ nationis, cum his quæ sibi erant subdia monasteriis, ad ritum Paschæ ac tonsuræ canonicum Domino procurante perducti sunt. Siquidem anno ab Incarnatione Domini septingentesimo sextodecimo, . . . cum venisset ad eos de Hibernia Deo amabilis et cum omni honorificentia nominandus pater ac sacerdos Ecgberct, . . . honorifice ab eis et multo cum gaudio susceptus est. Qui quoniam et doctor suavissimus, et eorum quæ agenda docebat erat executor devotissimus, libenter auditus ab universis, immutavit piis ac sedulis exhortationibus inveteratam illam traditionem parentum eorum, de quibus Apostolicum illum licet proferre sermonem, quod æmulationem Dei habebant sed non secundum scientiam; catholicoque illos atque Apostolico more celebrationem, ut diximus, præcipue solemnitatis sub figura coronaæ perpetis agere perdocuit. . . . Suscepérunt autem Hienses monachi, docente Ecgbercto, ritus vivendi Catholicos sub abate Duunchado, post annos circiter octoginta ex quo ad prædicationem gentis Anglorum Aidanum miserant antistitem. [M. H. B. 176, 177, 281.]

<sup>a</sup> Bede's date of A.D. 715 has been explained as that of the year when the change was resolved upon, and A.D. 716 as that when it actually took effect. He merely mentions the change, and alludes indirectly to the rejection of Columbite supremacy by the Picts on occasion of it.

monastery of Hy “in cunctis pene septentrionalium Scottorum” [i. e. in Ireland] et omnium Pictorum monasteriis nou parvo tempore arcem tenebat, regendisque eorum populis prærerat” (H. E., III. 3); which implies certainly that Hy had in A.D. 731 lost at least in part that supremacy, as the Annalists affirm. That Abernethy succeeded to it, and that, in

[PROBABLE PICTISH PRIMACY OF ABERNETHY.]

Abernethy, "fuerunt tres electiones factæ, quando non fuit nisi unus solus Episcopus in Scotia," is asserted by Fordun (IV. 12). According to the Chron. Pict. (Skene, 6), "Necton Morbet filius Erip XXIIII. [anno<sup>1</sup>] regnavit : tertio anno regni ejus Darlugdach Abbatissa Cille dara de Hibernia exultat pro Christo ad Britanniam : secundo anno adventus sui immolavit Nectonius Aburnethige Deo et Sancte Brigide, presente Dairlugdach que cantavit alleluia super istam hostiam. Optulit igitur Nectonius magnus filius Wirt, Rex omnium provinciarum Pictorum, Apurnethige Sancte Brigide, usque ad diem iudicij, cum suis finibus, quo posite sunt a lapide in Apurfeirt usque ad lapidem juxta Cairfull, id est, Lethfoss, et inde in altum usque ad Athan." &c. &c. It is certainly possible that this legend may really refer to the later Nectan, Mac Derili. There is also an entry in another, 13th cent., chronicle (Chron. of Picts and Scots, Skene, 201), which (as does also a third chronicle, ib. 150), while it attributes the building of Abernethy to Garnald son of Donald, successor to Bruidi, about A.D. 583, implies that it occupied the same position as Dunkeld did afterwards:—"Garnald .... edifa l'eglis de Abirnithin, CC. aunz, et XXV. aunz, et XI. moys, deuaunt qe l'eglis de Dunkeldin fust edifie du Roy Constantine Roy des Picis."—The legend of S. Bonifacius (Brev. Aberdon. Prop. SS. pro temp. Hyem., and Skene, Chron. 421 sq.), which brings him with a large number of Roman clergy—Boniface indeed being confounded with the Pope—to baptize a Pictish King Nectan, is also supposed to be a tradition of the influx of (so to say) Roman clergy, necessarily consequent upon the expulsion of the Columbite clergy by Nectan (Skene, Pref. to Chron.). But Boniface is only an alias of Bishop Cuiritin or Queretinus of Rosemarkie (Reeves, Culdees, 45), and was an Irishman. Nectan Mac Derili undoubtedly built a stone church in Pictland (Bæd. H. E., V. 21), but its locality is not stated by Bede, and while Wyntoun indicates Rosemarkie, the far more probable site of Restennet, near Dunnichen, is suggested by Bishop Forbes and Mr. Stuart.

A.D. 736 x 747. Church of Kilrimont or S. Andrew's founded by Angus King of the Picts.

LEGEND OF S. ANDREW (in Reg. Prior. S. Andreæ).—Rex vero [Hungus] dedit hunc locum, scilicet Chilrymonth, Deo et Sancto Andreæ Ejus Apostolo, cum aquis, pratu, cum agris, cum pascuis, cum moris, cum nemoribus, in elemosynam perpetuo; et tanta libertate locum illum donavit, ut illius inhabitatores liberi et quieti semper existerent de exercitu et de operibus castellorum et pontium, et de inquietatione omnium secularium exactionum. Regulus vero Episcopus Deo cantavit orationem Allej. ut Deus locum istum in elemosinam datum in sempiternam protegeret et custodiret in honorem Apostoli. In memoriale datae libertatis Rex Hungus cespitem arreptum, coram nobilibus Pictis hominibus suis, usque ad altare Sancti Andreæ detulit; et super illud cespitem cundem obtulit. In presentia testium horum hoc factum est, Thalarg filii Ythernbuthib, Nactan filii Chelturan, Garnach filii Dosnach, Drusti filii Withrosst, Nachtalich filii Gigherti, Shinah filii Lutheren, Anegus filii Forchete, Pheradach filii Finleich, Phiachan sui filii, Bolge, Glunmerach filii Taran, Demene filii Aunganena, Duptalaich filii Bergib. ANN. TIGH. and ULT., in an. 747.—Mors Tuathalain Abbatis Cind-rigmonaigh.

<sup>a</sup> See for S. Rule, below, in App. E. p. 139. S. Cainnech or Canice (ob. c. A.D. 597) was also connected with S. Andrew's. It is plain from the Annalists that S. Andrew's was founded as early at least as the reign of the earlier Angus,

A.D. 736-765. If therefore the above legend refers to Angus Mac Fergus, ob. A.D. 834 (Skene, Chron. 202), that king could only have refounded it. See Skene, Proc. Soc. Antiq. Scotl., IV. i. pp. 301-307.

<sup>a</sup> See below under A.D. 955. This is the earliest record of Culdees in Scotland. In Ireland they are traceable perhaps to the 7th, but certainly to the latter half of the 8th, century. See Reeves, Culdees, p. 8.

<sup>a</sup> See below under A.D. 865. Probably the abbat (see above) who went to Ireland in the same year 849 with the relics (or some of them) of S. Columba, objected to the transfer. It is plain, also, that at some period since A.D. 717 the Columban clergy had regained their influence in Pictland. In A.D. 849, Dalriada had just been permanently absorbed into one kingdom with Pictland by Kenneth.

THE RULE OF COLUMBKILLE BEGINNETH.

Be alone in a separate place near a chief city<sup>b</sup>, if thy conscience is not prepared to be in common with the crowd.

Be always naked in imitation of Christ and the Evangelists.

Whatsoever little or much thou possesest of anything, whether clothing, or food, or drink, let it be at the command of the senior and at his disposal, for it is not befitting a religious to have any distinction of property with his own free brother.

Let a fast place, with one door,
enclose thee.

A few religious men to converse with thee of God and his Testament; to visit thee on days of solemnity;
to strengthen thee in the Testaments of God, and the narratives of the Scriptures.

A person too who would talk with thee in idle words, or of the world; or who murmurs at what he cannot remedy or prevent, but who would distress thee more should he be a tattler between friends and foes, thou shalt not admit him to thee, but at once give him thy benediction should he deserve it.

Let thy servant be a discreet, reli-

In the original MS. it forms one of several so-called Rules, the others being in metre; and the nature of its contents, together with the absence of evidence that S. Columba ever composed a written Rule, marks it almost certainly as a later production of some Columbite monk or hermit (see Dr. Reeves's remarks in the same Appendix, and in Add. Notes to Adamn,, Tossacdoir (Orig. Paroch. Scott., II. 5)* is interpreted “crowner” (ib., p. 97); and see ib., p. 172, and Chalmers’ Caled., I. 451 (quoted by Reeves). The office was one of high importance originally, but sank gradually into “something between that of a ground-officer or bailliff and that of a sheriff’s officer” (Stuart’s Pref. to Book of Deer, p. lxxxi. note 1, and authorities there quoted).

[LAWS OF KENNETH MAC ALPIN.]

- VI. Defuncti funus habita facultatum ratione curato.
- VII. Insignis viri, aut qui de republica optime fuerit meritus, celebri, lugubri tamen, pompa funus efferto.

VIII. Duos huic adhibeto equestres: alterum vita functi arma indutum ferentem insigne candido equo, alterum pulla veste velata facie nigro equo insidentem. Hic, posteaquam uterque supplicatoriam deductionem funusque antecedens ad templum venerit, retroacto equo, ad altare, dominum morte absumptum vociferans, populo in eum execrante, unde venit, celerius se conferat. Ille ad altare recto pergens gradu, deposita arma equumque offerat sacerdoti demortui insigni admoto monumento, significans eo dominum immortali vita patriaque aeternae claritatis frui.

Hujusmodi ritum virorum insignium efferendi funera, parum, ut multis est visum, religiosum, posterior ætas abolevit; sacerdoti equi armorumque loco quinque sterlingicis libris in oblationem tributis.

His Kennethus Rex institutis longeque pluribus, quorum partem majorem vetustas aut potius regum sanctiones abrogarunt, populum rite instructum magna felicitate usque ad vitæ exitum rexit. Pontificiam sedem dudum Pictorum ab Abbernethi oppido, eo ferro et igni deleto, ad templum Reguli transtulit. Exinde huic oppido Sancti Andreæ ædes nomen est factum, eosque, qui illuc per pluscula inde tempora sacrum gessere magistratum, maximos Scotorum Episcopos appellarunt. Nondum enim Scotorum regnum, ut nunc, in dioeceses divisum erat; sed quivis episcoporum, quos ea ætate vitæ sanctimonia cunctis reverendos fecerat, quounque fuisset loco, sine discrimine pontificia munera obibat. Hujusmodi Scotorum Ecclesiæ administratio ad Malcolmi tertii tempora perseveravit, quando ipse superne admonitus, uti suo referetur loco, sacrum Multilacensem instituit magistratum. Cæterum tanta reverentia inter homines, tantaque vitæ innocentia, et erga Deum pietate, sacer divi Andreæ pontificatus ab institutione sui longa episcoporum serie ad tempus usque quo hæc commentabamur, est continuatus (sex enim supra triginta antistites, et eorum complures inter divos relatos, illic sedisse perhibent), ut nusquam gentium veræ religionis cultus, morum consentiente probitate, magis effulserit. Ad Kennethum redeo. Erant termini ejus regni post Pictos deletos Northumbria et Hirta (ea est ultima Hebridum insularum), Hibernicus hinc oceanus, et illinc Germanicus. Moritur tandem Rex omni vita illustris pituitæ exundantia apud Forteviotum, anno, quam supremum inter Scotos iniverat magistratum, vicesimo, Christi autem Domini quinquagesimo et quinto supra octingentesimum. Ejus funus celebrissima pompa in Ionam est elatum; ubi Firgusius, Hiirtus, ac fortissimi quique Scotorum Reges, conditi quiescent. Suspectus est in demortui locum Donaldus, Kennethi germanus, diverso multum a fratre ingenio. [S., I. 340-343; W., I. 179-181.]

INSCRIBED AND OTHER CHRISTIAN MONUMENTS IN THE PICTISH AND SCOTTISH KINGDOMS.

A.D. 400-900 (?).

A. A.D. 400-600 (?). A few monuments exist in Scotland, which look as though they should be referred to a semi-Roman date and origin.

i. Inscribed Monuments.

1. Near the kirk of Yarrow, a slab with an inscription in debased Roman characters—as read by Sir J. Y. Simpson:—

These are probably three inscriptions, and are in very rude letters. See Proc. of Antiq. of Scotl., II. 484, IV. 134, 524; Stuart, Sculpt. Stones, &c., II. App. III. p. xlviij.

2. At Kirkliston, called the Cat Stone, an inscription in like debased Roman characters—

(Proc. of Antiq., &c., as above, IV. 119; and Stuart, ib.)

[INSCRIBED AND OTHER CHRISTIAN MONUMENTS IN SCOTLAND.]

ii. Monuments uninscribed, of this earlier period, may possibly exist, but there is not sufficient evidence whereon to assign such a date to any existing stone.

B. Inscribed and other Monuments in the Pictish Kingdom.

A.D. 700–900 (?).

Monuments of a definitely Pictish style cluster most thickly in the parts of the country which formed the centre of the kingdom of the Picts, viz. in the counties of Forfar, Fife, and the eastern districts of Perth, south of the Mounth, and in the valleys of the Dee and Don in Aberdeenshire, immediately north of it; being most abundant in the comparatively level district running westwards from the shore between Montrose and Arbroath through Forfarshire and Perthshire to the Tay and Dunkeld, and again, along the Earn. There are also isolated clusters in Elginshire, and on the shores of Ross along the Moray Firth, besides a few scattered examples elsewhere. All are of a very special character, markedly differing (and especially in the various symbols, which are peculiar to them) from the Saxon monuments in Northumberland, Durham, Cumberland, and Dumfries; from the pre-Saxon monuments in Kirkcudbright and Wigton and towards the lower part of the Clyde; and from those also, which are nearer akin to them, but which are destitute of the symbols above mentioned, viz. the older monuments in Argyllshire and the Isles. They are also of an older type than the Irish crosses, their ordinary character being that of pillar stones with the cross or ornaments simply cut on the face of the stone. But some, as e.g. those at S. Andrew's and at Dunkeld, which have the Celtic ornamentation, lack the peculiar Pictish symbols.

I. Inscribed Monuments are very few.

1. South of the Mounth.

i. At St. Vigean's (church of S. Fechin), near Arbroath, an elaborately adorned stone with a cross, interlaced work, and figures; and on one face of it,—

DROSTEN . . .
IPE UORET ELT FOR CUS

i.e. (the cross) of Drost son of Voret of the family of Fergus. Drost was a King of the Picts, killed in battle near S. Vigean's A.D. 729.

[INSCRIBED AND OTHER CHRISTIAN MONUMENTS IN SCOTLAND.]

Another cross at the same place, also elaborately ornamented and with figures, has among the latter two ecclesiastics with peculiar dress and the Roman tonsure; and dates therefore after A.D. 710 x 718.

A third cross uninscribed, and several fragments, are also at the same place (Stuart, Sculpt. Stones of Scott., I. 69-71, II. 126-128).

2. North of the Mounth.

ii. At Newton House, in the Garioch up the Don, Aberdeenshire, parish of Culsalmond, but removed from its original site: an upright pillar 5 or 6 feet high, with six lines of inscription, not yet read: also Oghams on its edge, which occur elsewhere in Scotland only at Logie in the same neighbourhood, at Scoonie in Fifeshire, at Golspie in Sutherland, and at Bressay in Shetland (Stuart, ib., I. 1).

iii. At Knockando, up the Spey, Elginshire, three slabs with patterns, and on one of them, in Runes of the 9th or 10th century, a name which occurs also in Runes on a monument at Sanda Södermanland in Sweden (Stuart, ib., II. 105).

SIKNIK,

iv. At Papa Stronsay, north-east part of the Orkneys, a plain upright stone with a cross incised, and one word above the cross, unintelligible (Stuart, ib., I. 42).

v. At Bressay, eastern part of the Shetlands, a stone with cross and elaborate ornamentation, and on the edges of it Oghams, interpreted by Dr. Graves thus—

BENRES MECCU DROI ANN

CROSC NAHDFDADS DATR AN

(Stuart, ib., I. 94, 95.)

II. Monuments without inscriptions abound in the localities above mentioned<sup>a</sup>.

<sup>a</sup> A few uninscribed monuments exist, which may be so far of earlier than (characteristically) Pictish Christian date, as to belong to a semi-Roman time, i.e. to S. Ninian's southern Christian Picts of A.D. 400 to (say) A.D. 600: e.g.—

1. A cross near Alloa.
2. Stob's Cross (so called) near Markinch.

To which may be added—

3. At High Auchinlary, a cross, } both in
4. At Kirkcraig, do. } Galloway.
See Stuart, Sculpt. Stones, &c., II. App. III. p. xviii.

There is an incised cross in S. Ninian's Cave in Galloway (like those in the Fife caves), which Mr. Stuart has recently discovered.

I. South of the Mounth.

(a) Forfarshire: stones with crosses, and mostly also figures, and interlaced ornament, at—

- i. Inchbrayock, at mouth of the South Esk (Stuart, I. 68, II. 13).
- ii. Farnell, close to Inchbrayock (ib., I. 86).
- iii. Brechin, a fragment, but seemingly of late date (ib., I. 138).
- iv. Aberlemno, between Brechin and Forfar, five stones; one destroyed, one removed to Abbotsford, another with only the spectacle ornament, the other two elaborately ornamented (ib., I. 71, 78–81, 98, 99). On or near the South Esk.
- v. Aldbar, close to Aberlemno (ib., I. 82).
- vi. Kirriemuir, a little further west, three, elaborately ornamented, and fragments of others (ib., I. 43–46, II. 13).
- vii. Kingoldrum, N.W. of Kirriemuir; a bell also found there (ib., I. 49, 89, 93).
- viii. Menmuir, between North and South Esk (ib., I. 92).
- ix. Glammis, W. of Forfar and S. of Kirriemuir, three elaborately ornamented, the third called the Stone of St. Erland or Orland (ib., I. 83–85). Close to Meigle in Perthshire.
- x. Eassie, N.W. of Glammis, one stone with cross and ornament (ib., I. 90, 91).
- xi. Camuston, near Panmure, S.W. of St. Vigean's (ib., I. 87).
- xii. Monifieth, on the coast just inside the Firth of Tay (ib., I. 92, II. 80, 81, 123); a crucifixion is on one of the stones, of which there are several. Along or near the coast from Arbroath to Dundee.
- xiii. Strathmartin, N.W. of Monifieth, fragments (ib., I. 77, 132, II. 101).
- xiv. Invergowrie, N. coast of Firth of Tay (ib., I. 88, 89).
- xv. Bentie, close to Invergowrie (ib., I. 126).
- xvi. Dundee, a beautiful crossed stone of late date (ib., II. 125).

To which are to be added, xvii. the crosses at St. Vigean's already mentioned.

[INSCRIBED AND OTHER CHRISTIAN MONUMENTS IN SCOTLAND.]

(b) Perthshire<sup>b</sup>: stones of a like character, at—

- i. Meigle, on the edge of Forfarshire, fragments of certainly two, probably more, very elaborately carved stones, with crosses; also of four others (ib., I. 72-77, 93, 127, 132, II. 3-7). Eastern part of the county, N.E. of Perth.
- ii. Kettins, close to Cupar Angus (ib., II. 8).
- iii. St. Madoe's, Carse of Gowrie (ib., I. 55).
- iv. Rossie Priory, Inchture, Carse of Gowrie (ib., II. 99).
- v. Dunkeld, an elaborately ornamented pillar of gray sandstone, with many figures and heads; and a red sandstone pillar with a plain cross on it, of seemingly later date; both used as gateposts to the churchyard (ib., I. 50, 51); also a fragment (ib., II. 68); and another fragment of a different style from the Pietish (ib., 16). Up the Tay or its tributaries.
- vi. Dunfallandy, close to Killiecrankie, of black slate, with cross and symbols, and figure in relief (ib., I. 47, 48).
- vii. Dull, close to Taymouth Castle, fragments, and three crosses with limbs (ib., II. 16, 17).
- viii. Abernethy, a fragment only (ib., I. 49).
- ix. Forteiot, at Bankhead, near Dupplin Castle, a beautiful cross with limbs; there were once two others, respectively half a mile north and half a mile south of it (ib., I. 57, 58).
- x. Gask, the "Boar Stone" (ib., I. 103, 104).
- xi. Fowlis Wester, 2 miles E. of Crieff (ib., I. 60). Along the Earn.
- xii. Crieff (ib., I. 65). See also Bishop Forbes's account of the bell of St. Fillan (Soc. Antiqu. Scott., vol. VIII. Edinb. 1870).
- xiii. Balquhidder, several stones, with crosses incised, on one an ecclesiastic with chalice; on another a Greek cross, with a human figure and a two-handed sword (Stuart, II. 67, 68).

<sup>b</sup> There is a part of a stone also at Goodlieburn near Perth, which once had upon it in relief a figure of our Lord, with the head surrounded by a glory. It is too fragmentary to have an exact date assigned to it, but it looks late. See Stuart, Sculpt. Stones, II. App. III. p. xlvi.

(c) Fifeshire: stones of a like character, at—

- i. Mugdrum, near Newburgh, south shore of Firth of Tay, apparently once a cross with limbs (ib., I. 52).
- ii. S. Andrew's, fragments elaborately carved, which have been forced into the shape of a cist, but appear to have been originally crosses; also a great number of fragments of crosses, &c. of an apparently later date, but none with symbols (ib., I. 61-65, II. 9-11, 18).
- iii. Crail (ib., I. 64).
- iv. Between Crail and Sauchope, the "Standing Stone of Sauchope," a pillar with cross incised (ib., I. 59).
- v. Near Kilrenny, close to Anstruther, the "Skeith Stone," resembling that at Bressay (ib., II. 124).
- vi. Abercrombie, on the Firth of Forth, two crosses, and fragments built into the church wall (ib., I. 124, 125).
- vii. Largo House, half way between Crail and Kircaldy, N.W. of Abercrombie (ib., I. 66).
- viii. Scoonie, at the mouth of the Orr, near Leven, animals, symbols, and Oghams (ib., II. 12).
- ix. Docton, in Kinglassie, four miles north of Kircaldy (ib., I. 53, 54).

There are also, to the south, in

- (d) Linlithgowshire, at (i.) Abercorn, a fragment of a similar character to the Saxon monuments at Hexham (ib., I. 128). (ii.) Aberlady, in East Lothian, a like fragment (ib., II. Pref. p. 46, note).

And, to the north, in

- (e) Kincardineshire, at (i.) Fordoun (S. Palladius' reputed place of burial), a stone with figures and symbols (ib., I. 67).

A fragment of a character not Saxon, at Liberton, near Edinburgh (ib., II. 77), may also be mentioned.

Along or near the coast from
S. Andrew's along the Firth of Forth to the mouth of the Orr.

[INSCRIBED AND OTHER CHRISTIAN MONUMENTS IN SCOTLAND.]

2. North of the Mouth.(f) Aberdeenshire: stones of a like character, at—

- i. Dunught, a few miles from Banchory, a stone with a cross incised within a circle (ib., II. 124). }
- ii. Aboyne, two stones with crosses (ib., I. 13). }
- iii. Migvie, near Aboyne, a primitive rough stone with a cross interlaced, and symbols, and a man on horseback (ib., II. 78). }
- iv. Dyce, on the Don (ib., I. 9). }
- v. Monymusk, on the Don (ib., I. 8). }
- vi. Kildrummy Castle, beautifully carved, but of late date (ib., II. 125). }
- vii. Chapel of Garioch, the “Maiden Stone” (ib., I. 2). Up the Don or its tributaries.
Also many stones with the Spectacle ornament &c. are in the valley of the Don or its tributaries, e.g. at Inverury, Kintore, &c., and one at Logie near Newton with Oghams (ib. I. 3), and at Newton itself as above mentioned; all in the Garioch. }
- viii. Old Deer, the monastery of SS. Columba and Drostan, near Peterhead (ib., I. 11). N. E. of the county.

(g) Banffshire, at—

- i. Mortlach, on the Dullan, a tributary of the Spey (ib., I. 14), which may be said to belong geographically to the Elgin group.

(h) Elginshire, stones of a like character in two localities, at—

- i. Elgin, now in the cathedral, a granite (broken) cross elaborately ornamented (ib., I. 16). }
- ii. Duffus, between Elgin and the sea (ib., I. 114). Near Elgin.
- iii. Drainie, near Duffus, on the coast, fragments (ib., I. 129, 130). }
- iv. Rafford, near Forres, known as “The Forres Stone” (ib., I. 18–21). }
- v. Brodie, above Forres, an elephant among the animals, which is not unfrequent (ib., I. 22, 23). On the Findhorn.
- vi. Glenferness, above Brodie, with elephants and interlaced ornamentation (ib., I. 24). }

[INSCRIBED AND OTHER CHRISTIAN MONUMENTS IN SCOTLAND.]

- (i) Ross-shire: stones of a like character, in one locality, viz. the western or southern shores respectively of the Moray and Dornoch Firths, at—
- i. Rosmarkie, south of the Cromarty Firth, a cross in two pieces, and fragments (ib., I. 105–107).
  - ii. Nigg, north of the Cromarty Firth (ib., I. 28, 29), representing the consecration of the Holy Eucharist.
  - iii. Shandwick, close to Nigg, a freestone obelisk with cross, magnificently carved (ib., I. 26, 27).
  - iv. Hilton in Cadboll, close to Shandwick, a stone with ornaments of a Saxon character, but no cross (ib., I. 25).
  - v. Tarbet, a fragment beautifully carved (ib., I. 30).
  - vi. Edderton (ib., I. 31, II. 129).

West shore of the Moray Firth.South shore of the Dornoch Firth.

- (k) Sutherlandshire, only two like stones—

- i. At Golspie, north coast of Dornoch Firth, near the Ross-shire cluster (ib., I. 34), with Oghams.
- ii. At Farr, in the centre of the north coast, near Tongue (ib., I. 35).

- (l) Caithness-shire, also only two specimens, at—

- i. Ulster, east coast a little south of Wick, with symbols (ib., I. 40).
- ii. Halkirk, northwards, some way up the Thurso Water, an elaborate crossed stone (ib., II. 79).

In addition to the above, rude crosses are found, inscribed within several caves, mostly on the shores of Fife, frequented no doubt by hermits in early times (Stuart, ib., Append. XIII. to Preface).

C. Inscribed and other Christian Monuments among the Scots of Dalriada.

A.D. 700–1000 (?).

- I. The inscribed monuments of early date are very few.

- i. In Iy, a stone with an incised cross, and OR AR ANMIN EOGAIN (= a prayer for the soul of Eogain—Stuart, Sculpt. Stones of Scott., II. 65.)
- ii. In the same island, another, with OR DO MAIL FATARIC (=a prayer for Maelpatrick—Stuart, ib., II. p. 31): referred by Dr. Reeves to Maelpatrick O'Banan, Bishop of Conner and Dalaradia, ob. A.D. 1174; but Mr. Stuart assigns an earlier date to both this and the preceding example. The name is a very common one.

[INSCRIBED AND OTHER CHRISTIAN MONUMENTS IN SCOTLAND.]

There are several other inscribed and very beautiful slabs and crosses, both in Hy and in the neighbouring islands, as e. g. Oronsay, but of a date much posterior to these and to the period with which we are here concerned, and running down to the 16th century.

II. Uninscribed monuments occur frequently in the islands and in Kintyre (besides many of later date), viz.:

1. In the Islands.

Argyllshire.

- i.. Hy, two crossed stones, of Irish type, one called S. Martin's, another with a plain cross in Reilig Oran of the character of the Irish crosses ascribed by Dr. Petrie to the 9th century, and two early fragments (Stuart, ib., II., plates 40, 41, 44-46, and p. 65).
- ii. Islay, fragments of carved pillar stones at Kilarrow and at Keils, two crossed stones at Kilchoman, and two elaborately carved stones with crosses of Irish type but probably 10th or 11th century at Kildalton (ib., plates 35-37, 53).
- iii. Eilanmore, W. coast of South Knapdale, Kintyre; a carved pillar, once a cross with limbs, and a stone with a plain lined cross incised (ib., plates 100, 103).
- iv. Tiree, a carved crossed stone at Kirkapol (with Crucifixion) which looks of later date, and a very old carved stone with cross of more ancient appearance than those in Hy, besides many other fragments of the early Hy type (ib., plates 48, 52).

- v. Cauna, a beautiful cross with limbs (ib., plates 50, 51).
- vi. Harris (in the Hebrides), a stone with a plain lined cross incised (ib., plate 103).

- vii. Bute, a fragment at S. Calmag, Rothesay, fragments of an interlaced cross at Rothesay Castle, and three round-headed crosses of a Cornish type at S. Blane's, Kingarth (ib., plates 56, 72, 73).
- viii. Cumbræc, at Millport, fragments of ten crosses like those at S. Blane's (ib., plate 74).
- ix. Arran, at Kilbride, a primitive stone with cross like those in Cornwall (ib., plate 122).

[INSCRIBED AND OTHER CHRISTIAN MONUMENTS IN SCOTLAND.]

2. On the mainland.Mainland of Argyllshire.

- i. Kintyre, at Kilchousland near Campbeltown, a fragment, and at Keils to the S. W. of North Knapdale, a beautiful cruciform pillar but apparently of later date (ib., plates 56 and 32); also at Keils two slabs, and some inscribed monuments of apparently 11th or 12th century (ib., plate 57).
- ii. Kilmichael, in Glassary near Lochgilphead, two crossed stones (ib., plate 58), also an inscribed stone resembling those at Keils in Kintyre (ib., plate 57).
- iii. Keils in Morven, N. coast of Sound of Mull, a cross with limbs, beautifully carved (ib., plate 49).

On none of these monuments are there any of the symbols so common in Pictland, but which occur nowhere else, save in one place in Galloway, and on a slab found on the Castle Hill, Edinburgh.

D. In Laodonia or Saxonia, i. e. in the district from the Border northward to the Firth of Forth, which was occupied by the Angles from A.D. 547 (?) onwards, but which became subject to the Scottish King either A.D. 971 × 975, or more probably A.D. 1018, and consequently also, at the same time, part of (what was ultimately held to be) the diocese of S. Andrew's, there are no monuments belonging to the Saxon period, and answering in character to the Northumberland and Durham monuments, except the fragments at Abercorn and Aberlady, above mentioned: unless we include, under this head, that at Coldingham co. Berwick, close to S. Abb's Head, figured in Stuart, Sculpt. Stones, p. 63, plate 110.

APPENDIX D.

A.D. 563-849.

1. S. COLUMBA, A.D. 563-597<sup>b</sup>. [Ann. Tigh. a. 595, Quies Columcille in nocte Dominica Pentecosten V. Id. Juni anno peregrinationis sue XXXV., etatis vero LXXVII. So also Ann. Innisf., Ult. The Ann. Clonmacn. and IV. Mag. give the same day but a different year. That A.D. 597 is the correct year, see Reeves's Adamnan, pp. 309-312; Lanigan, II. 247; Grub, I. 67, n.<sup>c</sup>]

2. S. BAITHENUS, A.D. 597-600. [Ann. Tigh. a. 598, Quies Baethin Abbatis Ea anno LXVI. etatis sue. See however Ann. Ult.; Adamn., I. 2, 23, II. 46, III. 4; Ann. Clonm.; IV. Mag. in an. 595; and Grub, I. 70, n.]

3. LAISREAN or LASREN, A.D. 600-605. [Ann. Tigh. a. 605, Obitus Lasren Abbas Iea. So also Ann. Innisf., &c.]

4. FERGNA or VIRGNOUS, A.D. 605-623, a Briton [see above, vol. I. p. 122], miscalled a Bishop by IV. Mag. in an. 622. [Ann. Tigh. a. 621, Bass (= mors) Fergna Abbatis Hie. Ann. Innisf. and Ult. date this in 623.]

5. SEGHINE or SEGINE or SEGENIUS, A.D. 623-652. [Ann. Tigh. a. 652, Obitus Seghine Abbas Iea, i. filii Fiachna. So also Ann. Ult.; and see Adamn., I. 3, II. 4; and above, p. 108.]

6. SUIBHNE, A.D. 652-657. [Ann. Tigh. a. 657, Quies Suibnii mac Cuirthre Abbatis Iea. So also Ann. Ult. Ann. Clonm. and IV. Mag. give another year.]

7. CUIMINE AILBHE or CUMMENIUS ALBUS, A.D. 657-669. [The first biographer of S. Columba: Ann. Tigh. a. 669, Obitus Cumaine Ailbe Abbatis Iea. So also Ann. Ult., Ann. IV. Mag., in an. 668.]

8. FAILBHE, A.D. 669-679. [See above, p. 109, under A.D. 692. Ann. Tigh. a. 679, Quies Failbe Abbatis Iea. So also Ann. Ult., and see Adamn., I. 3.]

9. ADAMNANUS or ADOMNANUS, also EDHENNANUS, ENDANANUS, ODAN<sup>D</sup>ANUS, the Wise, A.D. 679-704. [Also = EUNAN, ONAN, OUNAN, ANNAN, THEWNAN (=St. Eunan), and called (erroneously) the first Bishop of Raphoe (Reeves,

pp. 256, 257; Lanigan, III. 99, 100); Ann. Tigh. a. 704, Adamnanus LXVII. anno etatis sue in nonas kalendis Octobris Abbas Ie pausat. So also, but in an. 703, Ann. Innisf., Ult., IV. Mag.<sup>d</sup>; see however Lappenberg, Anglo-Sax. Kings, I. xxxvi. note, who argues for A.D. 705.]

10, 11, 12, 13, 14. Five (perhaps six) abbats, apparently displacing one another, owing to factions arising from the Easter dispute. [10. DUNCHADH, A.D. 707, principatum Iae tenuit (Ann. Tigh., Ult., see also Bæd. H.E., III. 4; and above, pp. 115, 117), and the same Dunchadh, mac Cindfaeladh, Abbas Ie, obit A.D. 717 (ib.): but 11. CONAIN or CONAMHAIL, became abbat before A.D. 710; according to Dr. Reeves, in A.D. 704; for, A.D. 710, Conmael mac Abbatis Cillidara Iea pausat (Ann. Tigh.), and, same year, Conain mac Failbe Abbas Iae pausat (Ann. Ult.); also, in A.D. 712, Ceode Episcopus Iea pausat (Ann. Tigh.), who may perhaps have been abbat, but probably was only a Bishop residing in the abbey: and 12. DORBENE, A.D. 713, cathedram Jae obtinuit (Ann. Tigh., Ult.); and the same Dorbene, according to one entry in Ann. Tigh. (repeated by Ann. Ult.), V. mensibus peractis in primatu 5<sup>o</sup> kal. Novembris die Sabbati obiit, and according to another entry in the former annals, died A.D. 715, but the 28th October was a Saturday in A.D. 713, and not in A.D. 715:—however, 13. FAILCHU or FAELCU, A.D. 716, cathedram Columbae LXXXVII. etatis anno in IIII. kl. Septembbris (V<sup>o</sup>. kal., Ann. Ult.) die Sabbati suscepit (Ann. Tigh., Ult.), and Aug. 29, A.D. 716, was a Saturday; and, A.D. 724, the same Faelchu, in both cases styled Mac Doirbeni or Dorbene, dormivit (Ann. Tigh., Ult.): and yet, 14. FEIDLIMIDH, A.D. 722, principatum Iae tenet (Ann. Tigh., Ult.), and did not die until A.D. 759. It looks as if Dunchadh, A.D. 707-716, and Faelchu, A.D. 716-724, were the abbats of the new or reforming side; and Conain, (perhaps Ceode,) Dorbene, and Feidlimidh, were the nominees of the others. The primacy over the Picts was lost during the incumbency of Faelchu.]

15. KILLENE FODA, or CILLENUS LONGUS, A.D. 724-726. [Ann. Tigh. a. 724, Cillenus Longus ei [Faelchu] in principatum Ie successit; and a. 726, Cillenus Longus abbas Ie pausat. So also Ann. IV. Mag. in an. 725.]

16. KILLENE DROICTEACH, or the Bridgemaker, A.D. 726-752. [Ann. Tigh. a. 752, Mors Cilline Droictigh ancorite Iea. So also Ann. Ult., IV. Mag. in an. 747, the latter calling him “Abb. Iae.”]

(FAILBHE THE SECOND, A.D. 752-754, is inserted here by Ann. IV. Mag. But the earlier Ann. Innisf. make the name Sleibne, and Dr. Reeves omits him altogether, and puts Sleibne's succession A.D. 752.)

17. SLEIBNE or SLEBHINE, A.D. 752-767. [Ann. Ult. a. 767, Quies Sleiben Iae. And see ib. a. 754, and Ann. Tigh. a. 754, 757, 758.]

[PRIMATE-ABBATS OF HY, A.D. 563-849.]

18. SUIBNE, A.D. 765-772. [Ann. Ult. a. 765, Suibne Abbas Iae in Hiberniam venit (where either Suibne is a mistake for Sleibne, or else the latter resigned in A.D. 765, or perhaps Suibne was elected coadjutor-abbat before his predecessor's death); ib. a. 772, Mors Suibne Abbas Iae.]

19. BREASAL MAC REGENI, A.D. 772-801. [Ann. Ult. a. 801, Bresal mac Regeni Abbas Iae anno principatus sui 31 dormivit. See also above, p. 117.]

20. CONACHTACH, A.D. 801, 802; "scriba selectissimus et Abbas Iae." See Ann. IV. Mag. a. 797.

21. CEALLACH, A.D. 802-814. [Ann. Ult. a. 814, Ceallach Abbas Iae finita constructione templi Ceninda (Kells) reliquit principatum. He died in A.D. 815. See Ann. Clonmacn., IV. Mag.]

22. DIARMIT, A.D. 814-831 x 849. [Ann. Ult. a. 814, Diarmicius alumpnus Daigri pro eo (Ceallach) ordinatus est. He is mentioned also ib. a. 829, 831, and in IV. Mag. a. 816; but his death is not recorded, and A.D. 849 Indrecht is abbat. Blaithmaic's martyrdom happened A.D. 825.]

23. INDRICHT OR INNRECHTACH, (before) A.D. 849-854. [Ann. Ult. a. 849, Inrechtag Abbat of Hy goes to Ireland; Ann. Innisf. a. 854, he is "martyred" on his way to Rome by the Saxons.]

[Notices of subsequent abbats of Hy, no longer however primates of Scotland, and commonly styled coarbs, and that of other (Irish) abbeys (as Armagh, Kells, Kildare, Raphoe, &c.) in conjunction with Hy, occur regularly until A.D. 1099, and again after an interval of some half a century, down to A.D. 1203, at which date the last entry occurs respecting Hy in the Irish annals: see Reeves's Adamnan, pp. 407-413.]

<sup>b</sup> In addition to the settlements mentioned above on p. 107, there is a list of dedications to S. Columba in Dr. Reeves's Adamn., pp. 289-298, indicating missionary Columbite settlements, but not necessarily (and in some cases certainly not) cotemporary with S. Columba himself. They run completely round the coast (including the islands), from Largs and Bute, west, north, and east, to Forfarshire, and thence inland west to the Lennox. 1. In Scotia, where they are most numerous, they extend from Bute and Cantyre, through most of the islands (Islay, Oronsay, Colonsay, Mull, Canna, Tiree, S. Kilda, Skye and the islets on its coast, N. and S. Uist, Benbecula, Bernera, Lewis); and one, Columkill, on the northern skirts of the mainland Dalriada, at the head of Loch Arkeg: to which may be added Kilmaclom, and Largs in Renfrew, just south of the Clyde, in Strathclyde. Of these, S. Columba himself certainly occupied Skye (which was divided with him subsequently by S. Maerlubha: see Adamn., V. S. Col., I. 33, II. 26, and Reeves ad loc.) and Tiree; and probably most of the islands named. 2. In Pieland, beginning with Sanday and Hoy in the Orkneys, they are dotted along the coast at intervals, from a place near Tongue in Sutherland, Dirlet in Caithness, Clyne on the east coast of Sutherland, three or four places in Inverness-shire, Banff, and Nairn, to Lonmay (and the abbey of Deer) in the N.E. of Aberdeenshire, three places on the Don, and rather more in Forfarshire and Perth, including Dunkeld (which however was almost certainly not dedicated to S. Columba until about A.D. 850), and lastly Drymen in the Lennox. Two outlying dedications—Kirkcolm in Wigton, and S. Columba in Caerlaverock at the mouth of the Nith in Dumfries—belong probably to Irish influence there, of 9th or 10th centuries. Other Irish saints of the same period visited Scotland, but without permanently settling there: e. g. S. Finbar of Cork, patron saint of Dornoch; S. Brendan; the two S. Fillans; S. Ronan, connected with the island of Rona; S. Flannan: (apparently) S. Cainmech; &c. (see Reeves, Adamn., App. to Pref. p. lxxiv.).

<sup>c</sup> The Ann. Tigb. must be corrected as respects the mention of Whitsunday. The evidence given by Dr. Reeves (as above) fixes the day and year to June 9, A.D. 597, which was not Whitsunday, but Trinity Sunday.

APPENDIX E.

LIVES EXIST OF THE FOLLOWING SAINTS CONNECTED WITH THE EARLY SCOTTISH (DALRIAD) OR PICTISH CHURCHES, PRIOR TO A.D. 850.

1. S. Servani (Serf), Episcopi (a Scottish disciple of S. Palladius, according to the Aberdeen Breviary—came from Alexandria according to the legend in Skene, who himself conjectures him to have come with Boniface in the 8th century): one printed by Skene, Chron. 412–420, from a MS. of Bishop Marsh at Dublin, V. 3, 4, 16: another legend, in *Brev. To these are to be added the legends in the Brev. Aberdon., as e.g. of S. Baldred of East Lothian (7th century), S. Cainnech (Albanice Kenneth, who belongs rather to Ireland), S. Constantine (of Cornwall; see above in vol. I. pp. 120, 157), S. Drostan (Actt. SS. July 11, vol. III. pp. 198–200), S. Fergus, S. Kessog, S. Modanus (Actt. SS. Feb. 4, vol. I. p. 498), S. The great majority of those whose names occur in connection with Scotland, belong rather to Ireland, both by their birth and by their principal labours.

PERIOD THE THIRD.

FROM THE PRIMACY OF DUNKELD, A.D. 849–906(?), AND THAT OF S. ANDREW'S FROM THE LATTER YEAR TO THE CONSECRATION OF TURGOT TO S. ANDREW'S, A.D. 1109.

A.D. 849–1109.

- [A.D. 849–(about) A.D. 906. Primacy at Dunkeld instead of Hy during the first four reigns (Kenneth Mac Alpin to Aodh) after the union of Dalriada to Pictavia. A.D. 878 × 896. King Cyric's (or Grig's) gift of "liberty to the Scottish Church." c. A.D. 888. Norwegian Kingdom of Orkney and the Isles. A.D. 906. Council of Scone. Primacy transferred to S. Edinburgh to the Pentland Hills becomes subject to Indulf King of Alban (Skene, Chron. 10), and therefore to the jurisdiction of the Bishop of Alban or "of the Scots" (afterwards called of S. Andrew's). c. A.D. 1000. The Orkneys converted to Christianity. A.D. 1018. Laodonia ceded to Malcolm II. King of Scotia (Sim. Dun., Hist. Dun., III. 6, 5; De Obsess. Dun., Twysd. 81; *De R. G. R. Foundation of Morthlach as an Episcopal monastery (afterwards the see of Aberdeen). A.D. 1070 × 1093. Fothadh, chief Bishop of Alban, said to have professed subjection to York. A.D. 1070 × 1089. Reforms of Queen Margaret. A.D. 1097. Hy as well as the Isles subject to Norway, and therefore under the Bishop of Man, and subject to the Norwegian Church, from this year until A.D. 1156. A.D. 1109. Consecration of Turgot at York to the see of S. Andrew's.]

<sup>a</sup> According to Wallingford (p. 544) and Roger of Wendover (I. 416), Kenneth II., by gift of Edgar and therefore A.D. 971 × 975, acquired at least part of Laodonia. And in that case, Malcolm II. either pushed on the boundary so as to include Teviotdale and the Merse (so Palgrave), or recovered the whole district after an intermediate loss of it (so Freeman). In either case, the ecclesiastical jurisdiction of S. Andrew's did not at any time include Teviotdale, which remained subject to Durham until about A.D. 1100, and was then seized by Glasgow (see above, pp. 12, 15). See the whole (political) case stated at length in Freeman, Norman Conquest, I. 575 sq.

CHRON. PICT.—Dunevaldus frater ejus [sc. Kinadii] tenuit idem regnum [sc. Pictaviam] IIII. annis. In hujus tempore jura ac leges regni Edi filii Ecdach fecerunt Goedeli cum Rege suo in Fothiurtha-baith. [Skene, Chron. 8.]

<sup>a</sup> It is in Innes's list, but as hardly ecclesiastical in its subject-matter. Robertson (Early Scott., I. 41 n.) explains it as recognizing "the claims of Aodh Fin's descendants, the Mac Alpin family, to Cain and Cuairt" (dues so called) "over the provinces of the Picts;" which the annalists would have called the "Lex Aodh Fin."

<sup>b</sup> Kenneth Mac Alpin and his immediate successors are still called Kings of Pictavia, although their kingdom included Dalriada and the Dalriad Scots also. From Donald son of Constantine, A.D. 880, the title became King of Albania. That of King of Scotia begins with Malcolm II., A.D. 1003-1033. So Skene, Chron., Pref.

<sup>a</sup> It appears by these extracts that the Abbat of Kildare (not a Columbite monastery) had held also the abbacy of Hy; and that the chief Bishop, styled Bishop of Fortrenn, was also Abbat of Dunkeld, and had nothing to do with Hy. If, however, Tuathal was a Bishop, it looks uncertain whether Flaithbertach was so; "princeps" being ambiguous between Abbat and Bishop.

ad illud tempus ex consuetudine et more Pictorum. [Skene, Chron. 151; also, from Reg. S. Andr., ib. 174, and in Innes, Critical Essay, 801, 802.]

<sup>a</sup> Various explanations have been suggested of this enigmatical "gift" of King Cyric. Joseph Robertson (Stat. Eccl. Scot., Pref. xix., and so also Mr. Stuart, Pref. to Book of Deer, pp. xcii-c) endorses a supposition of Mr. Skene's, that it means freedom from lay services, comparing the letter of Boniface to Cuthbert A.D. 745, the well-known but obscure gifts of Ethelwulf A.D. 854, the laws of the Northumbrian priests c. A.D. 950, the charters in the Book of Deer, &c. Mr. Skene, in the Pref. to his Chronicles, interprets it (less probably) of a restoration of influence to the Scottish or Columbite clergy; quoting an earlier Pictish Chronicle (ib. 8) to the effect that the Picts were "destroyed" by Kenneth Mac Alpin, "quia illi non solum Domini missam ac praeceptum spreverunt, sed et in iure equitatis alii equiparari noluerunt;" and adducing the legend of S. Adrian or Odran, founder of the abbey of May, who came with a band of clergy to Fifeshire, as probably referring to some such revolution. The 13th-century Chron. of Picts and Scots (Skene, 204), also specifies the "servitudo" to be "dez lays as usages de Picys." Robertson's Early Scotl., following Pinkerton and Chalmers, connects the matter with the transfer of the primacy from Dunkeld to S. Andrew's; which certainly took place about this period, but probably either in, or just prior to, A.D. 906, and which is connected with the parallel transfer of the civil capital from Forteviot to Scone.

That there was a council on the subject, and that it was held at Forfar, rests solely upon Boethius (X. p. 209); who gives also a series of privileges granted by it to the clergy, beginning with an exemption of all "sacerdotes, tributo et regiis (ut dicunt) exactionibus, militiaque," also from the jurisdiction of the civil law courts, with a jurisdiction of their own in causes of faith, marriage, wills, &c., and ending with imposing an oath upon every King of Scotland at his coronation, to protect the liberties, &c. of the Church: all of which appears to have no better foundation than the one obscure sentence in the Chronicle.

<sup>b</sup> Formerly identified with Durrisdeer or Dunadeer in the Garioch, alleged to have been the capital city of the Picts in that district, viz. of the northern Picts (Chalmers, Caledonia, III. 7, p. 383, note I), but the Prophecy of Berchan (in Skene, Chron. 98) seems to prove (as Mr. Skene says) that it was really Dundurn (Dun d'Earn) on Loch Earn near S. Fillan's (Skene, Pref. cxxxvi. n.).

CHRON. PICT.—In VI. anno Constantinus Rex [filius Edii] et Cellachus Episcopus leges disciplinasque fidei atque jura ecclesiarum et ewangeliorumque<sup>d</sup> pariter cum Scottis in Colle credulitatis prope regali civitati Scoan devoverunt custodiri. Ab hoc die collis hoc meruit nomen, id est, Collis credulitatis. [Skene, Chron. 8; W., I. 204.]

<sup>a</sup> The date depends on that of the beginning of Constantine's reign; and Donald his predecessor died A.D. 900 (Ann. Ult.). On the other hand, the oldest Pict. Chron. makes him resign the throne ten years before his death (Skene, Chron. 10—he died in the tenth year of his successor's reign), the later Chronicles however reducing this to five: and the Chron. of Scots and Picts (13th century), and indeed all the Pictish Chronicles, give forty years as the length of his reign, while the Ann. Ult. themselves date his death A.D. 952, thus making his reign begin A.D. 903, and the council of Scone date A.D. 909. It does not seem, however, that there was any interval between Donald's death and Constantine's accession. And the date from the Irish annals is probably the more trustworthy. The forty years is probably a round number only.

probably of these two facts, the civil capital, which had been at Forteviot, is now found to be at Scone; and Cellach, who was Bishop in the time of Cyric (Fordun and Wyntoun), is found in connection with (not Dunkeld, but) S. Andrew's.

Almost at the same time, the men of Fortrenn and the Lochlanns<sup>a</sup> fought a battle. Vigorously, indeed, did the men of Alban fight this battle, for Columcille was assisting them, for they prayed to him fervently, because he was their apostle, and it was through him they had received the faith. On a former occasion, when Imhar Conung<sup>b</sup> was a young man, he came to plunder Alban with three large battalions. What the men of Alban, both laity and clergy, did, was to remain until morning fasting and praying to God and to Columcille, and they cried aloud to the Lord, and gave many alms of food and clothes to the churches and to the poor, and to take the body of the Lord from the hands of the priests, and to promise to do every good as their clergy would order them; and they would have as their standard at the head of every battle the crozier of Columcille, for which reason it is called the Cathbhuaidh<sup>c</sup> from that time forth; and this was a befitting name for it, for they have often gained victory in battles by means of it, as they

[LAY KELEDEAN ABBAT.]

A.D. 963. ANN. IV. MAG., in an.—Fothadh<sup>a</sup> mac Brain scriba et Episcopus Insularum Albæ.

<sup>a</sup> Fothadh, “primus Episcopus Scottorum,” and successor to Cellach, was expelled by King Indulf, and died eight years afterwards, according to the Suppl. to Fordun. He was expelled therefore about the date of Indulf’s accession, A.D. 955. According to the Legend of S. Andrew (c. A.D. 1279), inserted in the Reg. S. Andr. (Skene, Cbron. 190, 191). Robert (A.D. 1122) “in Episcopum Scotorum electus fuit: sic quippe, ab antiquo, Episcopi Sancti Andreæ dicti sunt, et in scriptis tam antiquis quam modernis inveniuntur dicti Summi Ardebi-episcopi sive Summi Episcopi Scotorum . . . Sic et nunc quoque in vulgari et communis locutione Escop Alban, id est, Episcopi Albaiae, appellantur. Sic et dicti sunt, et dicuntur per excellentiam ab universis Scotorum Episcopis, qui a locis quibus presunt appellantur.” The title in Ann. Tigb. and IV. Mag. a. 1055 is “Epseob Alban;” in Ann. Ult. a. 1093 (of Fothadh), “Ardepscob Alban.” And the natural translation of this, from the end of the 10th century, would be “Episcopus Scottorum.” Fothadh, accordingly, is called “in Scotis summus Episcopus,” in the inscription upon the silver cover of his Gospels (Skene, Cbron. 190). And the title lasted into the 12th century. Simeon Dunelm. in one passage so calls Turgot (In Twysd. 237), A.D. 1109. So does also Turgot’s own Profession (in Stubbs, ap. Twysd. 1713), if it can be trusted. The letter of Nicolas to Eadmer speaks of the “præsul S. Andreæ,” at the same period, as called “summus pontifex Scotiæ.” Robert, Bishop A.D. 1122 (Reg. of S. Andr. in Skene, 190), Ernald, Bishop A.D. 1158 or 1160 (Reg. Prior. S. Andr. 126, 127, 128), and Richard, Bishop A.D. 1163 (ib. 12), are still styled, or style themselves, “Episcopus Scottorum.” But on the other hand the title of Bishop of S. Andrew’s is given to Turgot, not only by Simeon Dunelm. repeatedly, but by King Alexander (Eadmer, Hist. Nov., V.); and to Eadmer by Archbishop Anselm (ib. IV.); and Bishops Robert and Ernald so call themselves (Reg. P. S. A. 124, 128); and naturally, after the complete establishment of the other local Bishoprics, it became the proper title, from the 12th century onwards. The Archbischopric dates from Aug. 17. A.D. 1472.

[FIRST NORTHERN CHRISTIAN CHIEF.]

Scotiam miserunt, et inde quemdam prægrandis ut fama ferebat eloquentiæ virum, Bernelmum nomine, magno conductum pretio in tuitionem suæ causæ contra Dunstanum adduxerunt. Conglobati ergo sub uno clericorum filii Regem<sup>c</sup> atque Dunstanum apud villam quæ dicitur Kalne in quodam coenaculo consistentes reperiunt, et armati rhetore illo qui suæ victoriæ spes maxima erat, antiquæ calumniæ coram eis jurgia promunt. [Angl. S., II. 220.]—So also, before Eadmer, OSBERN., V. S. Dunstan. [ib. 112.].

hardly the "filii," after a lapse of only two years. The commonly received history, however, of Dunstan's proceedings against the secular clerks, rests in its details upon very questionable evidence.

Malsnechte (ob. A.D. 1085), son of Lulach (ob. A.D. 1058), which Lulach was son of Gruoch, who married Macbeth for a second husband, and brought to him also (apparently) the mormaerdom of Moray. Consequently Moray must have reached east of the Spey at this period.

A.D. 1018. CHRON. OF THE SCOTS.—Ipse [Malcolm II.] etiam multas oblationes tam ecclesiis quam clero ea die<sup>a</sup> distribuit. [Skene, 131.]

<sup>a</sup> Sc. the day of the battle of Carham; as a result of which Malcolm acquired the Lothians. The council of Perth (reckoned as a Scottish council by Innes) and the laws of Malcolm Mac Kenneth, found in Boethius, are spurious.

For the foundation of the see of Morthlach, wrongly (as it should seem) attributed to Malcolm II., see below under Malcolm III., A.D. 1063.

Et ex hac causa dicitur locus ille Saxum Hiberniensium. [p. 114.]

Ib. De libertate Kyrkenes collata a Rege Macbet filio Finlach et a Gruothe Regina.—Cum omni libertate collata fuit villa de Kyrkenes Deo omnipotenti et Keledeis, absque omni munere et onere et exacione Regis et filii Regis, vicecomitis et alicuius, et sine refecione pontis, et sine exercitu et uenacione, set pietatis intuitu et orationum suffragiis fuit Deo omnipotenti collata. [ib.]

<sup>a</sup> These records are the next in date after A.D. 955, which mention Keledei in Scotland. They are not charters, but (as usual) minutes of past grants, drawn up long after date: as is plain in the case of the first by the strange story inserted in it, which dates at some time subsequent to Malcolm Canmore, son of Duncan, King A.D. 1056-1093. Kirkness is a little

Another grant by Macbeth, of the "Villa de Bolgyne, heremitis de Lochlein," almost in identical terms with the second of those given above, is in the same Register of S. Andrew's, p. 12.

1. Christo initiatum ad prophanum iudicem non vocato, vocatum comparentem non iudicato, sed ad sacros antisites remittito.

2. Decimam partem terræ nascentium pastorum Ecclesiarum libere conferto. Deinde uite semper votis et oblationibus consuetis adorato.

3. Qui pontificis auctoritatem annum totum excrexatus contempserit, neque se interim reconciliarit, hostis reipublicæ habetor; qui Earlier in his Episcopate, “venerunt (ad Adalbertum) Islani, Gronlani, et Orchadum legati, petentes ut prædicatores illuc dirigeret, quod et fecit” (ib., III. 23). The Orkneys are among the “insulæ quæ Hammaburensem parrochiam respiciunt;” and Adalbert, “quamvis prius ab Anglorum et Scottorum Episcopis regerentur,” yet, “iussu Papæ ordinavit Turolfum Episco-pum in civitatem Blasconam, qui omnium curas ageret” (ib., IV. 34, p. 209). So also the “Subscriptions Episcoporum,” in Langebek, III. 246. “Blascona” is unintelligible. Count Thorfin (ob. A.D. 1064) built his church in Orkney Mainland. And S. Magnus’ church, built A.D. 1138, was at Kirkwall. See the Vita S. Magni, in Pinkerton’s VV. SS. Scot.

REG. EPISC. ABERDON.—Anno Domini millesimo septuagesimo Malcolmus Rex Scotorum, filius Kenachi, duxit in uxorem beatam Margaretam Reginam..... Et anno regni sui sexto<sup>a</sup> fundata est sedes Episcopalis apud Morthlach, ut habetur in primo filio primi quaterni. Et processu temporis translata est sedes Episcopalis apud Aberdon<sup>b</sup>, per Dauid filium suum Regem Scocie, et dotata, ut habetur in eodem folio. [Innes in Pref. p. xvii.]

IB.—MALCOLMUS REX SCOTTORUM, omnibus probis hominibus suis, tam clericis quam laicis, salutem. Sciatis me dedisse, et hac carta mea confirmasse, Deo et Beate Marie et omnibus Sanctis, et Episcopo Beyn de Morthelach, ecclesiam de Morthelach, ut ibidem construatur sedes Episcopalis, cum terris meis de Morthelach; ecclesiam de Cloveth cum terra, ecclesiam de Dulmeth cum terra; ita libere sicut eas tenui, et in puram et perpetuam elemosynam: teste meipso apud Forfare, octauo die mensis Octobris anno regni mei sexto<sup>c</sup>. [p. 3.]

<sup>c</sup> That Malcolm III, and not (as Fordun, IV. 44, affirms) Malcolm II., founded Mortlach, see C. Innes' Pref. to Chartul. of Aberdeen, pp. xi-xviii. But the charter above given is, as it stands, of very questionable character. The foundation was apparently of an episcopal monastery, rather than of an episcopal see; a diocese with jurisdiction over it not existing until David transferred the see to Aberdeen. Mortlach is in Banffshire, not far from the mouth of the river Spey. Cloveth, now Clova, was a small monastery dependent upon Mortlach. The original foundation of Mortlach is assigned to S. Moloc or Moluag of Lismore in Argyllshire: just as the neighbouring Celtic monastery of Turriff (close to the river Deveron, in Aberdeenshire, but on the borders of Banff) is assigned to S. Congan, who also began his Scottish labours in Argyllshire. See above, p. 107; and Stuart's Book of Deer, Pref. cxxxiv. sq.

usually dated in the 13th century, and commemorated in Brev. Aberd. Pars Ilyem., fol. 66.

<sup>a</sup> The foundation charter by Malcolm, in Chartul. of Dunfermlyne, p. 417 (from the Advocates' Libr.), is apocryphal: see Cosmo Innes, Pref. to that Chartulary, pp. xx., xxi. Either at first or under King David (Fordun., V. 48), Benedictine monks were introduced there. If at the former date, they were the first Benedictines in Scotland; but the latter date seems the more likely. See Grub., I. 190.

Every King of Scotland, from Kenneth Mac Alpin,—except Constantine, A.D. 952 (buried at S. Andrew's, where he was abbat), Culen, and Kenneth Mac Malcolm,—down to Malcolm Canmore, was buried at Hy (Cron. Pict. &c., Skene, 151, 174, 204–209, 301).

Malcolm Canmore was buried at Tynemouth according to Sim. Dun. (Twysd. 218) and the later Chronicles (ib. 206, 302), but at Hy according to an earlier one (ib. 175). He was really buried at Tynemouth, and his body afterwards removed by King Alexander his son to Dunfermlin (Fordun., V. 25). Donald, son of Duncan, was buried at Dunkeld, but his bones were translated to Hy afterwards (Skene, 175). Edgar, Alexander I., David, Malcolm IV., were buried at Dunfermlin (ib. 175, 209); as had been also Queen Margaret: William at Arbroath, Alexander II. at Melrose. The Pictish King Bruide was buried at Hy (Skene, 409).

Igitur regina, præfatione præmissa, ut qui cum Catholica Ecclesia in una fide uni Deo servirent, ab eadem Ecclesia novis quibusdam et peregrinis institutionibus discrepare non deberent, primum proposuit Quadragesimale Jejunium legitime non observare, quia hoc non cum sancta ubique Ecclesia [a feria quarta<sup>a</sup>] in Capite Jejunii [sed sequenti septimana] feria secunda, consueverant inchoare. Contra illi, Jejunium, inquiunt, quod agimus, Evangelica auctoritate, quæ Christi narrat jejunium, per sex ebdomadas observamus. At illa, Longe, ait, in hoc Evangelio discordatis: legitur enim ibi Dominum quadraginta diebus jejunasse, quod manifestum est vos non facere. Nam cum per sex ebdomadas sex Dominicæ dies a jejunio abstrahuntur, triginta tantum et sex dies ad jejunandum remanere noscuntur. Non ergo Evangelica auctoritate quadraginta, sed triginta et sex dierum constat vos observare jejunium. Restat itaque, ut quatuor diebus ante Quadragesimæ initium jejunare nobiscum incipiatis, si Dominicæ exemplo quadraginta dierum numero abstinentiam observare volueritis: alioquin contra ipsius Domini auctoritatem et totius sanctæ Ecclesiæ vos soli repugnabitis traditionem. Hac illi perspicua veritatis oratione convicti, deinceps, sicut sancta ubique solet Ecclesia, sacrorum jejuniorum cœperunt inchoare solemnia.

2. Non-celebration of the Holy Eucharist upon Easter Day. Aliud quoque proponens, regina jussit, ut ostenderent, qua ratione die sancto Paschæ secundum morem sanctæ Apostolicæ Ecclesiæ sacramenta Corporis et Sanguinis Christi sumere negligerent. Respondentes illi, Apostolus, inquiunt, de his loquens ait, “Qui manducat et bibit indigne, judicium sibi manducat et bibit.” Unde quia nos peccatores recognoscimus, ne judicium nobis manducemus et bibamus, ad illud mysterium accedere formidamus. Quibus regina, Quid igitur? inquit, Omnes, qui peccatores sunt, sacrosanctum mysterium non gustabunt? Nemo ergo illud sumere debet, quia “nemo sine sorde peccati, nec infans cuius est unius diei vita super terram<sup>b</sup>.” Si autem nemo illud percipere debet, cur Domino dicente clamat Evangelium, “Nisi manducaveritis Carnem Filii Hominis, et biberitis Ejus Sanguinem, non habebitis vitam in vobis.” Sed plane sententiam, quam de Apostolo profertis, secundum patrum intellectum aliter necesse est intelligatis. Non enim omnes peccatores sacramenta salutis “indigne” sumere deputat. Cum enim dixisset, “Judicium sibi manducat et bibit,” addidit, “Non dejudicans Corpus Domini,” hoc est, non separans illud in fide ab escis corporalibus, judicium sibi manducat et bibit. Sed et ille, qui absque confessione et poenitentia cum suorum inquinamentis scelerum ad sacra mysteria accedere præsumpserit, ille, inquam, judicium sibi manducat et bibit. At nos, qui, multis ante diebus, facta peccatorum confessione, poenitentia castigamur, jejuniis attenuamur, eleemosynis et lacrymis a peccatorum sordibus abluimur, in die Resurrectionis Dominicæ ad Ejus mensam in Catholica fide acce-dentes, Carnem et Sanguinem Agni immaculati Jhesu Christi, non ad judicium, sed ad peccatorum sumimus remissionem, et salutarem percipiendæ beatitudinis æternæ præparationem. His ab ea perceptis, respondere nihil potuerunt, atque agnita deinceps Ecclesiæ instituta in mysterii salutaris perceptione observaverunt.

3. Barbarous customis in the Mass. Præterea in aliquibus locis Scottorum quidam fuerunt, qui contra totius Ecclesiæ consuetudinem, nescio quo ritu barbaro, missas celebrare consueverant; quod regina, zelo Dei accensa, ita destruere atque annihilare studuit, ut deinceps qui tale quid præsumeret, nemo in tota Scottorum gente appareret.

4. Labour on the Lord's Day. Solebant quoque neglecta Dominicorum dierum reverentia ita illis sicut et aliis diebus quibusque terreni operis insistere laboribus; quod non licere ratione pariter et auctoritate ipsa ostendebat. Dominicum, inquit, diem propter Dominicam, quæ in eo facta est, resurrectionem, in veneratione habemus, ut in eo servilia opera jam non faciamus, in quo nos a servitute diaboli redemptos novimus. Hoc etiam B. Papa Gregorius affirmans dicit: “Dominico die a labore terreno cessandum est, atque omnimodo orationibus insistendum, ut, si quid negligentiae per sex dies agitur, per diem Resurrectionis Dominicæ precibus expietur.” Idem quoque Pater Gregorius quendam propter opus terrenum, quod die Dominico fecerat, districta increpatione feriens, eos, quorum hoc consiliis egerat, duobus mensibus excommunicatos esse decrevit. His sapientis reginæ rationibus contraire non valentes, ita postmodum reverentiam Dominicorum dierum ejus instantia observarunt, ut nec onera quælibet his diebus quisquam portare, nec alias alium ad hoc auderet compellere.

5. Marriage with stepmothers and widows. Illicita etiam novcarum conjugia, similiter et uxorem fratri defuncti fratrem superstitem ducere, quæ ibi antea fiebant, nimis ostendit execranda, et a fidelibus velut ipsam mortem devitanda.

6. Divers other abuses. Multa quoque alia, quæ contra fidei regulam et ecclesiasticarum observationum instituta inoleverant, ipsa in eodem concilio dammare et de regni sui finibus curavit proturbare. Universa enim quæ præposuerat, ita sanctæ Scripturæ testimoniis atque sanctorum patrum corroboravit sententiis, ut contra hæc nil omnino respondere valerent; quin potius deposita pertinacia, rationi acquiescentes, universa libenter implenda susciperent. [FOTHADH'S ALLEGED PROFESSION TO ARCHBISHOP THOMAS OF YORK.] a The one shadow of pretence for York primacy over Scotland, was the provision of Gregory the Great in his letter to S. Augustin,—that after Augustin's death there should be two primates, respectively at London and at York, each with twelve suffragans,—coupled with his assignment of all the British Bishops, which would have been meant to include the whole island, Scotland and all, to the jurisdiction of Augustin, and so onwards, in their due shares, to his two successors that were to be. The compact above made is the first hint of the actual putting forward of such a claim. The absence of a metropolitan and of diocesan organization in Scotland at the time, rendered it more plausible and more feasible; especially when circumstances tended to sever Scotland from Irish influence and to lead it to look up to the Anglo-Norman Church. And the existence of the Saxon dioceses, that once included nearly all Scotland south of Forth and Clyde, with Trumwin's brief episcopate over Picts, and Wilfrid's claim (at Rome) to represent among others the Pictish Church,—helped to lend it some shred of apparently historical foundation.

STUBBS, Actt. Pontiff. Ebor.—Ad hunc Thomam<sup>a</sup> consilio et imperio Regis Scottorum Malcholmi et Reginæ Margaretæ venit Foderoch Episcopus Sancti Andree de Scotia, et transgressionem suam confitens, eo quod a Scottis ordinatus fuerat cum ab Eboracensi metropolitano jure consecrari debuerit, professionem ipsi Archiepiscopo Thomæ suisque successoribus fecit, scriptamque legit et tradidit, quæ sic incipit—Ego Foderoch Scottorum Episcopus in sede Sancti Andree Apostoli, &c. Ipse etiam Episcopus Federoch jubente eodem Archiepiscopo Thoma in Eboraco ecclesias dedicavit. [Twysd. 1709: also verbatim in Bodl. MS. Digby 140, a 13th century MS., but ending with Archbishop Thurstin, and therefore probably written originally in the early part of the 12th.]

<sup>a</sup> Thomas I., A.D. 1070–1100. Fothadh was Bishop A.D. 1059–1093. And Malcolm Canmore was King A.D. 1058–1093, and married Margaret probably A.D. 1070. Fothadh's alleged profession therefore falls necessarily between A.D. 1070 and 1093. But the compact of A.D. 1072 probably suggested, and preceded, any efforts of Archbishop Thomas to obtain rule over the Scottish Church. That Thomas did make such efforts seems implied in King Alexander's words to Ralph of Canterbury—that Lanfranc (the Canterbury claim being admitted by Alexander when he wrote the letter) “ad tempus Thomæ Eboraci Archiepiscopi illud relaxaverat.” And Fothadh may have been induced by Queen Margaret to make some kind of concession to York. But the authority for the story is, in this particular case, that of a partisan.

latter. Yet Scoti in the end of the 11th century, seems to indicate Scotland. See also Gregory's letter to the Brétons, of Aug. 28, A.D. 1074.

Cuthbert and Durham down to about A.D. 1100, as above, but nearly destroyed ("a solitude," see next note), and dependent upon Durham or the subordinate Coldingham Priory until King David obtained it, about A.D. 1126 x 1136, in exchange for Berwick (Charter in Raine's North Durban, Append.

<sup>c</sup> It looks as if this piece of discipline had been exercised by Turgot whilst he was Prior of Durham, and if so, A.D. 1088 x 1108: but since the Bishops of Glasgow claimed Teviotdale from about A.D. 1100, it was probably before that year. See above, pp. 12, 15.

1. A.D. 1073. Thomas I. Archbishop of York to Lanfranc Archbishop of Canterbury.

Send two of Piissimo et sanctissimo Cantuariorum Archiepiscopo, totius your suffragans quoque Britanniae summo pastori, Lanfranco, THOMAS, fidelis to assist me in consecrating a suus, et nisi præsumptuosum sanctitati suæ videatur, Bishop of the Orkneys at EBORACENSIS ECCLESÆ ARCHIEPISCOPUS, cœli portas Petri York, March 3. vice justis et injustis juste aperire et claudere. Ecce, pater sanctissime, filius tuus ad te clamat; sed magis, filia, Eboracensis videlicet Ecclesia, ad eam, cui dispositione Divina præsides, Eccle-siam, tanquam ad maternum recurrens sinum, pie postulat, ut ex abundantia maternarum deliciarum reparetur inopia suarum se deserentium, immo longe et inter barbaras nationes positarum virium.
 Siquidem venit ad nos quidam clericus, quem misit Paulus Comes cum literis sigillatis de Orchadum partibus, significans in eis Episco-patum suæ terræ eidem clero se concessisse. Ac ille antecessorum tuorum ordine custodito postulat a nobis Episcopum se consecrari.
 Cui, quod juste petit, injuste denegare non possumus. Precamur ergo, nobis duos Episcopos dirigat Paternitas vestra, quorum fulti orationibus et auxilio tantæ rei sacramentum canonice compleamus.
 Illa autem procul arceatur suspicio, quam nuperrime nobis noster frater et co-Episcopus subintulit Remigius, me scilicet in posterum quæsitorum Dorcacestrensis vel Wigornensis Episcopi hac de causa subjectionem: dico enim coram Deo me nunquam hoc facturum. Si placet igitur sanctitati vestræ, ut juxta petitionem nostram nobis facere dignemini, locum Eboracum, tempus 5 nonas Martias, nobis im-mutabiliter constituimus, et vobis significamus. Ergo vivas et valeas et spiritualibus incrementis usque quaque proficias. [W., I. 362, from MS. Cott. Vesp. E. IV. fol. 204 b.]

<sup>a</sup> The second of the letters here given is dated in MS. Cott. Vesp. E. 4 (used by Wilkins) as in A.D. 1073, Indict. XI., which would be the right induction, and in which year also the 3rd March, the day specified in the first of the letters, fell on a Sunday. The Addit. to the

A. S. C. give the "seventh year" of Lanfranc, which (the question relating to March 3) would be A.D. 1077; in which year March 3 was not a Sunday, and the induction would be wrong. Consequently Wilkins is probably right in dating the transaction in A.D. 1073.

[BISHOP OF THE ORKNEYS CONSECRATED AT YORK.]

2. A.D. 1073. Lanfranc Archbishop of Canterbury to Wulstan Bishop of Worcester and Peter Bishop of Chester.

LANFRANCUS GRATIA DEI SANCTÆ DOROBERNENSIS ECCLESIAE ARCHIEPISCOPUS, venerabilibus fratribus Wlstano Wigornensi et Petro Cestrensi Episcopis, salutem. Insinuavit nobis venerabilis frater noster Thomas, Eboracensis Orkneys.

Archiepiscopus, advenisse de Orchadum insulis ad se quendam clericum, quem in Episcopatum ipsius terræ, præcipiente et insinuante Paulo Comite, testatur esse electum. Et quia ex antiquo more sui juris est præfatarum insularum præsules consecrare, petit a me, ut mittam sibi de nostris suffraganeis duos, qui tantæ rei sacramentum cum eo valeant celebrare. Rogantes itaque præcipimus, et præcipientes rogamus, quatenus, omni excusatione summota, illuc eatis, ut ex nostro præcepto secum quod justum est in tanto rei mysterio compleatis. Non enim decet, ut qui sacrandus in hanc terram venit, et cum omni humilitate sacrari se postulat, inopia adjutorum a tanto regno non sacratus abscedat. Terminum hujus consecrationis lator vobis præsentium indicabit. Et ne forte solliciti sitis, putantes quod vel ipsi vel successores ejus hac occasione super Ecclesias vestras jus prælationis quandoque conentur arripere, literas quas ipse mihi transmisit, fraternitati vestræ, solicitudinem de futuro gerens, curavi transmittere. Quas, et has, quas vobis transmitto, in archivis Ecclesiarum vestrarum ob memoriam futurorum servatum iri præcipio.

II. 16); and probably there was a vacancy in A.D. 1073, inasmuch as this first Ralph was sent for consecration by the Orkney Earl himself, and the line of Northman diocesan Bishops does not begin until about A.D. 1102 (see below, p. 167).

CHRON. MANN.—Hi fuerunt Episcopi qui Episcopalem Cathedram in Mannia suscepserunt a tempore Godredi Crouan et aliquanto tempore ante. Multi quidem a tempore beati Patricii, qui primus fidem Catholicam prædicasse fertur Mannensibus, extiterunt Episcopi; sed ab ipso sufficit Episcoporum memoriam inchoasse. Sufficit, dicimus; quod qui vel quales ante ipsum Episcopi extiterunt, penitus ignoramus, quia nec scriptum invenimus nec certa relatione seniorum didicimus. Post Roolwer exstitit Willelmus Episcopus. Post Willelum in diebus Godredi Crouan Hamondus, &c. [pp. 28, 29, ed. Munch.]

<sup>a</sup> Godred's probable date is A.D. 1079–1095. And the Episcopates of Hrólfr and William probably take us back to the beginnings of Northman Christianity in Man and the Isles. The dates however are uncertain; since Wimund (Haimondus) was not consecrated before A.D. 1109 (see below under that year).

<sup>a</sup> This is regarded as doubtful by Mr. Hodgson Hinde (ad loc.), on the ground that Simeon does not mention it in his History of the Church of Durham. Malcolm's sons however were closely connected with Durham.

And his own English leanings make it probable that he himself was so as well. And the Chron. de Mailros, hardly however an independent witness, also (in an.) asserts the same fact.

<sup>a</sup> The Saxon nunnery that previously existed at Coldingham (Bæd. H. E., IV. 19, 25) had been destroyed by the Danes, and, like the Saxon Melrose, had ceased to exist. Other grants of King Edgar to Durham are given by Raine (ib.). Among the rest are the well-known two, which speak of the kingdom of Scotland, as well as of Lothian, as held of William of England by Edgar. The later in date of the two is commonly affirmed to be a forgery. And Raine's arguments for the earlier fail to establish any distinction in its favour, as compared with the other. The important words are—"Edgarus filius Malcolmni Regis Scottorum totam terram de Lodoneio et regnum Scotie dono domini mei Willelmi Anglo-rum Regis et paterna hereditate possidens, consilio predicti domini Regis W. et fidelium meorum," in the first of the two: and in the second, "Edgarus Dei gratia Rex Scottorum, &c., Sciatis nos ex licentia Willelmi Regis Anglie superioris domini regni Scotie." See also Anderson's Diplomatica Scotiæ. The Pref. to the National MSS. of Scotland, Part I. pp. xiii–xx., holds the former of the two to be genuine, but simply to admit that Edgar holds Lothian of the English crown; which certainly is not the true extent of the words as they stand.

A.D. 1097. SNORRO, in an.—Magnus Rex Norvegiæ<sup>a</sup> classem suam appulit ad insulam sanctam; ubi omnibus hominibus necnon omnium incolarum bonis pacem concessit et securitatem. Perhibent eum templum Columbæ minus aperuisse, ingressumque non esse Regem; sed obserata mox janua, edixisse ne quis adeo esset audax, ut in ædem istam sacram introiret: cui mandato postea obtemperatum fuit. [ap. Johnstone, Antiq. Celto-Scand. p. 252.]

<sup>a</sup> Hy would henceforth have been claimed as belonging to the see of Man and the Isles. While the Irish Columbite body would also still regard it as properly belonging to them. It ceased to be Norwegian, and became part of the dominion of Somerled, A.D. 1156 (Chron. Mann.). And in A.D. 1164 (see below under that year) Irish Church people are found again in connection with it. For upwards of half a century from A.D. 1097, with the exception of the obit of an abbat A.D. 1099, it is not mentioned in the Irish Annals (Reeves, Adamn., Add. Notes, p. 410).

[POPE PASchal II. DECLARES SCOTLAND SUBJECT TO THE SEE OF YORK.]

PASCHALIS EPISCOPUS SERVUS SERVORUM DEI, venerabilibus fratribus Eborac. Metropolis suffraganeis per Scotiam, salutem et Apostolicam benedictionem. Noscat dilectio vestra venerabilem fratrem nostrum Gerardum<sup>a</sup> Herefordensem quondam Episcopum in Eborac. metropolim per omnipotentis Dei gratiam nos promovisse; cui ex Apostolice sedis liberalitate palleum privilegiumque concessimus. Unde mandamus precipientes, ut ei deinceps tanquam vestro Archiepiscopo debitam obedientiam exhibeatis. [Reg. Alb. Ebor., P. I. fol. 50; and in Dugd., VI., P. III. p. 187, no. liv.]

<sup>a</sup> Translated to the see of York on the Epiphany, A.D. 1101. There had been no Bishop at S. Andrew's since A.D. 1093, when Fothadh II. died. Nor was there any diocesan Bishop at all in Scotland in A.D. 1101 (unless possibly in Dunkeld and Moray), although there may perhaps have been one in Glasgow.

But both Eadmer (see below, p. 171) and the Addit. ad A. S. C. (p. 387, ed. Thorpe) speak of "Scotorum Episcopi," in reference to York consecrations, respectively at A.D. 1108 and at A.D. 1079. And doubtless there were many Bishops there not diocesan.

The contemporary York Bishops, so long as they were continued, viz. the above-named Roger and the second Ralph (A.D. 1109 x 1114 to after 1144), were obviously not asked for, and not received, by the Earls and people of the Orkneys. Roger went there (see Anselm's letter to Haco, above given); Ralph II. apparently did not even do that.

referente Episcopo quem nunc per gratiam Dei habetis, didici quia prudentia vestra libenter suscipit verbum Dei, et consilium quod pertinet ad salutem. Hac igitur fiducia mitto strenuitati vestræ litteras monitionis meæ, quatenus se studiose committat prædicationi et doctrinæ ejusdem Episcopi; et quantum in vobis est studeatis ut populus vester hoc ipsum faciat. Nihil enim facere potestis unde magis remissionem peccatorum et vitæ æternæ gloriam adipisci valeatis, quam si populum vestrum ad cultum Christianæ religionis, monendo, et quibuscumque modis potestis, vobiscum attrahatis. Quod efficaciter, Deo dante, implere poteritis, si, quemadmodum supra dixi vobis, vos devota et sancta humilitate et pura voluntate Episcopo vestro subditis. Si vos consilio nostro et exhortationi, Deo inspirante, acquiescere volueritis, oro Deum omnipotentem, ut ipsa vos et totum populum vestrum Sua gratia dirigat et protegat, et Suam benedictionem et absolutionem et orationes humilitatis meæ ex corde vobis mando. Omnipotens Deus sic vos faciat vivere in hoc sæculo, ut in futuro jungamini beato angelorum consortio. Amen. [Epist. IV. 92: also, from MS. Cott. Claud. A. XI. 1576, in Stevenson's notes to the Scala Chronica, pp. 234, 235.]

<sup>a</sup> The Bishop on whose behalf this letter was sent, was almost certainly Roger, consecrated between A.D. 1101 and A.D. 1108. And as Anselm was in exile A.D. 1103-1106, and the letter was written shortly after Roger's consecration although after the receipt of letters from him from the Orkneys, the time before the exile seems a slightly more likely date for it than the time after. Haco died A.D. 1110 according to Johnstone's dates, Antiq. Celto-Scand.

A Bishop of the Orkneys in connection with York is mentioned by Eadmer (as quoted on p. 171) in reference to A.D. 1108 or 1109, but without naming him.

Scio quia celsitudo vestra meum amat et desiderat consilium. In primis igitur oro Deum ut Ipse vos Sancti Sui Spiritus gratia sic dirigat, et in omnibus actibus vestris consilium attribuat, ut ad regnum coeleste post hanc vitam vos perducat. Nostrum autem consilium est ut timorem Dei et bonos ac religiosos mores, quos in adolescentia et ab infantia cœpistis habere, Ipso adjuvante a Quo accepistis, studeatis tenere. Tunc enim bene Reges regnant cum secundum voluntatem Dei vivunt, et serviunt Ei in timore; et cum super seipso regnant, nec se vitiis subjiciunt, sed illorum importunitatem constanti fortitudine superant. Non enim repugnant in Rege virtutum constantia et fortitudo regia. Quidam enim Reges, sicut David, et sancte vixerunt, et populum sibi commissum cum rigore justitiae et pietatis mansuetudine, secundum quod res exigit, rexerunt. Sic vos exhibere ut mali vos timeant et boni vos diligent, et ut vita vestra semper Deo placeat, semper mens vestra vindictam malorum et præmium bonorum post hanc vitam memoria retineat. <sup>a</sup> Stubbs, the York chronicler of the 14th century, alleges that Turgot professed subjection to York, and this without mention of any reservation. His statement also is verbatim that of the Digby MS. 140, which could not have been composed much later than the time of Simeon himself. But it is the statement in both cases of a partizan of York, and can scarcely outweigh the more probable assertion of Simeon in the text.

<sup>b</sup> Simeon (Twysd. 207, 237) reckons Turgot's episcopate as lasting precisely 8 years 2 months and 10 days, and dates his death, twice over, in A.D. 1115. Consequently he must have been elected as early as at least the middle of A.D. 1107; which agrees with the year given by Simeon in the text. And King Alexander, writing to Ralph of Canterbury, dates his death Aug. 31: which, if assumed to be (as it clearly was) in A.D. 1115, gives June 20, A.D. 1107, for the precise day of his election.

<sup>c</sup> Aug. 1, A.D. 1109, was a Sunday: July 30 was not. The number "iii" is more likely to be miswritten than the day of the week. And probably the words "in kalendis" in Flor. Wig., have been changed by copyists or by a misprint into "iii kal." in Simeon. It stands "in kalendis" in Hoveden also (I. 167), and in the Cron. de Maitros.

III. EADMER, Hist. Nov. IV..—Inter hæc [A.D. 1108] electus est ab Alexandro Rege Scotiae et clero et populo monachus quidam Dunelmensis, nomine Turgodus, ad Episcopatum Sancti Andreæ de Scotia. Cujus consecratio dum ultra quam expediret demoraretur, tum propterea quia Thomas Eboracensis Ecclesiæ antistes electus neendum fuerat consecratus, tum propter quædam alia quæ longum est enarrare, Ranulfus Dunelmensis Episcopus proposuit eundem electum in præsentia ipsius Thomæ apud Eboracam consecrare, associatis sibi Episcopis Scotiae et Orcadarum insularum. Verum quia id præter consensum et auctoritatem Cantuariensis Episcopi rite fieri non posse sciebat, mandavit ei de negotio per militem quendam, et ut ejus consilio et concessione sacaretur, deprecatus est. Ad quæ scripsit ei epistolam hanc:

1. CELLACH, (before) A.D. 896–(before) A.D. 942 : Bishop in the time of King Cyric (Fordun, IV. 17), who died A.D. 896 ; “the Bishop,” as Constantine was “the King,” viz. of the Scots, at the Council of Scone A.D. 906 (Chron. Pict., Skene, 8) ; called “Bishop of Kilreymonth,” i. e. S. Andrew’s, by Fordun (as above), who wrongly puts Fothadh before instead of after him (“primus ut reperi,” speaking of Fothadh ; but the Pictish Chronicle making Cellach Bishop in A.D. 906, and the Ann. IV. Mag. dating Fothadh’s death A.D. 962, prove Wintoun right in reversing the order).

2. FOTHADH I., (before) A.D. 942–962 : “son of Bran, scribe and Bishop of the islands of Alba” (Ann. IV. Mag., in an. 961) ; received the isle of Lochleven by a “precarian” grant from the Keledei there, A.D. 942 (see above, p. 147) ; expelled eight years before his death by King Indulf, therefore A.D. 954 ; died A.D. 962 (Ann. IV. Mag.). The silver case for the Gospels preserved at S. Andrew’s was inscribed with a Latin couplet with his name as “Scottis summus Episcopus” (Legend. S. Andr. in Skene, 190, Fordun, &c.).

3. MAELBRIGID I. (Chron. Pict.), MALISIUS I. (Fordun, Wintoun), A.D. 962–970 ; a disciple of S. Duthac, according to Fordun (Suppl. VI. 24), who foretold that he would be “Episcopus Scottorum ;” Bishop eight years (Fordun, ib.) ; “Maelbrigid Episcopus pausavit, Cellach filius Ferdalaig regnavit,” in the reign of King Culen (killed A.D. 970), (Chron. Pict., Skene, 10).

4. CELLACH II., A.D. 970–995 ; “filius Ferd Lager, qui fuit primus qui adivit Roman pro confirmatione, et post confirmationem vixit XXV. annis” (Fordun, Suppl. VI. 24).

[CHIEF BISHOPS OF ALBAN, A.D. 896-1109.]

5. MAELMOR or MALMORE. A.D. 995-1025; the latter date being determined by the joint duration of the next two episcopates (of Alwyn and Malduin), viz. 30 years, together with the known date of Malduin's death, viz. A.D. 1055. Wintoun places Malisius II. before Maelmor. There is no evidence to determine which order is the correct one.
6. MALISIUS II., probably MAEL-BRIGID II. A.D. 1025-1028, Bishop three years (Fordun, Wintoun).
8. MALDUIN, A.D. 1028-1055: "son of Gilla-Odran, Bishop of Alban (Epscob Albain), giver of orders to the clergy" (Ann. Tigh., in an. 1055); Bishop 27 years (Wintoun); gave Markinch to the Keledei of Lochleven (Reg. Prior. S. Andr. 116); died A.D. 1055 (Ann. Tigh., in an.).
9. TUATHAL, TUTHALD (in Fordun), A.D. 1055-1059; Bishop four years (Fordun): gave Scoonie to the Keledei of Lochleven (Reg. Prior. S. Andr. 116).
10. FOTHADH II. (misdalled Foderoch, by Stubbs, Actt. Pontiff. Ebor., and Modach, in Reg. Prior. S. Andr. 117), A.D. 1059-1093: "Ardepscob Albain" (Ann. Ult., in an. 1093); "filius Malmykel" (Reg. Prior. S. Andr. 117); gave Auchterderran to the Keledei of Lochleven (ib.); alleged by Stubbs (as above) to have professed subjection and acted as suffragan, A.D. 1072 x 1093, to Thomas I. Archbishop of York; died A.D. 1093 (Ann. Ult., in an.). The last Celtic Primate.

[Interregnum, A.D. 1093-1109: filled by Fordun (Suppl. VI. 24) with the names of Gregorius, Cathre, Edmar, and Godric, who all "obierunt electi." Wintoun omits them. And the first and third look like a confusion with Gregory, who witnessed the Scone charter of A.D. 1115, and who was probably Bishop of Moray, and with Eadmer, respectively. Pope Paschal's letter of A.D. 1101 (see above) names no one.]

11. TURGOT, a Saxon by birth, and Prior of Durham, elected June 20, A.D. 1107, consecrated Aug. 1, A.D. 1109, at York, with reservation of the rights of either see, as "Bishop of S. Andrew's" (the delay being mainly due to disputes between the Archbishops of Canterbury and York), died A.D. 1115. See above, pp. 170-172.

APPENDIX B.

KELEDEI (vulgo "CULDEES") IN SCOTLAND, c. A.D. 800—c. A.D. 1150.

Keledei: what I. “Keledeus” = Servus Dei (according to the more probable they were. derivation), and at first merely an Irish appellation for a monk (Céle-dé), is first found as the name of a monk of a special and more strict rule, differing however in no way whatever from the doctrine or ordinary discipline of the then Church, at Tamhlacht near Dublin under S. Maelruain, ob. A.D. 792<sup>a</sup>. It occurs first, in Scotland, and in a like special sense, either at Dunkeld before A.D. 820, if Constantine were the founder of the Church there (other authorities name Kenneth and A.D. 849), or at Lochleven before A.D. 842 (see above, pp. 118, 147). It is applied to hermits in the latter of these two places, but at Dunkeld, S. Andrew’s, and Glasgow, to a conventional body (usually a prior<sup>b</sup> and twelve monks), but described in the last two cases as living in separate abodes: akin to the secular canons of Chrodegang of Metz cir. A.D. 757; regulated by the Council of Aix-la-Chapelle, A.D. 817.

Keledei in Scot- II. Keledei are found in Scotland, certainly, at the following land. places:—

i. At *Glasgow, according to Jocelin’s V. S. Kentegerni (see above, pp. 28, 29), but there is no evidence as to when they came there; and it is against all probability to suppose (as Jocelin does) that they were established by S. Kentegern himself. They had disappeared before David’s restoration of the bishopric in A.D. 1119. Henry of Silgrave (see below) speaks of Canonici Seculares there.

ii. At *Dunkeld, from its foundation, according to Dean Mylne (see below), i. e. from either before A.D. 820 or before A.D. 849 (A.D. 729 is an obvious error in Mylne, who wrote in the end of the 15th century, corrected by the name and date of the founder whom he names), according as we prefer the evidence of the Pictish Chronicle or of the Register of S. Andrew’s. King David A.D. 1127 established there a body of canons (Canonici Nigri or of S. Augustin) and a Bishop; but the Dunkeld Keledei, although no doubt displaced, survived for a considerable period, being mentioned in

[KELEDEI (CULDEES) IN SCOTLAND.]

Henry of Silgrave's catalogue A.D. 1272 (see Reeves. Culdees. 30), as co-existing there with Canonici Nigri.

iii. At Lochleven, where is the earliest certain record of them in Scotland, viz. A.D. 842 (see above, pp. 118, 147), which proves however that they must have been established in the island some time previously. The last record of them there under the name of Keledei is A.D. 1248, but David made them into Canons Secular A.D. 1144×1150.

iv. At **S. Andrew's*, first mentioned A.D. 943, when King Constantine became their (probably lay) abbat (see above, p. 148); but established there, not at its first foundation, but some time subsequently (see the Hist. Eccl. S. Andr. as quoted below), and therefore probably early in the 9th century: last mentioned A.D. 1332; co-existing there with Canonici Nigri from A.D. 1144, and so also Henry of Silgrave, but finally superseded by those Canons after a long struggle, which began in A.D. 1144.

v. At **Brechin*, founded by Kenneth son of Malcolm, A.D. 971×995 (see above, p. 149), and probably for Keledei (who were then still, so to say, the fashion in the matter of Scottish monastic foundations), inasmuch as King David, when establishing the episcopal see A.D. 1124×1130, found Keledei there, and left them in possession. They are last mentioned by name A.D. 1219×1222, and were supplanted by Dean and Canons before A.D. 1248. They are however in Henry of Silgrave's list A.D. 1272.

vi. At Abernethy, founded by King Nectan, but by which of the Kings so called is uncertain; Fordun and (in effect) Dean Mylne, however, fixing it to c. A.D. 600, but giving two slightly varying dates: the seat of the Pictish primacy for three episcopates prior to A.D. 849 (Fordun, IV. 12): first known as of Keledei, A.D. 1093×1107 (see Reeves. Culdees. 127, 128); and transferred to Canons A.D. 1272.

vii. At Hy, which is in Henry of Silgrave's list, but the solitary record of Keledei there dates A.D. 1164 (Ann. Ult.), and is of a subordinate section only of the ecclesiastics of the island.

viii. At Monymusk, on the Don, in Aberdeenshire; founded or (more probably) restored by Malcolm Canmore A.D. 1080, and affiliated to [the Keledei of] S. Andrew's: Keledei there A.D. 1170; still so called A.D. 1214×1234, but with an alternative of "Canones;" styled, absolutely, "Prior et Conventus Ordinis S. Augustini," A.D. 1245.

ix. At Muthill, not far from Dunblane in Perthshire: earliest record A.D. 1178, latest A.D. 1214.

x. At **Lismore*, in Argyllshire, an Irish foundation of S. Moluoc or Lughaidh, ob. A.D. 592; which became, c. A.D. 1200, the see of the new diocese of Argyll, taken out of that of Dunkeld. It is only known from Henry of Silgrave's list to have been Keledean, but there is no evidence as to how or when it became so; and a Dean and Canons were certainly there A.D. 1249, 1251.

xii. At **Dornoch*, in Sutherlandshire, the see of the diocese of Caithness, known to have been at some time or other Keledean from Henry of Silgrave's list, but Keledei had disappeared there either before or during Bishop Gilbert's episcopate c. A.D. 1222.

xiii. At **Dunblane*, in Perthshire, an old Irish foundation of probably Columbite times, S. Blaan's mother being said to have been daughter of King Aidan: known to have been Keledean at some time or other from Henry of Silgrave's list only.

xiii. At **Rosemarkie*, in Ross-shire; also an old Irish foundation, viz. of S. Boniface (see above, pp. 116, 140), but of later date than Dunblane: known likewise to have been Keledean at some time or other from Henry of Silgrave's list. It had ceased to be so A.D. 1224, but whether from the time of King David's foundation of a bishopric there, no evidence exists to show.

xiv. At Monifieth, in Forfarshire, where Keledei are once mentioned, viz. in A.D. 1242, but as having existed in the previous generation.

Keledei are also said to have existed at Scone (so Buchanan), Montrose, Abirlot, Dull, Ecclesgirg, and elsewhere in Scotland, but there is no evidence of records to the fact, however probable it may be in itself. No doubt many Keledean institutions existed, of which no record happens to have been preserved.

It follows from the facts thus stated, that the original Irish monastic institutions introduced into Scotland, whether by S. Columba or by other fellow-workers of that time, were not Keledean<sup>c</sup>;—that Keledean institutions began there about A.D. 800, as either new foundations, or in the lapse of years engrafted on older ones;—that these foundations followed a like course of deterioration with the similar Irish, and with the Celtic Welsh, monasteries;—that partly by their own decadence, but perhaps more through English ecclesiastical influence (which began with Malcolm and Margaret, and culminated under King David), they, with the other monasteries of an Irish type, were either transformed, or destroyed, by a revolution beginning about the middle of the 12th century, being principally converted into the monastic order nearest akin to them, viz. Augustinian canons;—and that by the middle of the 14th century they had disappeared altogether, even in name.

It will be seen likewise by this list, and by the names in it marked by an asterisk, that (even omitting Glasgow, where the Keledei, if they ever existed, had wholly disappeared, possibly in the general wreck of Church institutions there, prior to King David's earldom of Cumbria) all the Bishoprics, founded or established by King David, except only Moray and Aberdeen,—and, in addition, the later Bishopric of Lismore or Argyll,—were created out of Keledean foundations; and, further, that in each such case, except only (for a time) Brechin,—and again with the addition of the other non-episcopal Keledean institutions,—Keledei were superseded, after more or less of a struggle, by (usually) Canons. It is easy therefore to perceive how such a transformation of abbatial jurisdictions into a regular system of diocesan episcopacy, and this under the (eventual) primacy of S. Andrew's, could be naturally, although not accurately, described by a Durham chronicler of a later period, as follows:—“Anno ab Incarnatione Domini MCVIII, ..... electus fuit Turgotus Prior Dunelmensis in Episcopum Sancti Andreæ, &c. In diebus illis totum jus Keledeorum per totum regnum Scotiæ transivit in Episcopatum Sancti Andreæ<sup>d</sup>. ” It is to be added also, that the change then effected was also a change from old Celtic foundations to new ones of the Anglo-Norman type, together with a large influx of English monks: analogous to the contemporaneous change which transformed or destroyed the older British monasteries in Wales.

[KELEDEI (CULDEES) IN SCOTLAND.]

<sup>c</sup> A list of Celtic Scottish monasteries, in part Keledean, in part merely (so to say) Irish, will be found in Mr. Joseph Robertson's article on Scottish Abbeys and Caibedrals, Quarterly Review, LXXXV.; and a brief list from it in Grub, I. 243.

What Keledei became. III. Special asceticism was the original character of the Keledean rule. Special laxity, after the natural course of monastic orders, and in this case no doubt coloured more highly by national and ecclesiastical antipathies, became their character by the 12th century. But the particular Keledean laxity appears to have been, that, precisely like their Irish and Welsh congeners, they gradually lapsed into something like impro priators (to use the modern term), married, and transmitting their Church endowments as if they had been their own to their children, but retaining, at any rate in most cases, their clerical office; although the abbats, as e. g. at Dunkeld and Abernethy, became in some cases mere lay lords of the Church lands thus misappropriated, leaving a prior to be the spiritual superior. The councils under Queen Margaret (see above, pp. 156–158) may serve to indicate the extent and character of their divergence, in common with the rest of the Scottish Church, from the then approved English type. It is needless, after Dr. Reeves's exhaustive essay, to notice the groundless theories which in modern times polemics and ignorance combined have invented respecting them. The following accounts, drawn up however (as Dr. Reeves rightly reminds the reader) by opponents, the first of them in the middle of the 12th century, the second in the end of the 15th, will serve to show what they became before their downfall. And the list which follows supplies the evidence for the existence of many of them.

HIST. ECCLES. S. ANDR.—Sublatis vero a presenti vita Sanctis quorum supra mentionem fecimus, qui cum reliquiis beati Apostoli advenerant [sc. Regulus and his companions], et eorum discipulis atque imitatoribus, cultus ibi [in regia urbe Rymont] religiosus deperierat, sicut et gens barbara et inulta fuerat. Habantur tamen in ecclesia Sancti Andreæ, quota et quanta tunc erat, tredecim<sup>a</sup> per successionem carnalem, quos Keledeos appellant, qui secundam [sic] suam aestimationem et hominum traditionem magis quam secundum sanctorum statuta patrum vivebant. Sed et adhuc similiter vivunt, et quædam habent communia, pauciora scilicet et deteriora, quædam vero propria, plura scilicet et potiora; prout quisque ab amicis suis aliqua necessitudine ad se pertinentibus, videlicet consanguineis et affinibus, vel ab iis quorum animæ charæ<sup>b</sup> sunt (quod est animarum amici), sive aliis quibus libet modis, poterit quis adipisci. Postquam Keledei effecti sunt, non licet eis habere uxores suas in domibus suis<sup>c</sup>, sed nec alias de quibus mala oriatur suspicio mulieres. Personæ nihilominus septem<sup>d</sup> fuerunt oblationes altaris inter se dividentes, quarum septem portionum unam tantum habebat Episcopus, et Hospitale unam; quinque vero reliquæ in quinque cæteros dividebantur, qui nullo<sup>e</sup> omnino altari vel ecclesiæ impendebant servitium, præterquam peregrinus [sic] et hospites, cum plures quam sex adventarunt, more suo hospitio suscipiebant, sortem mittentes quis quos vel quot reciperet. Hospitale sane semper sex et infra suscipiebat. Sex [leg. sed] quod nunc, donante Deo, postquam in manum Canonorum devenit, omnes suscepit eo advenientes. Personæ autem supra memoratae redditus et possessiones proprias habebant, quas, cum e vitæ [sic] decederent, uxores eorum, quas publice tenebant, filii quoque vel filiæ, propinquai vel generi, inter se dividebant: nihilominus<sup>f</sup> altaris oblationes cui non deserviebant: quod puduisse dicere, si non libuisse eis facere. Nec potuit tantum auferri malum usque ad tempus fœlicis memoriæ Regis Alexandri, sanctæ Dei Ecclesiæ specialis amatoris, qui et Ecclesiam beati Andreæ Apostoli possessionibus et redditibus ampliavit, multisque et magnis munericibus cumulavit, libertatibus et consuetudinibus quæ sui regij muneric erant, cum regali possessione donavit. Terram etiam quæ Cursus Apri<sup>g</sup> dicitur, quam, cum allatae fuissent reliquiae beati Andreæ Apostoli, Rex Hungus, cuius supra mentionem fecimus, Deo et sancto Apostolo Andreæ dederat, et postea ablata fuerat, ex integro instituit, eo nimurum obtentu et conditione ut in ipsa Ecclesia constitueretur religio ad Deo deserviendum. Non enim erat qui beati Apostoli altari deserviret, nec ibi missa celebrabatur nisi cum Rex vel Episcopus illo advenerat, quod raro contingebat. Keledei namque in angulo quodam ecclesiæ, quæ modica nimis erat, suum officium more suo<sup>h</sup> celebrabant. Cujus donationis regiæ testes multi sunt superstites. Quam donationem et Comes David frater ejus concessit, quem Rex heredem destinaverat, et in regno successorem, sicut est hodie. [Regist. Prior. S. laymen; the Keledei discharging the offices of the Church, and being as it were vicars to the seven (or rather five) as rectors. The revenues of the seven persons were it appears transferred, bit by bit, to the new body of Canons established by Bishop Robert in the time of King David.

<sup>a</sup> Printed also in Stevenson's notes to the Scalacronica, pp. 241, 242. See an account of it in Reeves, Culdees, p. 32. It is given here as supplying the only evidence to the Keledean character of several of the institutions mentioned in it. But it seems to refer to "a state of things anterior to its own date" (Reeves); it is obviously very incomplete, even as a list of foundations of what may be called King David's era; and, except in the case of Bishoprics, it omits all mention of monasteries of Irish date and type, as e.g. Deer and Turriff. There seem also to be mistakes in it. E.g. in respect to Roxburgh, where was a Franciscan monastery from about A.D. 1235; and Jedburgh, which belonged to Augustinian Canons; and Perth, where was a Dominican monastery, founded A.D. 1231, but no nunnery. See Spotswood (Religious Houses, &c.). The founders' names, and the dates, have been added in [ ]. All of them, with one exception, and setting aside the three cases which appear to be errors, fall within the period between Malcolm Canmore and William the Lion, A.D. 1070-1178.

<sup>b</sup> The S. is followed, here and throughout, by an unintelligible mark of abbreviation. The writer evidently intended to add, but in most cases did not know, the name of the Saint to whom each monastery was dedicated.

SEPULCHRAL CHRISTIAN INSCRIPTIONS IN THE ISLE OF MAN.

Christian inscriptions in the Isle of Man are wholly Runic and of Norwegian date and origin, although abounding, says Professor Munch, in "grammatical errors," which arise no doubt from a strong admixture of Celtic elements, while "perhaps one half of the names occurring in them" are not Norwegian but Gaelic.

The following list is from Professor Munch's notes to his edition of the Chron. Manniae (Christiania, 1860, pp. xx-xxiv.); the first two, marked A, being of a different character, and "perhaps even of a different period," from those marked B. The transliteration, and the translation, are those of Professor Munch, aided by Messrs. Cumming and Worsaae.

PERIOD THE FOURTH.

YORK CLAIM OF SUPREMACY OVER THE SCOTTISH CHURCH: AND FORMATION OF THE SCOTTISH DIOCESES. A.D. 1109-1188.

[A.D. 1109-1115. Failure, retirement, and death, of Turgot, the first English Bishop of S. Andrew's, consecrated at York.

Before A.D. 1115. Foundation of sees of Moray and Dunkeld.

A.D. 1115. Augustinian Canons at Scone.

A.D. 1119-1126. Thurstin Archbishop of York renews the claim to the metropolitanship of Scotland.

A.D. 1120-1122. Failure and retirement of Eadmer, sent from Canterbury to be Bishop of S. Andrew's.

A.D. 1124-1153. Foundation of the sees of Brechin and Dunblane. Period of the superseding of the Scottish (or Irish) monastic rules by the introduction of the various monastic orders of the Western Church.

A.D. 1125. Legatine Council of Roxburgh under John of Crema. See of Aberdeen probably founded.

A.D. 1128. Consecration of Robert an Englishman to the see of S. Andrew's, at York, but with all rights reserved.

A.D. 1138. Legatine Council at Carlisle.

A.D. 1144. Commencement of the gradual suppression of Keledei, chiefly by converting them into Augustinian Canons.

A.D. 1154. Bull of Anastasius IV., subjecting the sees of the Nordreys and Sudreys (i.e. of the Orkneys, and of Man and the Isles) to Trondhjem, as against both Bremen and York.

A.D. 1155. Claim of York over Scotland still maintained by Pope Adrian IV.

A.D. 1156. Hy again Irish, yet still claimed apparently by the see of Man (as, afterwards, by that of Argyll).

A.D. 1174. December, Treaty of Falaise.

A.D. 1175. Bulls of Pope Alexander III.; and Aug. 17, Conference at York.

A.D. 1176. Jan. 25. Council of Northampton. The Legate Vivian's Council of Edinburgh.

A.D. 1178-1188. Disputed election to the see of S. Andrew's.

A.D. 1188. March 13. Bull of Clement III. declaring the Scottish sees dependent on no one, save immediately upon the Apostolic See.]

Unde, accepta licentia remorandi ad tempus Dunelmi propter infirmitatem, vigilia Apostolorum Petri et Pauli venit ad Weremutham, ubi quondam ab Aldwino habitum monachi suscepérat; ubi mane ut poterat Missa celebrata, ad sanctum Cuthbertum proficisciuit, ibique in lectum decidens, modo lentis modo nimiis præparatur febris ad exitum, et hoc per duos menses et quatuor dies. <sup>a</sup> Godred Crovan's dates are A.D. 1079 (?)—1095. The chronology therefore of the Manuscript Chronicle, which is generally inexact, must be corrected by the statement of the York writer represented by Stubbs. For Wymund Mac Aulay's later and very curious history, see Gul. Neubrig., I. 14, and Matt. Paris. He was a Cistercian of Savigny, from which abbey Furness was founded A.D. 1126; and deserted his see

(to become a pretender to the Scottish crown) A.D. 1130 x 1139, if the letters of King Olaf given below, recommending Nicolas of Furness to (apparently) Archbishop Thurstin, are rightly referred to the time of that Archbishop. The Earl of Murray, whose son Wynnum claimed to be, was killed A.D. 1130. "Schid" = Skye, of which island Wymund was a presbyter.

<sup>a</sup> Radulfus Novellus (Ralph Nowel) was at York at the consecration of Robert of S. Andrew's A.D. 1128; was sent by Archbishop Thurstin as his "suffragan" to the army that fought the battle of the Standard A.D. 1138, and made a stirring harangue on the eve of the battle (Jo. Hagulst., Ric. Hagulst., Ailr. Rieval. De Bello Standardii, H. Hunt., Hoveden, Brompton, &c.) A.D. 1143 (in Sim. Dun. it is 1144), with the abbats of

S. Mary's at York, and of Whitby, he represented the Bishop of Durham at the council of Winchester which assented to the election of William Fitzherbert to the see of York (Sim. Dun., Hist. Contin. in an. 1144, Twysd. 273). There is no evidence that he ever actually went to the Orkneys. See the letters of Calixtus II. A.D. 1119–1124, and Honorius II. A.D. 1125, below.

<sup>a</sup> The foundation charter of Scone Abbey is witnessed by "Gregorius Episcopus," and "Cormac Episcopus," and by no other Bishops, S. Andrew's being then vacant. A grant of Alexander to Scone, A.D. 1124, is attested by Robert "elect of S. Andrew's" (elected A.D. 1124, in which year also King Alexander died) and by Gregory and Cormac, but Gregory is here designated "Episcopus de Moravia." And King David's charter to Dunfermline (A.D. 1128) is witnessed by Robert of S. Andrew's, John of Glasgow, Cormac Bishop of Dunkeld, Gregory of Moray, and Macbeth of Ross. See Lib. de Scon. pp. 3, 4; Lib. de Dumfermlyn. pp. 3, 4. It seems to follow that the sees of the great northern Mormaerdom of Moray, and of the great lay and hereditary abbey of Dunkeld, existed before A.D. 1115. Dean Mylne dates the foundation of Dunkeld A.D. 1127, and attributes it to King David (see above, p. 181).

from the English monastery of S. Oswald's near Pontefract. The foundation charter is in

[ALEXANDER KING OF THE SCOTS TO RALPH ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY.]

Lib. de Scon, pp. 3, 4. That the church belonged to Keledei previously, is asserted by Buchanan, and is not improbable. But so far as the evidence goes, the transfer might well have been from clergy who were simply Scottish and Columbite, and not Keledei at all: as in the parallel case of Dunfermline, transferred probably by David from simply Scottish monks to Benedictines.

Help us to a EADMER, Hist. Nov. V. — Domino et Patri charissimo successor to Radulfo, venerabili Cantuariensi Archiepiscopo, ALEXANDER, Turgot of S. DEI MISERICORDIA REX SCOTORUM, salutem et devotæ the Pope or fidelitatis obsequium. Notificamus vobis, benignissime the Archbishops of Canterbury pater, quod Episcopus Ecclesiæ Sancti Andreae Apostoli, have always dominus videlicet Turgodus, II. Kal. Septembbris migravit consecrated the Bishops of that a seculo. Unde valde contristamur tanto solatio destituta.<sup>a</sup>

Requirimus ergo vestræ [paternitatis] consilium et auxilium, sicut confidimus in vobis, ut secundum Deum tam substi- tuere valeamus, qui nos et gentem nostram per Deo placitam conver- sationem regere et docere utiliter sciatur. Petimus etiam, ut recordari dignemini, quid vobis jam quadam vice suggestimus de Episcopis Ecclesiæ Sancti Andreæ; quod in antiquis temporibus non solebant consecrari nisi ab ipso Romano pontifice, vel ab Archiepiscopo Can- tuariensi; hocque tenuimus, et per successiones temporum ex auctoritate ratum habuimus, quoisque dominus Lanfrancus Archiepiscopus, nescimus quo pacto, absentibus nobis et nostris, Thomæ Eboraci Archiepiscopo illud ad tempus relaxaverat. Quod omnino, vestra, si placet, auctoritate suffulti, ut amplius sic remaneat, non concedimus. Nunc igitur, si ad id nobis nostræque Ecclesiæ reparandum vestrum adjutorium sperare debemus, quod humillimis votis desideramus et petimus, secreto nobis certitudinem dignis vestris apicibus remandare curate. Valete. [ed. Selden, p. 117; W., I. 393.]

<sup>a</sup> The value of such historical statements, probably put into the mouth of the King by a clerical scribe, may be tested by this asser- tion; which, it need hardly be said, is literally and wholly the reverse of the facts; and, further, the very reverse of Alexander's own statements to Eadmer five years afterwards. According to Simeon, Turgot died "II. kal. Aprilis." But this was a Wednesday in A.D. 1115; the "II. kal. Sept." was a Tuesday; and Simeon himself specifies that Turgot died "feria tertia." See Wharton, Ang. Sac. I. 786.

Nicena*] diffinierit, ex quarto ejus capitulo diligenter attendite. Ait enim, Episcopum convenit maxime quidem ab omnibus qui sunt Episcopis ordinari; si autem hoc difficile fuerit aut propter instantem necessitatem aut propter itineris longitudinem, tribus tamen omnimodis in id ipsum convenientibus, absentibus quoque pari modo decernentibus et per scripta consentientibus, tunc ordinatio celebretur. Firmitas autem eorum quæ geruntur per unamquamque provinciam, metropolitano tributatur Episcopo. Et infra, capitulo sexto, illud generaliter clarum est, quod si quis [contra] metropolitani sententiam fuerit factus Episcopus, hunc magna synodus definitivit Episcopum esse non oportere. Et Laodi[c]ensis concilii capitulo,—[Metropolitani sententia], et eorum Episcoporum qui circumcirca sunt, provehantur ad ecclesiasticam potestatem. Item in secundi Cartaginensis Concilii capitulo XXXVIII,—Forma antiqua servabitur, ut non minus quam tres sufficient, qui fuerint a metropolitano destinati ad Episcopum ordinandum. Item Anicius papa, universis Episcopis Galliarum scribens, dicit, Comprovinciales Episcopi, si necesse fuerit, a tribus jussu Archiepiscopi consecrari possunt. Et Innocentius, Victorio Roth[om]agensi Episcopo,—Extra conscientiam metropolitani Episcopi nullus ordinare præsumat Episcopum, ne fuitivum beneficium præstitum videatur. Porro fraternitati vestrae præcipiendo mandamus, ut venerabili fratri nostro Turstino per Dei gratiam tanquam beati Petri manibus in Eboracensem Archiepiscopum consecrato, omni occasione seposita, canonicam obedientiam deferas; sicut temporibus Gerardi ejusdem Ecclesiae Archiepiscopi a domino prædecessore sanctæ memorie Paschale Papa mandatum est. quibus Scotis prætereundum non est, quia juxta decretum beati patris Gregorii suffraganei erant Cantuariensis Archiepiscopi. In illa namque sæpedicta epistola<sup>b</sup>, postquam de distinctione Lundoniensis et Eboracensis Episcopi, unde movetur tanta contentio, satis actum est, beatus Gregorius ad Augustinum ita subjungit dicens, “Tua vero fraternitas non solum eos Episcopos quos ordinaverit, neque hos tantummodo qui per Eboracæ Episcopum fuerint ordinati, sed etiam omnes Britanniæ sacerdotes, habeat, Deo Domino nostro Jesu Christo auctore, subjectos.” Et idem in Responcionibus<sup>c</sup> ad eundem ita, “In Galliarum Episcopis nullam tibi auctoritatem tribuimus, Britanniarum vero omnes Episcopos tuæ fraternitati committimus, ut indocti doceantur, infirmi persuasione roborentur, perversi auctoritate corrigantur.” Britanniæ siquidem pluraliter appellat, propter diversas ejusdem insulæ provincias et linguarum divisiones. Beda namque, cum Britanniæ qualitatem describeret<sup>d</sup>, “Hæc,” inquit, “insula in præsenti, juxta numerum librorum quibus Lex Divina scripta est, quinque gentium linguis unam eandemque summæ veritatis et veræ sublimitatis scientiam scrutatur et confitetur, Anglorum videlicet, Britonum, Scotorum, Pictorum, et Latinorum, quæ meditatione Scripturarum cæteris omnibus est facta communis.” Idem in tertio ejusdem Historiæ libro<sup>e</sup>, “Denique,” inquit, “omnes nationes et provincias Britanniæ, quæ in quatuor linguas, id est, Britonum, Pictorum, Scotorum, et Anglorum, divisæ sunt, in ditionem Oswaldus accepit.” Et sæpenumero idem in eodem volumine evidenter distinguit inter Scotos qui Britanniam, et illos qui incolunt Hiberniam. Episcopos igitur Scottiæ beatus Gregorius suffraganeos deputavit Cantuariensis Ecclesiæ: illos sane duntaxat illa Apostolicæ sedis auctoritate decernens, qui ante beati Augustini adventum in Angliam et olim conversis Britonibus et Scottis instituebantur antistites; de quibus, ut ibi legitur, plurimis Augustinus in exordio Episcopatus sui convocavit ad colloquium suum, fraterna admonitione suadens, &c. &c. * * * Et de Laurentio successore Augustini Beda ita subsequitur dicens<sup>f</sup>, “Denique,” inquit, “non solum novæ quæ de Anglis erat collecta Ecclesiæ curam gerebat, sed et veterum Britanniæ incolarum, necnon et Scotorum qui Hiberniam insulam Britanniæ proximam incolunt, populis pastoralem impendere solitudinem curabat.” Quam videlicet pastoralis curæ soliditudinem nunquam postea Cantuariensis Ecclesia tam universæ Britanniæ quam Hiberniæ beneficio simul et primatu impendere cessavit; nisi modo, quando a novis et omnium veterum acutissimis

<sup>a</sup> This lengthy letter, written apparently a short time after Thurstan's consecration, belongs as a whole to the Church of England in relation to the dispute between Canterbury and York. The extracts here given, which incidentally assert the claim of Canterbury over Scotland, rest it entirely upon that which was indeed its sole pretence, viz. on Gregory the Great's grant to S. Augustin, and upon the assertion that "Britannæ" includes Scotland and Ireland. Eadmer (Hist. Nov., V.) in his disputes with Alexander of Scotland alleges the same ground (so to call it).

Andrew's A.D. 1117. Possibly negotiations may have been going on before A.D. 1120. But Eadmer (as above) takes pains to note, that "nec per se nec per quemlibet hominem unquam de ipso negotio aliquo modo apud quemquam egisse." Ralph had been abroad since just after August A.D. 1116.

Eadmer is sent according to your request. EADMER, Hist. Nov. V.—Caro domino et amico intimo Alexandro, Dei gratia Regi Scotorum, RADULPHUS ARCHIEPISCOPUS, salutem et orationes. Gratias Deo innumerabiles referimus, Qui ad cognoscendum atque petendum quæ debebatis, remotis nebulis, mentis vestræ oculos aperuit.

Gratias nihilominus generalitati vestræ, qui petitionibus vestris legitimis nos vobis ex amicis amicissimos, ex familiaribus familiarissimos et junctissimos, reddidistis. Licet enim ipsis petitionibus quasi oculum aut dexteram a corpore nostro avellere queratis, laudare tamen habeo justum desiderium vestrum, et in quantum potero, secundum Deum illi obtemperare. Volens quidem, et si pace Dei et vestra potest dici, invitus assentior bonæ vestræ voluntati: volens vero, quia Dei voluntati, Quem in hoc facto præsentem atque propitium conspicio, resistere non audeo, nec cor vestrum in nos amari care; invitus autem, quod quasi solus, et patris consolatione ac relevatione assidua, et filii sapientis consilio et auxilio, in infirmitate nostra ac ætate destituo. O sapientis viri consilium (si nos eo non spoliaretis et cum spoliaretis), qui tantum virum, tam famosum, tam Ecclesiæ Dei utilem, vita et moribus et litteris Divinis, et, si opus fuerit, secularibus a pueritia instructum, terræ vestræ consilio præesse in his, quæ ad Deum pertinent, satagatis. Si alius ex partibus longinquis quod petitis peteret, pro certo sciatis, non paterer elongari a nobis cordis nostri arcanum; sed vobis nihil est secundum Deum, quod abnuere velimus. EADMER, Hist. Nov. V.—Veniens itaque frater ipse (Eadmerus) in Scotiam, mox tertio die adventus sui, illo qui fuit dies festivitatis gloriosissimorum Apostolorum Petri et Pauli, suscepit, eligente eam clero et populo terræ, et concedente Rege, pontificatum Sancti Andreæ Apostoli Chenrimuntensis. Quæ res ita disponente Deo acta est, ut nec virga pastorali vel annulo a Rege investitus fuerit, nec hominum ei fecerit. Lætus itaque dies habitus est, atque in laudem Dei alacriter expensus. In crastino autem Rex, cum electo de consecratione illius secretius agens, et modis omnibus eum a pontifice Eboracensi consecrari exhorrens, ubi, eo docente, accepit auctoritatem Ecclesiae Cantuariensis ex antiquo toti Britanniae præminere, et idcirco ipso disponente se Cantuariæ Episcopalem benedictionem velle requirere, conturbatus animo surgens discessit ad eo. Nolebat enim Ecclesiam Cantuariensem anteferri Ecclesiae Sancti Andreæ de Scotia. Vocans itaque Wilhelmmum monachum Sancti Edmundi, qui post Thurgodum eidem Episcopatu præpositus pene illum evacuaverat, præcepit ut more solito in Episcopatu se haberet, expoliato noviter investito. Expleto autem post hæc mense integro, et his quæ supererant jam terris Episcopatus funditus evacuatis, pro voto principum regni Rex Alexander ipsum electum convenit, vixque ab eo obtinuit, ut quod super inimicos suos exercitum ducere

EADMER, Hist. Nov. V.—ALEXANDER, DEI GRATIA REX SCOTORUM, Radulpho Archiepiscopo Cantuariensi, in Ipso, Qui vita est, semper vivere. Immensæ bonitati vestræ petitioni meæ condescendentि, personam in præsulatu Sancti Andreæ sublimandam mihi mittendo, animi mei affectus benevolens, et ut justum est obnoxius, innumerales gratias reddit. Sed persona in episcopatu posita, consuetudinibus terræ moribusque hominum, ut res et tempus exigebat, et ut justum et necessarium esset, condescendere noluit. Ipsa vero tandem persona in præsentia quorundam Episcoporum et Comitum proborumque terræ meæ virorum me requisivit, ut ei licentiam recedendi et de fidelitate quam mihi fecerat libertatem concederem, cum nullo modo remanere vellet, nisi cum in captione detinerem. Hæc audiens, ei his verbis respondi, quod, si aliquas dictis vel factis injurias ei a me illatas, et quod in aliquibus quæ ei facere debuissem me defecisse, demonstraret, pro Dei amore et meo honore libentissime præsto essem emendare. Ad hæc in præsentia omnium astantium dixit, quod nullas dictis aut factis ei injurias injeceram, nec unquam in aliqua re quam ei facere debuissem defeceram. Præterea egomet et Episcopi et consules aliquique terræ meæ probi homines ibi astantes, reverentiæ obedientiam, in quibusunque justum esset, magna animi benignitate obtulimus; et pro penuria honestæ exhibitionis reverentiæ non esse necesse ei præsulatum relinquere, cum magna admonitione retulimus; ut etiam remaneret, donec Regi Angliae et vobis nunciasset, ut amborum consilio frui possem, obnixe rogavimus. His auditis, mihi respondit, quod nullo modo remaneret, nisi eum in captione detinerem; se enim nec utilem nec idoneum in præsulatus regimine sciebat, et si remaneret, detrimentum animæ suæ et aliorum imminere videbat. Communi tandem consilio nolui eum vi retinere; petitioni suæ quamvis invitus adquievi; et Episcopatum reddidit, et fœdus amicitiæ inter me et ipsum osculo confirmavit. Et hæc est rei veritas, quam literis vobis declarare volui, ne, si aliud ad aures vestras perveniret, crederetis. Sciat denique bonitas vestra, quod vobis penitus ut amicus fidelis obnoxius esse cupio, et consilio vestro, vestræ etiam dilectioni, subdi desidero. Ut domino Eadmero honorem exhibeas, obnixe postulo. Vale. [ed. Selden, p. 134; W., I. 395, 396.]

* For the history of the quarrel, see Eadmer himself (ib.). It was briefly as follows. Upon Eadmer's wish to go to Canterbury, Alexander informed him that he was "penitus absolutum ab Ecclesia Cantuariensi, . . . seque in vita sua consensum non præbiturum ut Episcopus Scotiae subderetur Pontifici Cantuariorum;" repeating the same thing still more strongly upon a repetition of the request. Eadmer thereupon consulted John Bishop of Glasgow and two Canterbury monks of his own company, who, professedly as their own counsel, but really after consultation with Alexander, advised him that he must either make up his mind to adopt the "usus Scotorum," or give up altogether; and that if he chose the latter, he must return the ring which it appears he had really received from the king, and the pastoral staff which he had taken from the altar. He preferred the second of the two courses,—returned the ring to Alexander and the staff to the altar,—declared that he acquiesced in resigning the entire bishopric, "quia vis mihi infertur," and "ea conditione ut eum tempore Alexandri Regis non reclamen, nisi Pontifex [i.e. Ralph of Canterbury] et conventus Cantuariorum et Rex Anglorum aliud mihi super his consilium dederint;"—and returned to Canterbury.

Cumque secretius postea inter nos sermo versaretur, audivimus eum aliqua a sensu literarum vestrarum, quas prius audieramus, diversa sentire, nec omnibus antea auditis ex toto assensum præbere. Nunc itaque, quoniam in scriptis vestris aliud legimus, et aliud ab ipso fratre percepimus, consilio nobis est, ut eundem filium nostrum apud nos retineamus, quoisque, Domino ducente, in Angliam veniatis; nisi forte aliquid aliud, quod nobis faciendum sit, antea mandaveritis. Cum autem, Deo donante, vobis præsentialiter loqui et rerum causas hinc inde audire poterimus, si vita et doctrina hujus amici nostri vobis et patriæ vestræ utilis esse videtur, injuncta sibi obedientia ad electionis suæ locum, si cum suspicere vultis, redire poterit. Si vero in conspectu vestro aliud placitum fuerit, nos eum, ut virum in lege Domini multiplicitate instructum et omni bono operi aptum, cum magno gaudio retinebimus; et sic spem bonam in misericordia Dei habentes, ejus redditum fructuosum habebimus. indomita alicujus gentis his officiis emollita ad moralitatem flectitur civilem; cum et ferocissimæ rationisque expertes feræ alimoniis humanisque attractibus delinitæ mansuescunt in tantum, ut hominum magis quam consodalium affectent belluarum societatem. Quapropter, ut amicus de amico sollicitus, suggero, suadeo, admoneo te ut carissimum, quatinus supra vires etiam tuas dapsilitate et munerum largitate affectum omnium tibi comparare studeas; quia talibus officiis quam maxime effera corda gentisque indomitæ barbariem ad tui amorem et sanam doctrinam ecclesiasticamque disciplinam suscipiendam emollire prævales. De his jam satis.

emplum patet, quod hoc astruat. Quippe cum Eboracensis Ecclesia fidem et doctrinam Christianitatis, necnon et Pontificum consecrationem, a Scottis sæpen numero mutuaverit; Scotti vero ab ipsa nunquam, præter quod in Thurgodum actum est. Nam postquam Eboracenses, a fide apostatantes, primum Pontificem suum Paulinum a Cantia eis ordinatum expulerunt; Sanctus Aidanus, Scottus et a Scottis destinatus et ordinatus, fidem Christi fideique sacramenta toti Northimbriæ strenuus invexit. Deinde ejus successores Eboracensis Ecclesiæ præsules usque ad quartum omnes a Scottis ordinati, imbuti, et illi Ecclesiæ destinati sunt. Unus etiam ex eis propter suam indiscretionem inutilis illi Ecclesiæ judicatus, ab ipsis Scottis depositus est. His omnibus Sanctus Beda attestatur in Historia Anglorum. Præsulem vero seu doctorem aliquem Scottis destinatum vel ordinatum ab Eboraca nulla docet historia, nec etiam fabula, præter supradictum Thurgod. Casset ergo Eboracensis Ecclesia Primatum Scottiæ sibi vendicando appetere; quam si haberet,—cum Præsul Sancti Andreæ summus Pontifex Scottorum appelletur, summus vero non est nisi qui super alios est, qui autem super alios Episcopos est, quid nisi Archiepiscopus est? licet barbaries gentis pallii honorem ignoret,—si inquam super hunc, qui summus vocatur Pontifex suæ gentis, prælationem haberet Præsul Eboracæ; jam non tantum Metropolitanus, immo Primas esset alterius etiam regni: quod nusquam legitur. De Eboracensis Ecclesiæ suffraganeis quid ad vos? Alias sibi querat, non de vobis. Quod si tot invenire, quot se æstimat habere debuisse, non valet; sibi imputet; non aliena invadere attemptet. Suæ quidem negligentiae ascribitur, immo et cupiditati, quod suffraganorum rato numero caret. Quippe cum regnum satis amplum et sufficiens tot Episcopis sit. Sed Præsules ipsius Ecclesiæ, cupiditate possessionum illecti, magis in destruendis quam instituendis suffraganeis laboraverunt. Unde ipsa sola Ecclesia sex Episcoporum parochias obtinens sibi vendicat, qui omnes certis Ecclesiis et cathedralis discreti erant. Prima sedes Eboracæ. Secunda ultra amnem Usæ in Ecclesia Christi prope civitatem. Tertia apud Ripum. Quarta apud Beverlie. Quinta Haugustaldensis Ecclesia. Sexta Casa Candida. Has omnes Ecclesiæ et earum parochias ipsa devorans, et in suum corpus trajiciens, sola obtinet. Vix duos sibi suffraganeos reliquit, videlicet Lindisfarnensem quæ modo Dunholm dicitur, et Cumbrensem quam Johannes modo tenet. Pictorum vero Episcopi sedes, cuius mentionem Sanctus Beda facit, ubi fuerit penitus ignoro. Ipse tamen octavus suffraganeus esse deberet. Plures vero nunquam habuit, sicut nec Lundoniensis ullum; negligentia videlicet Episcoporum et instabilitate gentis circa fidem sæpius apostatantis.

Negotium Ecclesiæ tuæ gentisque strenuus exequere; nec te præsulante libertatem dignitatemque suam amittat. Quod si hoc tibi placet, cave ne per Regem Angliæ transitum facias, et ne Eboracensis Ecclesia hoc percipiat; ne impeditur conatus tuus. Ego vero paratus sum,—quod etiam volo ut ipsi Scottorum Regi dicas,—quia si necesse fuerit, in Concilio Romano diratiocinare libertatem dignitatemque regni et Ecclesiæ Scottorum ab Eboraca. Præterea rogo et valde obsecro, ut margaritas candidas quantum poteris mihi adquiras. Uniones etiam quascunque grossissimas adquirere potes, saltem quatuor mihi adquiri per te magnopere postulo. EADMER, Hist. Nov. VI.—Alexandro illustri Regi Scotorum, EADMERUS QUONDAM ELECTUS EPISCOPUS SCOTIÆ, salutem et servitium. Pro benigna voluntate, quam se erga me vestra excellentia olim habuisse monstrare dignata est, gratias, quas possum, vobis exsolvo. Et quidem benignitatis vestræ non meritorum meorum fuisse non nescio, quod prætermisis innumeris, quos et vitæ probitas et sapientiæ atque prudentiæ illustrabat auctoritas, me in Episcopatum elegistis, et regno vestro in iis, quæ Dei sunt, præesse voluistis. Reddat vobis omnipotens Deus pro tam bona voluntate illud præmium, quod bona voluntas meretur apud Eum. Et hoc utique orat quotidie et desiderat anima mea. Quod autem res alium, quam propositi communis tenor extiterit, eventum sortita est, Dei dispositioni, quam penetrare vel subterfugere nemo potest, ascribendum fore non dubito. Quid tamen ex discessu meo a pontificatu didicerim, si facultas mihi daretur secretius vobis loquendi, sanctæ fidei vestræ notificarem. Licet enim corpore a vobis discesserim, neveritis tamen pro certo, quod fidem, quam vobis debo, Deo juvante, non violabo. Unde vestrum et regni honorem, in quibuscumque potero, si non spreveritis, fideliter quaram, Ipso teste, Qui conscientiæ meæ solus et verus inspector est. Nec hæc dico, quod multum desiderem in regno vestro episcopari; sed tamen mallem dignitatem terræ vestræ augeri quam minorari. Præterea neverit beatitudo vestra, quod omnes, qui audiunt, qualiter electus, susceptus, et pontificatu saisisitus, et loco pontificis substitutus fui, una sententia asserunt nec me juste potuisse Episcopatum dimittere nec alium me vivente juxta legem Domini substitui posse. Nec enim vir uxorem suam, aut uxor virum, ut alii nubat, dimittere legaliter potest. Sed fortassis dicitis, Tu dimisisti. Dimisi quidem, sed (quod cum pace vestra dicatur) illata vi, cui contraire nequivi. Cum enim perpes discordia et interminabiles inimicitiae mihi ex vestra parte per eos, quos vobis familiares esse sciebam, intenderentur, nisi Episcopatui funditus cederem; et his vester habitus circa me, et dissaisitio, qua me bis rebus ad pontificatum pertinentibus sine lege et judicio spoliastis, attestarentur; necessario dimisi, quod ablatum retinere non potui. Sed de istis epistolari brevitate disquiri commode non valet. Quamobrem, omissis istis, breviter suggero, quia, si in pace vestra permittitis, et opem (ut vestram regalem sublimitatem decet) ferre volueritis, ut ad vos honorifice redeam ad explendum apud vos servitium Dei et vestrum, secundum voluntatem Dei conabor iter aggredi, et in omnibus voluntati vestrae parere; nisi (quod absit) videatur voluntati Dei resistere. Quodsi amplecti minime vultis, ultra non possum. Deo causam Ecclesiae Suæ committo. Ipse videat; Ipse dispensem; Ipse, quod quisque meretur, in hoc Suo negotio cuique reddat. Ego liberavi, ut aestimo, animam meam. Ego, uti debui, coram Eo exposui causam meam, paratus in omnibus sequi voluntatem Suam. Ne tamen putetis me in aliquo velle quidquam derogare libertati vel dignitati regni Scotorum, securum vos esse volo, quia quod a me petiistis, et ego tunc quidem acquiescere nolui, aestimans aliud quam secundum quod postmodum didici aestimare debebam, de Rege scilicet Anglorum, de Pontifice Cantuariorum, et de benedictione sacerdotali, si hucusque persistitis in sententia vestra, me amplius contradictem non habetis; nec illa me a servitio Dei et amore vestro, quin quod volueritis faciam, ullo modo divellent; tantummodo alia, quæ pontificis Sancti Andreæ juri competunt, mihi licet cum vestra bona voluntate administrare. Hæc olim vobis insinuassem; sed, quia rumor quaque discurrebat vos in Angliam, postposita omni ambiguitate, tunc vel tunc aut certe tunc venturum, scribere distuli, quod magis optabam secreto vobis adfatu declarare. Sive igitur ista suscipiatis sive altiori consilio postponatis, ego quod mea refert pura et simplici conscientia feci, Ipso cuncta inspiciente et examinante Qui novit quid cuique redditurus æquo moderamine sit. Quoniam ergo in manu Ejus sunt etiam corda omnium Regum, intimo corde rogo, ut Ipse cor vestrum et actus vestros ad Se Sua gratia dirigat; quatenus et Ecclesia Sua, quæ in regno vestro peregrinatur, vestra ope in sancta conversatione de die in diem proficiat, et animæ vestrae post hanc vitam beatitudinis æternæ merces exinde proveniat. S. Andr.*, assigned to A.D. 1165 (in Ussher, Antiq. Brit. Eccl. Op. VI. 189, and Skene, 140), affirming that King Hungus founded S. <sup>a</sup> This grant is of land near Deer, and therefore in the recently formed diocese of Aberdeen, but contains a grant also of certain dues from that land to the (also recently appointed) Bishop of Dunkeld, conjecturally on the ground of the connection of both Deer and Dunkeld with S. Columba. See Stuart, Pref. to Book of Deer, pp. liv, lv, c-cii. It confirms also the history given above in p. 210 of the foundation of the see of Aberdeen. Leod abbat of Brechin occurs in other charters also (see Reeves, On the Culdees, pp. 43, 120).

Mann. p. 76.]

<sup>a</sup> That this and the following letter do not relate to the later Bishop Nicholas, A.D. 1210-1217, but are from the first Olaf of Man, A.D. 1103-1153, and that Thurstin is the Archbishop of York intended, seems almost certain, 1. because "E. abbat of Furness" must be Eudo de Sudcrval, second abbat; whereas the later Nicholas had been abbat himself; 2. because this Olaf only was contemporary with any Archbishop of York whose Christian name began with T.: 3. (which Munch notices) because Furness is mentioned in both letters and not Rushin, which latter was founded from Furness A.D. 1134 (Chron. Mann.). If this is so, the foundation of Rushin A.D. 1134, and the death of the Earl of Moray (whose son Wimund [see above, pp. 189, 190] pretended to be) in A.D. 1130, limit their date. The Chron. Mann. and Matthew Paris, in that case, ignore the Nicholas of these letters, who was probably not consecrated because Wimund was still living.

REG. PRIOR. S. ANDR.—ROBERTUS DEI GRATIA SCOTTORUM EPISCOPUS, omnibus Catholice Ecclesie filiis tam presentibus quam futuris, salutem perpetuam. Ecclesiam beati Andree Apostoli, cui auctore Deo deseruio, quum usque ad tempus nostrum permodica fuerat, Deo inspirante ampliare studuimus: sed quoniam non sufficit ad laudem nominis Domini lapidum congeriem congregare, nisi etiam procuremus uivos in Dei edificium lapides adunare, Canonicos ibidem ad Deo deseruendum sub regula canonicali beati patris Augustini constituimus. Quibus et filium nostrum fratrem Robertum in partem laboris nostri assumentes, iure pariter et nomine Prioris prefecimus. Et ad uictum Que autem donauimus et concessimus, subscribenda dignum duximus. Sunt autem hec—Barrimund, Struithin, Kinnies, Castdouenald, Drumckarach, Ledochin, Stradkines, Balhucca, Rodmanand, Pettultin, Kinastare, Chinemonie, Drumsac, Balemacdunechin, Egglesnamin, Ballothen, Sconin, molendinum de Kilremund, molendinum de Puthachin,—hec omnia cum omnibus pertinentibus et adiacentibus et appendiciis suis: et de firma Regis de Pht. i. marcam argenti singlis annis ad Pascha ad luminare Ecclesie: et unam aquam in Bereuiuich de dono Regis. De VII<sup>o</sup>. vero porcionibus, que sunt altaris Sancti Andree, ipsis canonicis ij. porciones<sup>a</sup> dedimus et concessimus, que pertinent duobus personagis que ipsi habent; et Hospitali eiusdem uille i. porcionem: quod nimurum Hospitale cum terris et possessionibus et redditibus eidem pertinentibus, eisdem concessimus in susceptionem hospitum et peregrinorum: et ad ipsum Hospitale medietatem decime carrucarum nostrarum et uaccarum et berchariarum et porchariarum et equariarum de parochia Sancti Trinitatis, et medietatem de nostro chan eius parrochie; et totam decimam de nostro chan de Bladebolg; et de aliis prouinciis et locis, undecumque fuerit allatum uel adductum ad Sanctum Andream. Molendinum etiam de Nidiu eis dedimus: et omnes libros nostros. Ista ergo et quecumque postmodum predicte Ecclesie beati Andree et canonicis ibidem Deo seruientibus uel seruituris collata fuerint, libera esse et quieta ab omni exaccione decreuimus. Hanc ergo donacionem et concessionem nostram, quicunque ipsi Ecclesie et Canonicis immunem et inconcussam conseruare adiuuerit, partem et societatem cum beato Andrea et co-apostolis eius et cum fundatoribus et defensoribus Sancte Dei Ecclesie et cum omnibus sanctis se percepturum gaudeat. <sup>a</sup> It has been rightly inferred from the mention here of the Keledean Pastoral, Gradual, and Missal, as transferred from Keledei to Augustinian Canons, that the "barbari ritus,"

<sup>a</sup> John, a Cistercian of Savigny, succeeded Wimund, according to M. Paris (p. 84); but was consecrated (as above said) by Henry Murdac Archbishop of York A.D. 1147-1154 ("Candida Casa" being plainly a mistake). If the Nicholas of Olaf's letters (above, A.D. 1131 x 1134) was never consecrated, and if the see therefore was not filled until Wimund's death in A.D. 1151, the statements of M. Paris and of the "Poetical History" are reconcileable with the other evidence. The Bull of Anastasius IV. (given further on) of A.D. 1154 seems to limit the consecration of Gamaliel to the first year of Roger's archiepiscopate, A.D. 1154. The Chron. Mann. (p. 29) ignores John altogether, and places next to Wimund "Gamaliel Anglicus genere qui jacet apud Petarborch in Anglia." See also for this last statement, Dugd. Mon. Ang. II. 362. Probably Gamaliel retired when the Norwegian Bishop Ragnald (for whom see below, p. 230) came, and lived, like many Welsh and Irish Bishops in this and the following centuries, in an English monastery for the rest of his life.

a Laurentius of Dunblane is named in the Bull of Adrian IV. of Feb. 27, A.D. 1155 (given below). He also signs a charter of Malcolm IV. which is witnessed by Ernald Bishop of S. Andrew's Nov. A.D. 1160—Sept. A.D. 1162 (Reg. de Dumferml. p. 24). If David I. founded the see, it was before A.D. 1153. In A.D. 1238 Bishop Clement of Dunblane complains, that advantage had been taken of a vacancy in the church of upwards of 100 years, to alienate the Church property, and that several Bishops appointed since that long vacancy had failed to recover it (Reg. de Aberbrothok. p. 176, and Inchaf- fray, p. xxx.). But this rather tends against than for the supposition that diocesan Bishops had existed there before the 100 years, which is obviously a round number, and probably much exaggerated. Gilbert Earl of Stratherne endowed the see before A.D. 1210 (Fordun, VIII. 73, vol. I. p. 529), and probably founded it. The ordinary title of the Bishop at first was "Episcopus Straderensis" (Reg. de Aberbrothok. p. 155, &c.), the see being probably conterminous with the earldom. See also Grub. vol. i. p. 268, note. The Chapter was Keledean (see above, p. 177).

Mureuensi, S[imeoni] Sancti Petri in Ross, et A[ndree] Catenessensi Episcopis, salutem et Apostolicam benedictionem. Quociens in aliqua Ecclesia, Diuina clementia disponente, talis pastor statuitur, de cuius discretione atque prudentia bonam fiduciam optinemus; tanto maiori gaudio ex hoc ipso replemur, quanto de omnium Ecclesiarum profectu cogimur existere studiosi. Et ideo venerabilem fratrem nostrum Rogerum, Archiepiscopum Eborac. et metropolitanum vestrum, debita benignitate suscepimus; et pallium, pontificalis scilicet plenitudinem potestatis, ipsi concessimus; atque circa nos aliquantum diu commorantem, sicut illum quem sincero cordis affectu speciali prerogativa diligimus, honeste tractavimus; et eum inter fratres et coepiscopos nostros, sicut decuit, carum habuimus. Ipsum itaque ad Ecclesiam suam cum gratia sedis Apostolice et litterarum nostrarum prosecuzione, ducente Domino, redeuntem, fraternitati vestre attentius commendamus; presentium auctoritate precipiendo mandantes, ut eum tanquam metropolitanum vestrum diligere et honorare curetis, et debitam ei obedientiam ac reuerentiam metropolitico iure, occasione seposita, deferatis. Quod si non feceritis, et ei nolueritis obedire, scire uos uolumus, quod nos sententiam, quam idem frater noster in aliquem vestrum propter hoc canonice promulgaverit, nos, auctore Deo, ratam habebimus. Dat. Rome, apud Sanctum Petrum, III. kal. Marcii. [MS. Cott. Cleop. C. IV. 19 b, sq.; and in W., I. 481.]

Simon Bishop of Moray, consecrated in that year, Cron. de Mailr.). His successor Turpin, whose name probably misled the copyist, was elected A.D. 1178. The other Bishops are correctly named.

[I. 57.]

<sup>a</sup> A.D. 1150, at the dedication of the church of Dunfermlin, Edward Bishop of Aberdeen is among the witnesses to a charter of King David (Reg. de Dunif. p. 8). This, and the above Bull of Adrian IV. of A.D. 1157, have hitherto been regarded as the earliest absolutely certain records of the see of Aberdeen. The deed in the Book of Deer, given above at its date, which mentions Bishop Nectan, now carries the certain evidence back to A.D. 1131, 1132. See also under A.D. 1125. Bishop Edward "prinus in eo templo canonicos instituit, quod Adrianus Pontifex Romanus ratum habuit" (Reg. Aberd., II. 247, from Bishop Gavin's Epistolare of A.D. 1527). There is no evidence anywhere, however, that these Canons supplanted Kedei.

Elect* him Bishop of Andree, salutem et Apostolicam benedictionem. Petitiones quas uenerabilis frater noster [Willelmus] Murenot, then whomever we elect uensis Episcopus, et dilectus filius noster Magister Nicholaus, ex parte karissimi filii nostri Malcolmi Regis Scottorum, super Ecclesia uestra nobis proposuerunt, leto animo a nobis fuissent effectui mancipate, si cum Deo et cum iustitia id fieri potuisset. Verum nos eidem filio nostro Regi utiliter satisfacere cupientes, ad reformationem ipsius Ecclesie et ad honorem regni eius, petitiones ipsas corremus et eas in statum redegimus meliorem. Quod enim nobis idem nuncii ex parte Regia proponebant, non poterat de iustitia ut diximus adimpleri; quia, cum Ecclesia uestra ad presens pastore sit destituta, confirmationem Ecclesie super his que postulabantur fieri nullatenus congruebat. Communicato autem fratrum nostrorum consilio, quia et ipsi Ecclesie et eidem Regi in maiorum fructum et commodum uidimus prouenire, iam dicto fratri nostro Episcopo, licet hoc ipse nullatenus postularet, legationem in toto regno memorato filio nostro Regi commisso duximus concedendam; ut ibidem que corrigenda sunt corrigat, et ea salubriter statuat que cognouerit statuenda: ita quidem ut si uos in personam eius uoluntate unanimi conueneritis, et idem Rex suum uoluerit impertiri consensum, in eadem Ecclesia Episcopus ordinetur. Et licet huiusmodi translationes absque consultatione et assensu Romani Pontificis non debeant celebrari, non tamen pro confirmatione sua eum redire ad sedem Apostolicam oportebit, set iniunctam sibi legationem et in eadem Ecclesia Pontificalis officii plenitudinem extunc libere exsequatur. Nos uero, post ordinationem ipsius, ei et memorate Ecclesie cui preerit, antiquas et rationabiles consuetudines et dignitates suas curabimus, auxiliante Domino, confirmare. Quod si in eum non poteritis conuenire, in aliam personam litteratam, idoneam, et honestam, communi uoto et unanimi uoluntate uos precipimus concordare, et eam studeatis uobis eligere in pastorem. Electam uero si nobis uolueritis presentare, eam et honeste tractabimus et quibus modis expedire uiderimus curabimus honorare. Extunc autem huius legatione cessante, ille qui confirmatus et consecratus fuerit, legationem per totum regnum iamdicti filii nostri Regis auctoritate Apostolica optinebit, et legationis officium libere in illis partibus exsequetur. Comites etiam et Barones et alii homines de terra Regis Scotiæ, de quibus dominus Rex habere voluerit, facient ei homagium contra omnem hominem, et fidelitatem ut ligio domino suo, sicut alii homines sui facere ei solent, et Henrico Regi filio suo, et hæredibus suis, salva fide domini Regis patris sui. Similiter hæredes Regis Scotiæ, et Baronum et hominum suorum, homagium et ligantium facient hæredibus domini Regis contra omnem hominem. Præterea Rex Scotiæ et homines sui nullum amodo fugitivum de terra domini Regis pro feloniam receptabunt in Scotia, vel in alia terra sua, nisi voluerit venire ad rectum in curia domini Regis, et stare judicio curiæ. Sed Rex Scotiæ et homines sui, quam citius poterunt, eum capient, et domino Regi reddent, vel justitiariis aut baillivis suis in Anglia. Si autem de terra Regis Scotiæ aliquis fugitivus fuerit pro feloniam in Anglia, nisi voluerit venire ad rectum in curia domini Regis Scotiæ, vel in curia domini Regis, et stare judicio curiæ, non receptabitur in terra Regis, sed liberabitur hominibus Regis Scotiæ per ballivos domini Regis, ubi inventus fuerit. Præterea homines domini Regis habebunt terras suas, quas habebant et habere debent, de domino Rege, et de hominibus suis, et de Rege Scotiæ, et de hominibus suis. Et homines Regis Scotiæ habebunt terras suas, quas habebant et habere debent, de domino Rege et de hominibus suis. Pro ista vero conventione et fine firmiter observando domino Regi, et Henrico filio suo, et hæredibus suis, a Rege Scotiæ, et hæredibus suis, liberavit Rex Scotiæ domino Regi castellum de Rokesburg, et castellum de Berewic, et castellum de Geddewrde, et castellum Puellarum, et castellum de Striveline, in misericordia domini Regis. Et ad custodienda castella illa assignabit Rex Scotiæ de redditu suo mensurabiliter ad voluntatem domini Regis. Præterea pro prædicta conventione et fine exequendo liberavit Rex Scotiæ domino Regi David fratrem suum in obsidem, et Comitem Dunecan, et Comitem Waldevum, et Comitem Gillebertum, et Comitem de Anegus, et Ricardum de Morevile Constabularium, et Nes filium Willielmi, et Ricardum Cumin, et Walterum Corbet, et Walterum Olifard, et Johannem de Vals, et Willielmum de Lindeseie, et Philippum de Colevile, et Philippum de Valuines, et Robertum Frembert, et Robertum de Burnevile, et Hugonem Giffard, et Hugonem Ridel, et Walterum de Berkeliæ, et Willielmum de la Haie, et Willielmum de Mortemer. Quando vero castella reddita fuerint, Willielmus Rex Scotiæ et David frater suus liberabuntur. Comites quidem et Barones prænominati, unusquisque postquam liberaverit obsidem suum, scilicet filium legitimum, qui habuerit, et alii nepotes suos, vel propinquiores sibi hæredes, et castellis (ut dictum est) redditis, liberabuntur. Præterea Rex Scotiæ et Barones sui prænominati assecuraverunt, quod ipsi bona fide et sine malo ingenio et sine occasione facient, quod Episcopi et Barones et homines terræ suæ, qui non affuerunt quando Rex Scotiæ cum domino Rege finivit, eandem ligantiam et fidelitatem domino Regi facient et Henrico filio suo, quam ipsi fecerunt, et quod Barones et homines, qui affuerunt, obsides liberabunt domino Regi, de quibus habere voluerit. Præterea Episcopi, Comites, et Barones, conventionaverunt domino Regi et Henrico filio suo, quod si Rex Scotiæ aliquo casu a fidelitate domini Regis et filii sui et a conventione prædicta recederet, ipsi cum domino Rege tenebunt, sicut cum ligio domino suo, contra Regem Scotiæ, et contra omnes homines domino Regi inimicantes. Et Episcopi sub interdicto ponent terram Regis Scotiæ, donec ipse ad fidelitatem domini Regis redeat. Prædictam itaque conventionem firmiter observandam, bona fide et sine malo ingenio, domino Regi, et Henrico filio suo, et hæredibus suis, a Willielmo Rege Scotiæ, et David fratre suo, et a Baronibus suis prædictis, et ab hæredibus eorum, assecuravit ipse Rex Scotiæ, et David frater ejus, et omnes Barones sui prænominati, desicut ligii homines

ROB. DE MONTE, ad an. 1175.—Rex Scotiæ pacificatus est cum Rege Angliæ hoc modo. Fecit ei homagium et ligantiam de omni terra sua, ut proprio domino; et concessit ut omnes Episcopi terræ illius, qui sunt numero decem, et Abbates et Comites et Barones, hoc idem facerent. Episcopi vero et Abbates homagium non fecerunt; sed sacramento se constrinxerunt se hoc observaturos, et quod forent subditi Ecclesiæ Eboracensi et Archiepiscopo, et illo irent causa sacrandi quotiens necesse esset. . . . Præterea Rex Angliæ dabit honores, Episcopatus, Abbatias, et alios honores in Scotia; vel, ut minus dicam, consilio ejus dabuntur. [ed. Pertz, Mon. Germ. Hist., VIII. 524.]

[COUNCIL OF NORTHAMPTON.]

A.D. 1176, Jan. 25, &c. Council of Northampton under Cardinal Uguccione S. Michael. de Petra Leonis, so far as relates to Scotland.

Hoveden, Chron.—Ad prædictum vero concilium apud Northamtun celebratum, venit Willelmus Rex Scottorum per mandatum domini Regis, adducens secum Ricardum Episcopum Sancti Andreæ, et Gocclinum Episcopum de Glascou, et Ricardum Episcopum de Dunkelden, et Christianum Episcopum de Candida Casa, et Andream Episcopum de Catenesse, et Symonem de Touni Episcopum de Murevia, et cæteros Episcopos et Abbates et Piores regni sui. Qui cum coram domino Rege Angliæ convenissent, præcepit eis dominus Rex, per fidem quam ei debebant, et per sacramentum fidelitatis quod ei fecerant, quod eandem subjectionem facerent Anglicanæ Ecclesiæ quam facere debebant, et solebant tempore Regum Angliæ prædecessorum suorum. Cui responderunt, quod ipsi nunquam subjectionem fecerant Anglicanæ Ecclesiæ, nec facere debent. Ad hoc autem respondit Rogerus Eboracensis Archiepiscopus, affirmans quod Glascuenses Episcopi et Episcopi Candidæ Casæ subjecti fuerant Eboracensi Ecclesiæ tempore Archiepiscoporum prædecessorum suorum. Et super hoc privilegia Romanorum pontificum sufficienter instructa præmonstravit. Ad quod Jocelinus Glascuensis Episcopus respondit, “Glascuensis Ecclesia specialis filia est Romanæ Ecclesiæ, et ab omni subjectione Archiepiscoporum sive Episcoporum exempta; et si Eboracensis Ecclesia aliquo tempore dominationem habuit in Ecclesia Glascuensi, constat illam demeruisse aliquam de cætero in ea habere dominationem.” Et quia Ricardus Cantuariensis Archiepiscopus nitebatur, quod Ecclesia Scottica Cantuariensi subjiceretur Ecclesiæ, effecit adversus Regem Angliæ, quod ipse permisit Episcopos Scotiæ in terras suas redire, nulla subjectione facta Anglicanæ Ecclesiæ.

Abbas, in an. 1176.—[gives the same account of the Council, but with the omission of Jocelin's argument<sup>a</sup>; and adds, that] sic finivit concilium illud; et prædicti Episcopi Scotiæ, accepta a domino Rege licentia, recesserunt. Et exinde clam miserunt legatos suos ad Alexandrum summum Pontificem, postulantes ut eos reciperet in manu sua, et tutaret a subjectione illa quam Anglicana Ecclesia ab eis exigebat. [I. 112.]

FORDUN, Scotickron., VIII. 25, 26.—Apud præmissum concilium Northamptoniæ tentum, præsentibus Richardo Cantuariensi et Rogero Eboracensi Archiepiscopis, cum utriusque regni clero, quidam clericus Scotus, Gilbertus nomine<sup>a</sup>, cum illorum Scoticanæ subjectionis Ecclesiæ conatum percepérat, et eorum verba probrosa, quæ in Scotos retorserant, audierat, furia pene prolapsus, ignitum velut ferrum excandens, suis invitis omnibus prælatis et clericis, sed ab Archiepiscopis, eum stultum ab initio putantibus, quicquid proferre voluerat monitus (qui intra se dicebant,—In naribus Scotti piper; “plenus est enim sermonibus, et coarctat eum spiritus uteri sui; en venter ejus, quasi mustum absque spiraculo, lagunculas novas dirumpit<sup>b</sup>”), hujusmodi verba cum impetu exhalavit<sup>1</sup>. —Verum, inquit, O gens Anglica, nobilis fuisses, immo ceterarum ferme regionum nobilior gentibus; sed nec tuæ nobilitatis potentiam, tuumque fortitudinis metuendæ robur, tyrannidis in audaciam, nec tuam liberalis scientiæ prudentiam versatas sophisticatam in glossulas callide transmutares. Non enim juste, veluti ratione ducta, tuos præsumis actus disponere; sed et multitudinis tuæ militum elata copiis, et divitiarum rerumque omnium confisa deliciis, adjacentes quasque provincias et gentes, non multitudine, dico, seu potentia, sed et genere te nobiliores, et temporis antiquitate digniores, perversa quadam libidine, aviditate dominandi, tuæ contendis<sup>2</sup> ditioni subdere; quibus potius, pristina si scripta consideres, humiliter obedire debueras, seu, totius saltem rancoris extincto fomite, fraterna de cetero charitate servata, perenniter conregnare. boreali parte Themensis fluvii primatum tenuit, et pontificalis apicem dignitatis, teste Beda. Qualem obsecro retributionem tanta tibi beneficia largienti retribuis? Servitutem nunquid, seu tale, veluti Iudea Christo, pro bono malum? Evidet non aliud spero. “Quomodo versa est in amaritudinem vitis aliena! Expectavimus ut faceres uvas, et labruscas produxisti! Expectavimus ut faceres iudiciū, et ecce iniquitas! et justitiam, et ecce clamor<sup>e</sup>!” Quin, tuum velle si facta sequantur, quam omni venerationis cultu tractare te decet, in ultimam reduceres et miseram servitutem. Vah, proh nefas! Quid autem miserius est? Cui beneficia excidunt, hærent injuriæ. Venenum quoque serpentes in alienam perniciem proferunt, sine<sup>5</sup> sua continent. Non ita vitium ingratitudinis continetur. Torquet ingratus se et macerat, oditque accepta quæ redditurus est et extenuat, injurias vero auget et dilatat. Veram sentio sententiam esse Senecæ, proclamantis, quod quidam quo plus debent magis oderunt, leve et debitum alienum debitorem facit gravem inimicum. Quid dicis tu, David? Fateor, retribuebant mihi malum pro bonis, et odium pro dilectione mea. Injustum est, ait Gregorius, servire tali domino, qui nullo placatur obsequio. Gilbertus,—Et tu, Ecclesia Anglicana, Quod justum est petito, si vis gaudere petito.

Et, ut ulterius verbis audientes non afficiam, quamquam non oneratus, pro libertate tamen Ecclesiæ meæ Scoticanæ, etsi totus clerus Scotiæ aliter senserint, subjectioni eorum<sup>6</sup> dissentio. Et hic dominum Apostolicum, cui immediate subjecta est, provoco; et si opportuerit me pro eadem mori, hic caput ensi submitto. Nec ulterius avisandum dominis meis hic prælatis censeo, nec etiam consentio; quia honestius est inepte petitum negare, quam longos terminos dare; quia minus decipitur, cui celeriter negatur.—Et his dictis, Anglorum quidam tam prælatorum quam magnatum, clericum, ex eo quod intrepide pro sua patria nulli blandiens animi motum eructarat, quem etiam audientium non terruit austeritas, multum collaudabant. Quin etiam Apostolicum, ob censuram rigidam quam paulo ante exercuerat in malignantes ecclesiasticam libertatem, et in Sanctum Thomam Cantuariensem, nimium formidabant. Alii quidam, quia

I. A.D. 1178-1180. CHRON. DE MAILROS, in an. 1178.—Magister Joannes cognomine Scotus ad Episcopatum Sancti Andreæ electus est; sed Rege Willelmo totis viribus electioni eius renitente, Hugonem capellanum, regia fretus potestate, in Ecclesia Sancti Andreæ ut voluit Episcopus consecrari fecit. Hinc inde gravis contentio et periculosa divisio emersit.

HOVEDEN, Chron. in an. 1180.—Eodem anno<sup>a</sup> Ricardus Episcopus Sancti Andreæ in Scotia obiit: quo defuncto, statim fit schisma de electione pontificis. Canonici enim de Ecclesia Sancti Andreæ elegerunt sibi in Episcopum magistrum Johannem cognomento Scottum: et Willelmus Rex Scottorum elegit Hugonem capellanum suum, et consecrari fecit ab Episcopis regni sui, super appellationem a prædicto Johanne electo ad dominum Papam factam. Unde factum est quod Alexander summus pontifex misit Alexim Romanæ Ecclesiæ subdiaconum in Scotiam, ad cognoscendam controversiam quæ erat inter Johannem electum et Hugonem consecratum, et ad illam determinandam.

Qui cum in Scotiam venisset, et coram clero et populo regni diu tractasset de electione Johannis et Hugonis, et de consecratione ipsius Hugonis; et cognovisset quod præfatus Johannes canonice fuisse electus, et quod Hugo post appellationem ad Romanum pontificem factam in Episcopatum Sancti Andreæ per Regem violenter esset intrusus: eum sine dilatione de Episcopatu Sancti Andreæ depositus, et perpetuum ei silentium auctoritate qua fungebatur imposuit; et electionem quæ de Johanne facta fuit confirmavit, et eum ab Episcopis Scotiæ, Rege nec prohibente nec contradicente, immo per consilium Episcoporum regni permittente, in Episcopum Sancti Andreæ consecrari fecit. Sed Rex statim post consecrationem suam prohibuit ei ne ipse in regno suo moram faceret. Hugo vero non minus gerebat se Episcopum quam antea, et asportatis secum capella Episcopali et baculo et annulo, cum cæteris quæ illicite detinebat, Romam iturus abiit. Et quia ipse asportata reddere noluit, Alexis excommunicavit eum, et summus pontifex sententiam illam confirmavit. Unde ipse in hac forma scripsit Episcopis et aliis viris ecclesiasticis de regno Scotiæ<sup>b</sup>. [pp. 208, 209; see also Bened. Abbas, I. 250, 251, 264.]

FORDUN, Scotichron. VI. Quem Alexis, domini Papæ nuncius, post multa consilia et multa gravamina, excommunicatis etiam quibusdam Regis clericis, insuper et Episcopatu Sancti Andreæ interdici comminato, sed id fieri Johanne nequaquam consentiente, convocatis quasi omnibus Episcopis, abbatibus, et notabilioribus clericis in dignitate constitutis, apud Edinburgh in ecclesia monasteriali Sanctæ Crucis die Sanctissimæ Trinitatis vj. Idus Junij [June 8, A.D. 1180]<sup>d</sup> a Matthæo Episcopo Aberdonensi<sup>e</sup> ex mandato domini Papæ Alexandri ad prænominatam sedem in antistitem magnifice consecrari fecit. Qui sic consecratus et absque Episcopatu se esse intelligens, extemplo præ timore Regis et indignatione regalium provinciam mœrens reliquit, et Romanam curiam repedando petiit. [I. 352.]

II. A.D. 1181 (?). Pope Alexander III. to the Bishops, Abbats, &c. of Scotland, and to the Prior and Canons of S. Andrew's.

The Pope by HOVEDEN, Chron.—ALEXANDER EPISCOPUS, SERVUS SER-Alexius his legate VORUM DEI, venerabilibus fratribus universis Episcopis, et declares the election of John dilectis filiis abbatibus, et aliis Ecclesiarum prælatis per Scotiam valid and commands that he constitutis, priori, canoniciis, clero, et populo Sancti Andreae, be recognized as salutem et Apostolicam benedictionem. Comperito nobis, Bishop.

quod jampridem venerabilis frater noster Johannes, nunc Episcopus Sancti Andreæ, canonice fuisse electus, et post electionem suam Hugo, appellatione interposita, in Ecclesia illa per potentiam laicalem intrusus, consecrari ausu temerario præsumpsisset; electionem ipsius Apostolica auctoritate cassantes, dilectum filium nostrum Alexium subdiaconum nostrum, sedis Apostolicæ legatum, de electione præfati Johannis cognitum, ad partes vestras direximus. Qui cum mature satis, sicut per multorum testimonia nobis innotuit, et canonice processisset; electionem ipsius canonicanam comperiens, post multiplices inducias, in quibus regiæ magnitudini detulit, auctoritate Apostolica confirmavit, præcipiens omnibus qui ad Ecclesiam Sancti Andreæ pertinerent, ex parte nostra, ut ipsi Johanni, sicut electo, obedientiam et reverentiam exhiberent. Unde cum nullus propter metum regium in manifesto obedire auderet, idem legatus non regnum, sicut de jure poterat, sed Episcopatum interdicto subjecit. Cum igitur tam ecclesiastici quam sæculares principes a carissimo in Christo filio nostro Willelmo illustri Scottorum Rege districtus adjurati fuissent de recto consilio dando, firmiter promittente ipso Rege quod eorum consilio staret, responderunt omnes tanquam unus, ut præfati Johannis consecrationem coram legato nostro et quatuor Episcopis, quinto ægrotante sed scripto consentiente, celebratam ulterius non turbaret, sed permitteret eum in pace sua sede consecrari. Inde est quod universitati vestræ per Apostolica scripta mandamus, atque sub officii et beneficii pœna præcipimus, quatenus spiritum fortitudinis induentes, ipsum Episcopum, infra octo dies post harum susceptionem litterarum, honorifice, appellatione postposita, ad sedem suam reducatis, et pro servanda ecclesiastica justitia prudenter et viriliter laboreatis, et ad placandum motum regium adhibeatis operam diligentem; atque præfato Episcopo omnem exhibeatis reverentiam et honorem, quem ipsius prædecessoribus impendistis.

[DISPUTED ELECTION TO THE SEE OF S. ANDREW'S.]

III. A.D. 1181 (?). Pope Alexander III. to the Prelates of Scotland.

Hugh has carried off the Episcopal insignia, and is therefore excommunicated. HOVEDEN, ib.—ALEXANDER EPISCOPUS, SERVUS SERVORUM DEI, venerabilibus fratribus et dilectis filiis Ecclesiarum prælatis per Scotiam constitutis, salutem et Apostolicam communicated. benedictionem. Relatum est nobis, quod cum Hugo, qui Ecclesiam Sancti Andreæ de Scotia invaserat, capellam Episcopalem, baculum et annulum, et cætera quæ irrationabiliter asportaverat, illicite detineret, eum frequentius admonitum resipiscere contemnentem, dilectus filius noster Alexius subdiaconus noster, Apostolicae sedis legatus, coram vobis et clero multo et populo, nisi infra quindecim dies ablata vel asportata redderet, vel congrue satisfaceret, vinculo excommunicationis, Apostolica auctoritate fretus, astrinxit. Ipse tamen in arrogantiæ malo perdurans, in nullo præfati legati monitis acquievit. Nos itaque sententiam de auctoritate nostra prolatam ratam habentes, universitati vestræ per Apostolica scripta mandamus atque præcipimus, quatenus præfatum Hugonem, Dei gratia freti et timore postposito, publice, nullius appellatione obstante, vinculo denuncietis excommunicationis astrictum, et sicut excommunicatum attentius evitatis, donec quæ de scriptis rebus abstulit, vel æstimationem, fratri nostro Johanni, Episcopo Sancti Andreæ, et Ecclesiæ suæ restituat, et de aliis quæ destruxit satisfactionem exhibeat congruentem. [II. 210, 211; and Bened. Abbas, I. 265.]

IV. A.D. 1181 (?). Roger of York, Papal legate, with Hugh of Durham, ordered to excommunicate King William, and to put Scotland under an Interdict.

HOVEDEN, ib.—Præterea dominus Papa concessit Rogero, Eboraicensi Archiepiscopo, legatiam in Scotia: et præcepit ei, quod ipse sententiam excommunicationis, una cum Hugone Dunelmensi Episcopo, proferret in Regem Scottorum, et regnum illius interdiceret, nisi ipse permisisset præfatum Johannem tenere Episcopatum suum in pace, et nisi dedisset ei securitatem pacis servandæ illi. Et idem Papa districte et in vi obedientiae inhibuit Johanni Episcopo Sancti Andreæ, ne alicujus amore aut timore, vel suggestione aliqua seu voluntate, Ecclesiam Sancti Andreæ, ad quam consecratus est et auctoritate Apostolica confirmatus, ausu temerario præsumeret dælinquere, vel aliam recipere: adjungens quod si attentaverit, sine exceptione aliqua auferret ei utramque. Unde summus pontifex in hac forma scripsit. [II. 211; and Bened. Abbas, I. 263, 264.]

V. A.D. 1181 (?). Pope Alexander III. to William King of the Scots.

Orders him to HOVEDEN, ib.—ALEXANDER EPISCOPUS, SERVUS SERVORUM DEI, Willelmo illustri Scottorum Regi, salutem et munitionem. Apostolicam benedictionem. Pro pace tua et libertate sollicite nos meminimus laborasse, sperantes quod ex hoc in devotione sedis Apostolice melius firmareris et cresceres, et libentius servares ecclesiasticam libertatem. Cæterum attendentes circa factum venerabilis fratri nostri Johannis, Episcopi Sancti Andreæ de Scotia, volueris usque modo inclinari, contrarium spei, quam de fervore devotionis regiæ habeamus, cogimur æstimare. Volentes tamen experiri adhuc si patientia nostra ad penitentiam regium motum adducat: magnitudinem tuam per Apostolica scripta moneamus attentius et mandamus, quatenus memorato Episcopo infra viginti dies post harum susceptionem litterarum pacem et securitatem largiaris, ita quod non oporteat eum de indignatione regia dubitare. Alioquin noveris nos venerabili fratri nostro Rogero Eboraensi Archiepiscopo, Apostolice sedis legato in Scotia, mandasse, ut regnum tuum nullius appellatione obstante subjiciat interdicto, excommunicationis sententiam in personam tuam, si desistere nolueris, prolaturus. Pro certo quoque teneas, quod si in tua duxeris violentia perdurandum, sicut laboravimus ut regnum tuum libertatem haberet, sic dabimus studium ut in pristinam subjectionem revertatur. [II. 211, 212; and Bened. Abbas, I. 263.]

HOVEDEN, in an. 1180.—Sed Rex Scottiæ in nullo volens obedire mandatis Apostolicis, expulit præfatum Johannem Episcopum Sancti Andreæ, et Mathæum Episcopum de Aberdeen avunculum ejus, a regno suo. Unde Rogerus Eboracensis Archiepiscopus, et Hugo Dunelmensis Episcopus, et Alexis Apostolicæ sedis legatus, mandatum summi pontificis prosequentes, sententiam excommunicationis dederunt in personam Regis Scottiæ, et sententiam interdicti in regnum ejus. [II. 212.] —ID. ib. in an. 1181.—Eodem anno Johannes Episcopus Sancti Andreæ sententiam excommunicationis tulit in Ricardum de Morevile constabularium, et Ricardum de Præbenda, et alios familiares Regis Scottiæ, qui pacem inter Regem et ipsum disturbaverant. Et Rogerus Eboracensis Archiepiscopus, legatus in Scotia, et Hugo Dunelmensis Episcopus, ex auctoritate domini papæ mandaverunt priori Sancti Andreæ, et personis ecclesiasticis per Episcopatum Sancti Andreæ constitutis, ut venirent ad Johannem Episcopum suum, et illi debitæ subjectionis reverentiam facerent; sin autem, in contumaces et rebelles sententiam suspensionis inferrent. Cum autem quidam virorum ecclesiasticorum de Episcopatu Sancti Andreæ metu suspensionis venirent ad præfatum Johannem Episcopum, Willelmus Rex Scottiæ illos a regno suo ejecit, cum filiis et cognatis, et etiam illis qui adhuc pendentes ab uberibus matrum vagiebant in cunis. Quorum miserandam proscriptionem et exilium, Rogerus Eboracensis Archiepiscopus et Hugo Dunelmensis Episcopus videntes, processerunt in mandatum domini Papæ; et Rogerus Eboracensis Archiepiscopus excommunicavit Willelum Regem Scottiæ, et ipse et Hugo Dunelmensis Episcopus tulerunt sententiam interdicti in totam terram Regis Scottiæ, mandantes Episcopis, abbatibus, prioribus, et cæteris viris ecclesiasticis, sententiam illam interdicti firmiter et inconcusse observare, et ipsum Regem sicut excommunicatum cautius evitare. [II. 263, 264.]

<sup>a</sup> Benedict Abbas (I. 281, 282), and the second passage from Hoveden, are the authorities for the date. The excommunication

[DISPUTED ELECTION TO THE SEE OF S. ANDREW'S.]

VII. A.D. 1181. Attempted compromise between William King of the Scots and Bishop John of S. Andrew's.

HOVEDEN, ib.—Interim Willelmus Rex Scottiæ per mandatum domini Henrici Regis Angliæ venit in Normanniam; cuius admonitione et consilio idem Rex Scottiæ concessit Mathæo Episcopo de Aberdeen, et Johanni Episcopo Sancti Andreæ, quos ipse a Scotia fugaverat, licentiam repatriandi. Convenit etiam inter eos, coram Rege Angliæ, in hunc modum; quod Mathæus Episcopus de Aberdeen libere et sine aliqua contradictione per conductum Regis Scottiæ ad sedem propriam remearet, et si qua ei ablata fuissent, restituerentur; et Johannes, qui consecratus fuerat ad Episcopatum Sancti Andreæ, propter amorem domini sui Regis Scottiæ habendum, concessit se dimissurum Episcopatum illum, si liceret ei eligere quem vellet Episcopatum de regno Scottiæ, et si Rex Scottiæ insuper dedisset ei cancellariam suam, et omnes redditus suos quos habuit ante consecrationem suam, et xl. marcas reddituum in Ecclesia Sancti Andreæ. Misit igitur Rex Scottiæ ad Alexandrum Papam nuncios suos, postulans ut ipse pro bono pacis concessisset hanc fieri sedium Episcopaliū commutationem. Sed dominus Papa hoc concedere noluit<sup>a</sup>. [II. 259, 260; and Bened. Abbas, I. 265, 266.]

HOVEDEN, ib.—LUCIUS EPISCOPUS, SERVUS SERVORUM DEI, venerabilibus fratribus Episcopis, abbatibus, clero, et populo per Scotiam constituto, salutem et Apostolicam benedictionem. Cum Regibus tanquam præcellentibus Apostolus statuerit deferendum, dignum est, et consonum rationi, ut eos tanquam filios carissimos propensius honoremus, et in devotione Beati Petri et sacrosanctæ Romanæ Ecclesiæ annuendo justis illorum desideriis attendamus. Accepimus autem, quod cum carissimus in Christo filius noster Willelmus, illustris Rex Scottorum, electioni et consecrationi venerabilis fratris nostri Johannis Episcopi inexorabiliter obviaret, obtentu litterarum sanctæ recordationis Alexandri Papæ prædecessoris nostri, bonæ memoriarum Rogerus Eboracensis Archiepiscopus, et jam dictus Episcopus, in eum et regnum et quosdam de regno sententiam excommunicationis promulgarunt. Cæterum venerabilis frater noster Jocelinus Glasciensis Episcopus, et dilecti filii Arnaldus de Melros et Osbertus Calcoensis abbates, et Walterus prior Sancti Columbae de Insula, propter hoc ad sedem Apostolicam accedentes, sua nobis assertione monstrarunt, quod Archiepiscopus excommunicationis in Regem, et interdicti in regnum, et Episcopus jam dictus in quosdam de regno excommunicationis, sententiam protulerunt; quam ex multiplici ratione retractandam fore rationabiliter coram nobis et fratribus ostenderunt. Inde utique fuit, quod præfato Regi tanquam carissimo in Christo filio deferentes, omnem sententiam jam dicti Episcopi pro præfata causa in eum vel suos vel regnum prolatam, de communi consilio fratrum auctoritate Apostolica relaxavimus; et statuimus illum et suos excommunicatione, et regnum interdicto, ex præscripta sententia nostra non teneri. Quo circa universitati vestræ per Apostolica scripta præcipiendo mandamus, quatenus ei tanquam Regi catholico, et habenti communionem Apostolicæ sedis, participare minime dubitetis; sed in omnibus illi honorem congruum impendatis. Quanto enim certiores sumus de sinceritate devotionis illius et majorem fructum Ecclesiis et personis ecclesiasticis regni sui certius proventurum, tanto amplius eum volumus in omnibus, in quibus secundum Deum possumus, honorari. #### IX. A.D. 1182. A second attempt and failure to effect a compromise.

HOVEDEN, ib.—Eodem anno Rollandus electus Dolensis, Romanæ Ecclesiæ subdiaconus, venit in Angliam, ex parte Papæ Lucii, ad pacem faciendam inter Regem Scotiæ et Johannem Episcopum Sancti Andreæ, et perrexit ad Regem Scottorum una cum Selvano abbe Rievallensi collega suo: et diutissime tractaverunt cum illo de pace facienda inter illum et Johannem Episcopum Sancti Andreæ. Ad quorum instantiam convenit in hunc modum inter Regem et prædictum Episcopum; quod Hugo abjuraret Episcopatum Sancti Andreæ, et Johannes Episcopus eundem Episcopatum quietum clamaret a calumnia ipsius, et loco illius haberet Episcopatum de Dunkelden, et omnes redditus quos ipse ante electionem suam habebat, et cancellariam Regis, et quadraginta marcatas redditus de Episcopatu Sancti Andreæ in vita sua. Hugo tamen, cum requisitus esset a domino suo Rege Scotiæ quod abjurasset Episcopatum Sancti Andreæ, respondit se malle suspicere judicium inde in Romana curia, quam sic abjurare Episcopatum ad quem ipse fuerat consecratus. Et statim litteras quas Johannes Episcopus contra eum a Romano Pontifice impetraverat, arguit falsitatis, et appellavit ad Romanum Pontificem. Unde prædictus Rollandus et Selvanus abbas, non valentes procedere prout deberent, in hac forma scripserunt summo Pontifici. [II. 270; and see Bened. Abbas, I. 289, 290.]

DICTUS ABBAS RIEVALLENSIS, debitæ subjectionis reverentiam. Cum litteras, quas Hugo Episcopus redarguerat falsitatis,

[DISPUTED ELECTION TO THE SEE OF S. ANDREW'S.]

eidem Episcopo dedissemus, et eas in quibus processus rei continetur, acceptaque a domino Rege Scottorum licentia, recedere cum festinatione vellemus; dominus Rex me Dolensem electum diligenter et affectuose rogavit, ut per dominum Johannem Episcopum transitum facerem, et ei ex parte sua Dunkeldensem Episcopatum, cum redditibus quos antea in Episcopatu Sancti Andreæ habuerat, cum augmento quadraginta marcarum annuatim percipiendarum, cancellarium quoque regiam, in signum dilectionis offerrem, adjecitque se ei et suis omnia ablata redditum, præter hoc solum, quod ad manus ejus devenisse sciebat; eosque in plenitudinem suæ gratiæ recepturum, sicut antea fuerat ei oblatum. Volebat tamen, quod idem Johannes Episcopus omnia instrumenta sua combureret, quæ super facto Sancti Andreæ fuerant a piæ recordationis Alexandro prædecessore vestro obtenta. Permittebat quoque, quod Hugo Episcopus ad Glascuensem Episcopatum transferretur, si aliter Episcopus Johannes consentire non vellet; et si fieri non posset, tamen concederet quod obtulerat, sed Episcopum Johannem non ita diligeret, nec ei plenam gratiam redderet. Quæ omnia cum præsentia domini Hugonis Dunelmensis Episcopi obtulisset domino Johanni, benigne concessit, dicens quod nunquam Hugonem Episcopum in Ecclesia Sancti Andreæ permitteret remanere. Volebatque quod instrumenta prædicta in aliquo loco reponerentur, ita quod nunquam sibi contra voluntatem regiam eis uti liceret. Sic igitur ad Regis præsentiam redeuntibus nobis, Episcopo Johanne prope Rokesburg exspectante, dominus Rex proposuit nobis, quod multum ei placeret si Hugo Episcopus posset in Ecclesia Sancti Andreæ remanere, et rogabat me ut Episcopum ad hoc inducere laborarem; et cum ego dicerem ei, quod nunquam eum de cætero super hoc rogarem, quia non poteram in hac parte proficere, dixit; “Bene credo, quod ex quo dominus Johannes ad pacem et dilectionem meam redit, hoc consideratione meæ dilectionis et ad precum mearum instantiam sustinebit, et de eo libenter cum eo loquerer;” et rogavit me Rex, ut ei consulerem quod veniret loqui cum eo. Missis igitur clericis Regis ad Episcopum Johannem, respondit quod non veniret, quia a quibusdam consiliariis domini Regis se audisse, quod dominus Rex semper ad hoc omnimodis nitebatur, ut Hugo in Episcopatu Sancti Andreæ remaneret; et si venire vellet, illi non poterant ei securum præstare conductum. Cumque illi in hæc verba redissent, dominus Rex quendam Episcopum, abbates, comites, et barones, ad eundem Episcopum transmisit, rogans

XI. A.D. 1183. Before June. Velletri. Settlement (not however accepted) of the dispute by Pope Lucius III.<sup>a</sup>

HOVEDEN, ib.—Eodem anno Johannes et Hugo Episcopi, de quibus mentionem feceramus, Velletrum venerant ad audientiam Papæ Lucii, et uterque illorum proposuit, coram domino Papa et universis Cardinalibus suis, jus quod petebat in Episcopatu Sancti Andreæ. Quo auditio, dominus Papa de communi fratrum consilio abjudicavit Episcopatum illum utrique, et ipsi in manu summi Pontificis resignaverunt præfatum Episcopatum Sancti Andreæ libere et absolute, et sic a curia recesserunt exspectantes summi Pontificis misericordiam: et post paucos dies, per consilium universorum Cardinalium, summus Pontifex reddidit Hugoni Episcopo Episcopatum Sancti Andreæ, et confirmavit; et concessit Johanni Episcopo Episcopatum de Dunkelden, cum universis supradictis quæ ei ex parte Regis Scotiæ oblata fuerant, et confirmavit. Hugo autem domum rediit, et recepit Episcopatum Sancti Andreæ. Johannes vero Episcopus recepit Episcopatum de Dunkelden: sed quia Rex Scotiæ noluit ei ablata restituere, ipse iterum movit quæstionem contra Hugonem Episcopum de Episcopatu Sancti Andreæ, sicut inferius notatum est. tumacium nequitia fortius obviare. Regia siquidem excellentia non ignorat, quam gravis inter venerabiles fratres nostros, Johannem Dunkeldensem et Hugonem Sancti Andreæ Episcopos, fuerit exorta dissensio. Et licet magnos utraque pars labores subierit et expensas, et tempore felicis memoriae Lucii Papæ, prædecessoris nostri, apud sedem Apostolicam diutius litigaverint, negotium tamen non potuit finem habere. Unde, cum iidem Episcopi nuper ad nostram præ-

Nolumus enim ut, negotio ipso diutius in suspenso manente, præscripta Sancti Andreæ Ecclesia grave rerum suarum detrimentum incurrat, sed potius, cognita veri-

Ut igitur quæ mandamus valeant sine difficultate qualibet adimpleri, monemus regiam excellentiam, et hortamur in Domino, atque in remissionem peccatorum injungimus, quatenus pro amore justitiae, et reverentia Beati Petri et nostra, in negotio illo juxta mandati nostri tenorem procedi permittas; et prædictos decanum, senescallum, et R. de Fedic, atque alios consanguineos et amicos prædicti Dunkeldensis Episcopi, et Episcopatum et alios redditus ejus, regia protectione defendas; et nec tu ipse illos in aliquo aggraves, nec sinas ab aliis aggravari. Ita quod causa ipsa valeat sine impedimento terminari, et regia magnificentia de justitiae opere apud Deum præmium indeficiens, et nomen bonum apud homines consequatur. Noveritis autem memoratis Episcopis in virtute nos obedientiæ injunxisse, ut nec ab Ecclesiis, nec a clericis sibi subditis, accipiant aliquid expensarum intuitu, quas in prosecutione memorati negotii sunt facturi, sed de propriis solummodo redditibus sibi procurent necessaria providere. Nolumus enim ut facto ipsorum Ecclesiæ, vel personæ aliae regni tui, debeant incurrire detrimentum. Regiam insuper excellentiam volumus non latere, quod supradictus Dunkeldensis ita honeste suum est negotium prosecutus, et honori regio detulit, quod nihil omnino proposuit quod in derogationem regii nominis valeat redundare, vel quo tua serenitas adversus eum beat commoveri. Unde si quid ab æmulis ejus in contrarium fuerit celsitudini tuæ suggestum, talium verbis aurem regiam non apponas. Datum Veronæ, ii. Kalendas Augusti. [II. 311, 312.]

Unde cum iidem Episcopi nuper ad præsentiam nostram accessissent, et contendissent super hoc aliquamdiu in auditorio nostro, tandem de consilio fratrum nostrorum prædicto Dunkeldensi Episcopo agendi licentiam super Episcopatu Sancti Andreæ tribuimus contra illum, et eidem Sancti Andreæ Episcopo ad propria redeundi, ad nostram præsentiam sufficienter instructo in constituto sibi termino redituro. Et ne carissimus in Christo filius noster, illustris Scottorum Rex, prosecutionem ipsius negotii sua potestate impedit, nostris eum litteris commonemus, ut in negotio illo juxta mandati nostri tenorem procedi permittat, et dilectos filios nostros, A. decanum Laodoniæ, et O. senescallum, et R. de Fedic, et alios præscripti Dunkeldensis consanguineos et amicos, regia protectione defendat, nec eos ipse in aliquo aggravet, nec sinat ab aliis aggravari. Ne igitur præscriptum negotium diutius maneat in suspenso, et Ecclesia Sancti Andreæ per hoc rerum suarum detrimentum incurrat, discretioni vestræ per Apostolica scripta mandamus, et in obedientiæ virtute præcipimus, quatenus ea, quæ vel per vos ipsos vel per alios de ipsius negotii tenore scire poteritis, redigentes in scriptum, nobis sub sigillorum vestrorum munimine designare curetis; ut nos ex vestra insinuatione instructi, consilio fratrum nostrorum adhibito, sicut procedendum fuerit, in negotio procedamus. Si qui vero in prædictum decanum, O. senescallum, R. de Fedich, vel alios Dunkeldensis Episcopi amicos, et possessiones seu alia bona ipsorum, aut Episcopatus vel aliorum reddituum ipsius Episcopi, ausu temerario manus injecerint, per censuram eos canonicam, auctoritate nostra suffulti, sine appellationis obstaculo, compescatis. Prædictis autem Episcopis ex parte nostra vetetis, quod et nos fecimus viva voce, ne ab Ecclesiis seu clericis sibi subditis accipient aliquid expensarum intuitu, quas in prosecutione memorati negotii sunt facturi; sed de propriis solummodo redditibus sibi necessaria subministrent. statuimus, sufficienter instructus ad præsentiam nostram accedat.
Quod si non venerit, ex tunc eum ab Episcopali officio, appellatione

Bishop Hugh is HOVEDEN, ib. CLEMENS EPISCOPUS, SERVUS SERVORUM deposed. John DEI, venerabilibus fratribus, Jocelino Glascensi et Mathæo

Aberdensi Episcopis, et dilectis filiis, Ermaldo Abbatи de Melros, et Bertramno Priori de Coldingham, salutem et Apostolicam benedictionem. Ne in dubitationis recidant scrupulum quæ geruntur, dignum est litterarum memoriæ commendari, et ad illorum notitiam, quorum interesse videtur, celebri ac veridica insinuatione perferri. Meminimus autem, quod bonæ memoriæ Urbanus Papa, prædecessor noster, Hugoni, quondam dicto Episcopo Sancti Andreæ, pro controversia quæ inter eum et venerabilem fratrem nostrum Johannem Episcopum vertebatur, sub excommunicationis interpositione mandavit, ut ad certum diem responsurus in jure aspectui se Apostolico præsentaret. Verum quia conscius actuum suorum, et eventum judicii reformidans, venire contumaciter recusavit; nos, et pro hoc et pro aliis multis, quæ crebrescente fama Ecclesiæ Dei scandalum pepererunt, ipsum ab Episcopatu Sancti Andreæ, de consilio et assensu fratrum, perpetuo judicavimus Apostolicæ sedis auctoritate remotum, et ab usu Episcopalis officii eo usque suspensum, donec Apostolica sedes duxerit de ipso aliter statuendum; absolventes a fidelitate subjectos, qua ei tenebantur astricti. Sane, quia vacantes Ecclesias diutius regimine pastorali carere sanctorum canonum inhibent sanctiones, discretioni vestræ per Apostolica scripta mandamus, quatenus dilectos filios nostros, capitulum Sancti Andreæ, ex parte nostra diligentius moneatis, ut sibi talem eligant Episcopum et pastorem, qui digne possit Episcopalis officii dignitate potiri, specialiter autem eos, quantum vobis possibile fuerit, inducere laboretis, ut memoratum Episcopum Johannem, virum bonæ opinionis, et pro sui honestate nobis et fratribus nostris acceptum, ad regimen et prælationem illius Ecclesiæ sine cujusquam scrupulo difficultatis assumant. Quod si omnes his exequendis nequiveritis interesse, duo vestrum ea nihilominus exequantur. Datum Pisæ, decimo septimo Kalendas Februarii, Indictione sexta. [II. 347, 34<sup>8</sup>; and Bened. Bishop Hugh HOVEDEN, ib.—CLEMENS EPISCOPUS, SERVUS SERVORUM suspended. The King to protect John. DEI, Willelmo illustri Scottorum Regi, salutem et Apostolicam benedictionem. Oculos Divinæ Majestatis offendere non modicum æstimamus, si prælatorum excessus, quibus indulgere salva conscientia non possumus, per incuriam sine coercione debita relinquimus. Unde, cum bonæ memoriæ Urbanus Papa, prædecessor noster, Hugoni quondam dicto Episcopo Sancti Andreæ, pro controversia quæ inter eum et venerabilem fratrem nostrum Johannem Episcopum vertebatur, sub excommunicationis interpositione mandaverit, ut ad certum diem responsurus in jure conspectui se Apostolico præsentaret; et ipse conscius actuum suorum, et eventum judicii non immerito reformidans, ex contumacia venire contempsit: nos pro hoc et pro aliis multis, quæ crebrescente fama Ecclesiæ Dei scandalum pepererunt, ipsum ab Episcopatu Sancti Andreæ, de consilio et assensu fratrum, perpetuo judicavimus Apostolicæ sedis auctoritate remotum, et ab usu Episcopalis officii eo usque suspensum, donec Apostolica sedes duxerit de ipso aliter statuendum; absolventes a fidelitate subjectos, qua ei tenebantur astricti. Licet enim ad honorem et profectus tuos, quantum cum Deo possumus, firmum habemus propositum intendendi, et in facto prædicti Hugonis curia Romana, non absque detractione multorum, hactenus regiæ serenitati detulerit; quia tamen clamor ipsius ad nos, indubitata fide, pervenit, nequivimus errata sua ulterius sub dissimulatione clausis oculis præterire; propter quod nihil in hac parte credimus actum, de quo debeat animus regius quacunque ratione moveri. Rogamus autem devotionem tuam, prece et affectione qua possumus, et monemus in Domino; quatenus memoratum Johannem Episcopum, quem nos et fratres nostri pro sui honestate sincero corde diligimus, pro reverentia Apostolicæ sedis et nostra, in visceribus caritatis commendatum habeas et acceptum, et remissa, si qua fuerit, conceptæ indignationis offensa, ipsum in omnibus regia clementia et benignitate pertractes. Credimus equidem, quod de industria et probitate ipsius, tibi et regno tuo, auctore Domino, multum accedere poterit incrementi; et nobis usquequam gratum existet, si optatum apud regias aures preces nostræ sortiantur effectum.

Si vero, quod absit, aliquos ex canonicis ad recipiendum humiliter et devote pastorem suum prædictum duros inveneritis et rebelles; eos instantius moneatis, ut illi reverentiam et obedientiam patri debitam exhibeant, et a maligno atque damnabili proposito suo desistant. Quod si contumaces extiterint, eos ab officio pariter et beneficio suspendatis, et excommunicationis vinculo innodetis, quo ipsos faciatis manere ligatos, donec monitis et mandatis Ecclesiasticis adquiescant. Quod si omnes his exequendis interesse nequieritis, reliqui ea nihilominus exequantur. Datum Pisæ decimo septimo Kalendas Februarii, Indictione sexta<sup>a</sup>. [II. 351-353; and Bened. Abbas, II. 64.]

* This date, and those of the two preceding letters (to King Henry and to the clergy of S. Andrew's), are added by Hoveden, and are not in Bened. Abbas, who also separates them from the preceding letters, and gives the third of them at the end of A.D. 1188. All of them, however, appear by their contents to belong to the same, and that the earlier, date; assuming them to speak of Bishop Hugh as still alive. Of course, if the Pope's words at p. 269 mean that Hugh was really dead, the date must be later than Aug. 4, 1188. But they are placed here according to Hoveden's arrangement.

XX. A.D. 1188. Final settlement of the dispute by Hugh's death<sup>a</sup>. John translated to Dunkeld; Roger made Bishop of S. Andrew's.

HOVEDEN, ib.—His auditis præfatus Rex Scottorum tandem suorum consilio et prece victus, supradictum Johannem Episcopum in gratiam suam recepit; et concessit ipsum pacifice possidere Episcopatum

[DISPUTED ELECTION TO THE SEE OF S. ANDREW'S.]

Dunkeldensem et omnes redditus, quos ipse ante consecrationem suam habuit: ea conditione, quod ipse Johannes quietum clamaret a calumpnia sua Episcopatum Sancti Andreæ. Qui licet supradictis litteris domini Papæ esset præmunitus, tamen in omnibus obedivit voluntati Regis, et quietum clamavit Episcopatum Sancti Andreæ a calumpnia sua in Dei et Regis misericordia; sciens quod “melior est bucella panis cum gaudio, quam domus plena victimis cum jurgio<sup>a</sup>. ” Hugo vero quondam dictus Episcopus Sancti Andreæ, degradatus et anathematizatus, Romam venit, qui data cautione standi judicio Ecclesiæ a domino Papa Clemente absolutus est; sed paucis supervixit diebus, nam mense Augusti tanta extitit aeris corruptio Romæ et in finibus ejus, quod multi Cardinales et ditiores urbis, cum innumera plebis multitudine, interierunt; et ipse Hugo cum tota fere familia sua<sup>b</sup>, et Henricus Dolensis electus cum familia sua, ibidem obierunt.

Rex autem Scotiæ dedit Episcopatum Sancti Andreæ Rogero, filio Roberti comitis Leicestriæ, cancellario suo, præsente Johanne Dunkeldensi Episcopo, et non contradicente. [II. 353; and see Bened. Abbas, II. 43, 44.]

<sup>a</sup> “Cellach,” who A.D. 1203 erected a monastery in Hy “without any legal right,” is conjecturally identified by Dr. Reeves (ad Adamn. V. S. Columb. pp. 411, 412) with Nicolas, who in that year became Bishop of Man. Irish ecclesiastics on that occasion successfully reclaimed their authority in the island, and pulled down Cellach’s monastery (Reeves, ib. from the Irish Annals). And we have also, in the same year, the Pope’s bull of protection for the Benedictine abbey of Hy, already referred to above on p. 230, note <sup>a</sup>. Thenceforward the island became gradually absorbed into the Scottish Church.

BENED. ABBAS, in an. 1188.—Interim Henricus Rex Angliæ misit Hugonem Dunelmensem Episcopum, et quosdam alios familiares suos, tam clericos quam laicos, ad Willelmum Regem Scotorum, ad decimas colligendas de terra sua<sup>a</sup>. . . . Cum igitur præfatus Dunelmensis Episcopus et cæteri domini Regis Angliæ nuncii venissent in Leoneis, ad locum qui dicitur Brigeam<sup>b</sup>, ad loquendum cum Rege Scotorum de decimis in terra sua colligendis, ipse Rex Scotorum cum omnibus fere Episcopis et Comitibus et Baronibus terræ suæ, et cum infinita hominum suorum multitudine, ad locum prefixum venerunt: et audita adventus nunciorum Regis causa et eorum petitione, habito cum suis consilio, respondit se non posse animos corum inclinare ad decimam dandam. Et ipsi pro se responderunt se nunquam decimam datus: nec etiam si Rex Angliæ et dominus eorum Rex Scottiæ juravissent se illam habituros, nunquam illam darent. Nuncii igitur Regis Angliæ, qui ad hoc missi fuerant, videntes se in hac parte nihil posse proficere, licet nunc blandis nunc asperis plurimum attentassent, in patriam suam reversi sunt. [II. 44, 45, ed. Stubbs; see also Hoveden.]

<sup>a</sup> Scil. the Saladin tithe, for the crusades, imposed by Henry II. and a Council of Bishops (of Normandy principally), at Le Mans, in January A.D. 1188; and also in England, at a Council at Geddington, shortly after (Bened. Abbas, II. 33; Hoved. II. 338), upon all, both laymen and clerks (except actual crusaders); to be collected by (principally) Church officials in each parish, under pain of excommunication (Bened. Abbas, II. 30, 31). William had promised it as part of the ransom for his castles, conditionally on his Barons' consent. Hoveden (II. 338, 339) gives a somewhat different version of the proposed bargain.

A.D. 1188. March 13. Lateran. Bull of Clement III. to William King of the Scots concerning the independence of the Church of Scotland<sup>a</sup>.

HOVEDEN, ib.—CLEMENS EPISCOPUS, SERVUS SERVORUM DEI, carissimo in Christo filio Willelmo illustri Scotorum Regi, salutem et Apostolicam benedictionem. Cum universi Christi jugo subjecti ad sedem Apostolicam patrocinium invenire debeant et favorem, illos tamen specialis convenit munimine protectionis confoveri, quorum fidem ac devotionem in pluribus est experta, ut ad ipsius dilectionis favorem tanto amplius provocentur, et ejus reverentiæ devotiori affectione subdantur, quanto benivolentiæ ipsius et gratiæ pignus se noverint certius assecutos. Ea propter, carissime in Christo fili, reverentiam ac devotionem, quam ad Romanam te habuisse a longis retro temporibus Ecclesiam novimus, attendentes, præsentis scripti pagina duximus statuendum, ut Scotticana Ecclesia Apostolicæ sedi, cuius filia specialis existit, nullo mediante debeat subjacere; in qua hæ sedes Episcopales esse noscuntur, Ecclesiæ videlicet Sancti Andreæ, Glasciensis, Dunkeldensis, Dumbinensis, Brehinensis, Aberdonensis, Moraviensis, Rosenensis, Katinensis: et nemini liceat nisi Romano pontifici, vel legato ab ipsius latere destinato, in regnum Scotiæ

interdicti vel excommunicationis sententiam promulgare, et si promulgata fuerit, decernimus non valere. Adjicimus, ut nulli de cætero qui de regno Scotiæ non fuerit, nisi quem Apostolica sedes propter hoc de corpore suo specialiter destinaverit, licitum sit in eo legationis officium exercere. Prohibemus autem, ut controversiæ, quæ fuerint in regno illo de possessionibus ejus exortæ, ad examen extra regnum positionum judicum non trahantur, nisi ad Romanam Ecclesiæ fuerit appellatum. Si qua vero scripta contra hujus libertatis statutum apparuerint impetrata, vel in posterum, istius concessionis mentione non habita, contigerit impetrari; nullum tibi vel ipsi regno circa hujus prærogativæ concessionem præjudicium generetur; præterea libertates et immunitates tibi vel eidem regno, vel Ecclesiis in eo constitutis, a prædecessoribus nostris Romanis pontificibus indultas, et hactenus observatas, ratas habemus, et illibatas futuris temporibus statuimus permanere. Nulli ergo hominum liceat hanc paginam nostræ constitutionis et prohibitionis infringere, vel ei aliquatenus contraire. Si quis autem hoc attentare præsumpserit, indigationem Omnipotentis Dei, et Beatorum Petri et Pauli Apostolorum Ejus, se noverit incursum. Datum Laterani, III. Idus Martii, pontificatus nostri anno primo. [II. 360, 361.]

<sup>a</sup> This Bull appears in Benedict Abbas under A.D. 1191. And Hoveden repeats it under A.D. 1191, but then as a Bull of Cœlestine III. In Fordun's Scoticbron., VIII. 68, nothing is said of Clement, but only of Cœlestine; and ib. 67, Pope Innocent's repetition of the Bull, A.D. 1208, is given at length. If it belongs to Cœlestine, the date is 1192:

see Bened. Abb., II. 234 (Stubbs ad loc.). Probably Cœlestine repeated it; as other popes did after him. It was obtained at the request of King William—"Willemus Rex Scottorum misit nuncios suos ad Clementem summum pontificem, et ab eo litteras protectionis suæ obtinuit in hac forma" (Hoveden, ib.). See also above, pp. 50, 58.

<sup>a</sup> See Stuart, Pref. to Book of Deer, pp. lviii, lix ; and Forbes' Pref. to the Book of Arbutnott, pp. x, sq. The fragment is printed here as the one still remaining portion of Scottish-Celtic liturgical documents : unless we are to add a Celtic Kalendar printed by Bishop Forbes (Kalendar of Scottish Saints, pp. 79-92, and Pref. p. xxx.). All other existing liturgical remains, known to be in, or to belong to, Scotland, either are Irish (as the Drummond Missal, and most probably the so-called Missa S. Columbani in the Advocates' Library at Edinburgh) ; or (which is the case with the far larger number) belong to the Sarum order (adopted almost throughout the Scottish dioceses about the middle of the 13th century, and at Glasgow in the 12th, see above, on p. 33) ; or are to be classed with the post-Sarum reforms of Bishop Elphinstone of Aberdeen, about A.D. 1507. See Laing's Pref. to the Aberdeen Breviary, and Bishop Forbes as above.

<sup>a</sup> Eleven verses of this, viz. the first five and the last six, are in Ussher (Brit. Eccl. Antiq., XV.; Works, VI. 230, 239), who

verses occur at the end of a Life of S. Columba in a series of lives of saints, transcribed A.D. 1180 (Reeves). They were written (as appears by the lines themselves) by one Simeon, apparently a monk of Hy, by order of King Alexander, necessarily Alexander I., A.D. 1107-1124, and before the death of his Queen (Sibylla, ob. A.D. 1122), under the direction of "William," supposed to be the Bishop William of Man, who was succeeded by Bishop Wymund, A.D. 1109×1114 (see above, p. 189). Consequently they were written A.D. 1107×1114. See Reeves (as above, Pref. p. xxx.). Inchcolm was not founded by Alexander until A.D. 1123, so that Hy must have been Simeon's monastery. They are given here as shewing the continued connection of Hy with Scottish Kings, even after the island had been (at any rate nominally) annexed to Norway and to the see of Man, A.D. 1097, and before its reconquest by Somerled, A.D. 1156.

from the MSS. of Father Marianus Brockie of S. James' Monastery at Ratisbon. It was "preserved by Father Thomson, formerly a monk of Dunfermline." Father Brockie's collections (for a Scottish Monasticon) are now at Blairs R. C. College, near Aberdeen (Report of Hist. MSS. Commission, II. 201). The Litany as it stands is (if genuine) certainly interpolated; and at best is a pre-Reformation but still 16th century version of a possibly genuine earlier Culdee document. Keledei are alleged to have been still at Dunkeld in H. of Silegrave's list of c. A.D. 1272. As the Litany now stands, it prays for King Cyric (A.D. 873-893) as though he were alive, yet commemorates King Constantine (A.D. 900-952), and more still King David I. (A.D. 1124-1153), as though already dead. And it betrays a date after Bocce (commencement of 16th century) by mentioning Crathlinthus (see Bishop Forbes, who gives also other internal evidence of a late date). On the whole, Bishop Forbes's conclusion seems fairly probable (Pref. to Kalend., &c., pp. xxxiv, xxxv)—that in its present form "it is based upon an older document," but belongs as it stands to the time of Bishop Elphinstone of Aberdeen and Bishop George Brown of Dunkeld (A.D. 1484-1515). If so, it is the latest instance extant of any record mentioning Keledei in Scotland.
